Contractors' Lockout Plan 'Irresponsible'

By AB KENT

B.C. contractors' planned lockout of 30,000 building and construction tradesmen was branded irresponsible by B.C. Federation of Labor president E. T. Staley today.

Notice to lock members of seven building trade unions out of $200 million worth of construction projects after 3:30 p.m. Monday has been given by the Construction Labor Relations Association, representing about 600 contractors across the province.

CLRA said its unprecedent move is spurred by exhorbitant union wage demands and charged that the construction unions are "not prepared to bargain seriously."

A spokesman for CLRA said contractors are "fed up to the teeth" with wildcat strikes, work interruptions and the "whipsawing of one segment of the industry against another" and are "determined to bring order to chaos."

Staley said he is upset at the move, and other labor leaders said they are surprised, although the B.C. and Yukon Building Trades Council had been briefed Monday on what contractors planned to do.

"In my opinion this is a bit irresponsible," Staley said. "I don't think they can settle a dispute by spreading it to the entire industry."

He said only the Teamsters Union, out of the seven named, have a legitimate dispute with employers. These are the drivers of cement trucks involved with Ocean Cement and Lafarge on the lower mainland.

'Not in Legal Position'

"They may be able to lock these people out legally. Are they going to lock out the carpenters, the plumbers, the electricians? They are not in a legal position to do this," Staley said.

He said there are contracts in effect with the unions, although negotiations for new agreements are in progress, with at least two near settlement.

An Amalgamated Construction Association spokesman said the machinists, iron workers and boilermakers also are nearing settlement.

A lockout could seriously disrupt these negotiations, Staley said, perhaps placing agreements in jeopardy.

"Last year everyone thought this was going to be the year of the big explosion in the construction trades, in the pulp mills, in the IWA," Staley said.

He said unionists had gone into negotiations this year with a great sense of responsibility to their unions and to the people of B.C. to try to forestall a massive confrontation.

"For the contractors to take this move now at this stage is completely irresponsible. It is amazing to me that the contractors could take this step and throw it all out the window."

Employers 'Regret Need'

The seven unions named by CLRA are the teamsters, laborers, tunnel and rock workers, bricklayers and helpers, heat and frost insulators, operating engineers and cement masons.

Charles J. Connaghan, president of CLRA said Wednesday the organization "deeply regrets having to take lockout action, but it has been clear that some unions are not prepared to bargain seriously." He said contract demands are unrealistic and that ultimately, it is the public which must pay.

Another CLRA source said the lockout notice is serious. "They intend to do it. It is no frivolous action and it sure as hell isn't a bluff."

Staley said if the notice is just a threat to the construction trades, and if the industry does not carry out its intention, "this is irresponsible too."

CLRA said the situation had been "building up for some time."

If 60 per cent of the construction industry was going to shut down within a few days in any event, by the teamsters-concrete industry standoff, and a strike of laborers also seemed inevitable and would effectively put an end to other construction, contractors felt the time to serve lockout notice was ripe.

But the move had not been made "without a great deal of

'NO JURISDICTION OVER OUR SHIPS . . .'

Washington Rejects Canada's Arctic Claims

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. state department rejected today the idea expressed in proposed new Canadian Arctic legislation saying: "The U.S. does not recognize any exercise of a coastal state's jurisdiction over our vessels on the high seas."

State department spokesman Robert McCloskey added that the United States "does not recognize the right of any state unilaterally to establish a territorial sea of more than three miles or exercise more limited jurisdiction in any area beyond 12 miles.

"Therefore," he added, "we regret the introduction of this legislation by the Canadian government which . . . constitutes a unilateral approach to a problem we believe should be resolved by co-operative international action."

REFERS TO BILLS

The spokesman was commenting on two bills that received first reading in the House of Commons Wednesday.

One would push the Canadian territorial sea to 12 miles from the present three. The other was aimed at preventing an oil spill in the delicate Arctic environment.

At the same time the Canadian government announced that it had served notice at the United Nations that it would not recognize jurisdiction of the International Court of Justic in any claims that might arise from the pollution bill.

McCloskey said it is "a most complex issue" and that his statement today allows for further contacts with the Canadian government.

He said the U.S. and the Canadian governments "have discussed these issues over a long period of time" and that the "Canadian government is fully aware of our views."

He declined to be drawn into specifics on the degree of consultations on the two bills.

IS QUESTION MARK

Some observers in Ottawa were keeping a long-range eye focused on the U.S. supertanker Manhattan, now on its second voyage into the Canadian Arctic to test ice conditions there. It's being suggested that the Manhattan could conceivably turn around and head back to a U.S. port in view of the Canadian initiative.

If this happened—it presumably would be at the instigation of the U.S. government. If the vessel proceeds into the Arctic, it may be a tipoff that Washington will continue trying to avoid a direct clash with Canada on the sovereignty issue.

Officials here insist that only one of the two bills given first reading Wednesday involves directly an assertion of Canadian sovereignty, though Canada continues to maintain its claim to sovereignty over the entire Arctic region.

The bill in question is an amendment to the Territorial Sea and Fishing Zones Act of 1964, and extends Canadian territorial waters to 12 miles from the nearest coast. Until now, Canada has claimed a three-mile territorial sea, with an additional nine miles reserved for fishing purposes to Canadians.

NOT PRECEDENT

The U.S. follows the same three-plus-nine principle. Fifty-seven other countries, however, claim a territorial sea of 12 miles or more.

One important effect of the change introduced Wednesday would be formally to proclaim Canadian control over Barrow Strait, a key channel on the eastern side of the Northwest Passage.

Canada would grant foreign vessels innocent passage through the strait — as through all its territorial seas — but would reserve the right of inspection to see that any given voyage is, in fact, innocent.

This means, in the context of the government's current main preoccupation, the right to see that the vessel concerned is adequately equipped with pollution-safety devices.

Bail for Crux Almost Complete

VANCOUVER (CP)—A. G. Duncan Crux, former president of Commonwealth Trust Co. who faces fraud and theft charges, was expected to be freed on $100,000 bail today, his defence counsel said Wednesday night.

Lawyer Jack McGivern said $75,000 property bail was posted Wednesday and the remaining $25,000, from an unidentified bondsman, was to be processed today.

Wave of Anger Sweeps Egypt

By REUTERS

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser faced strong pressure today for reprisal air strikes against Israel as a wave of anger swept Egypt after a bombing raid on a primary school in which at least 30 children died.

Egypt accused Israel of barbarism after bombs and rockets ripped into a little Nile Delta primary school just after classes began Wednesday. The single-storey stone building was reduced to rubble, causing the highest casualty toll involving children since the 1967 six-day war.

One teacher also died and another 40 children and 30 adults were injured in the Israeli strike at Bahr el Bakr, 20 miles west of El Kantara on the Suez canal.

Observers here believe the raid is sure to increase demands — which Nasser said after the bombing of a metal factory in February he found hard to resist — for retaliation against similar targets in Israel.

Reporters who went to Huseiniya, near Bahr el Bakr, saw the badly mutilated bodies of the dead children, apparently aged from eight to 14, as weeping parents collected them from the mortuary.

NO TARGETS

Egyptian officials said there were no military targets near the school and denounced the raid as "another act of barbarism." In Tel Aviv, Israeli Defence Minister Moshe Dayan said that if the children were hurt during the raid they must have been inside the military installations that served as a target.

Earlier, an official Israeli announcement said photographs of the target before and after the attack "showed that clear hits were sustained only on military objectives."

STORE OWNER CHARGED IN COWICHAN DEATH

LAKE COWICHAN — RCMP officers here have charged a store operator with criminal negligence following a fatal shooting early today.

Dead is Stanley William Bigcharles, 21, of Haney, employed as a tree planter.

Charged with criminal negligence causing death is Helmut Berthold George Merkel, 42, whose furniture store is on the main street here.

Initial reports on the incident were sketchy but informants said five people were involved in an alleged break-in at the rear of the store, prior to the shooting.

Police, who are continuing the investigation, have seized a rifle.

Negro MP Favors Anti-Hate Bill

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The Commons continued its debate on the government's anti-hate bill today but a dramatic speech by Parliament's lone Negro member earlier will likely remain the highlight.

Conservative Lincoln Alexander, formidable debater from Hamilton West, is among other things, an extremely popular member of his party.

In clearly the most moving speech so far in the debate, he told his colleagues he wants to see the bill become law.

"I know a little about the black man's position because I am black and proud of it."

And in supporting the bill, Alexander, a lawyer, said he was not speaking as a Conservative or as a member of any political group.

"I am thinking about this problem as a man whose conscience is being affected, as a man who has some awareness of what it means to be a member of a minority group."

GETS TOTAL ATTENTION

For the first time in the debate, there was absolute silence in the chamber, as Alexander, a tall, powerful figure replied to complaints that the bill would affect freedom of speech.

"Mr. Speaker, what does a mother say to her child who comes running home crying

Cambodians Say 300 Cong Killed

Times News Services

Cambodian troops killed 300 Viet Cong guerrillas in strategic Svey Rieng province today after being battered and driven back Wednesday during heavy fighting, official sources said here.

Only light casualties were reported among Cambodian local militia and regular army troops took part in the battle in the important province bordering South Vietnam, the sources said.

The reports came as the Cambodians stepped up military activities in the province, launching a big push against the Viet Cong around the provincial capital of Svey Rieng. The Cambodians are trying to edge the Viet Cong from the province and recapture the border post of Bavet and the village outpost of Chi Phu.

Cars attempting to leave Svey Rieng town in the direction of the fighting were turned back Wednesday as refugees streamed along the road from Chi Phu. Journalists returning to Phnom Penh Wednesday night said all people of Vietnamese origin were being searched in Prasaut, midway between Svey Rieng and Chi Phu.

The sources said the Viet Cong were resisting the Cambodian campaign to oust them despite the use of MiG-17 aircraft to strafe them.

An estimated 20,000 Cambodian troops are sweeping the area, where the Viet Cong have long been entrenched and supplied through the port of Sihanoukville.

Greene Says U.S. Lags

TORONTO (CP — Federal Energy Minister J. J. Greene charged Wednesday night that the United States is lagging behind Canada in efforts to stop pollution of the Great Lakes.

Greene said in an interview that lack of action by the U.S. is "frustrating for Canada which does only 10 per cent of the polluting in the lakes."

He said he will ask U.S. officials to hold an immediate top level conference to discuss the pollution.

Greene charged that some U.S. cities on the lakes still are dumping raw sewage into the lakes.

He said Ottawa's gradual ban on detergent phosphates is a "futile gesture if Americans continue to put no limitations on them."

A treaty between Ottawa and Washington may be necessary to overcome pollution, said Mr. Greene, who was here for a federal-provincial conference on mercury pollution of the lakes.

CONTROL COUNCIL

In Washington today President Nixon established a national industrial pollution control council made up of 53 United States industrialists.

He said in a statement the group will "provide a means by which the business community can help chart the route" for co-operative industry-government efforts to cope with environmental problems.

Chairman of the group is Bert S. Cross, 64, of St. Paul, Minn., chief executive officer of Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans will keep an eye on the work of the council. He will name additional members later.

Nixon said the council "will allow businessmen to communicate regularly with the president, the council on environmental quality and other government officials and private organizations which are working to improve the quality of the environment."

FREE-SWINGING CONSUMERS' SESSION

Deceptions: Take Your Pick

By JACK SCOTT

New legislation covering food packaging and labelling is in the works at Ottawa, but no amount of law-making can equal the shopper's Golden Rule: "Don't hand over your dollar until you get what you want."

That was the message that strengthened the morale of some 250 women and a scattering of men—three times the number that had been expected—when the Greater Victoria School Board's adult education division joined with the Victoria branch of the Consumers' Association of Canada last night in a free-swinging attack on the high cost of groceries.

The reassurance came from Lois Smith, British Columbia consultant for the Department of Corporate and Consumer Affairs, whose life, she confessed, is tuned to a continuous bleat of protest from consumers demanding fair play in the market place.

Packed House

The slight, stylish troubleshooter for Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Ron Basford told a packed audience at the Institute of Adult Studies: "You needn't feel defeated. There is a way of getting satisfaction by individual action. But there's no law that will protect us from our own gullibility.

Her words were echoed by E. L. Devlin, British Columbia regional director of the Food and Drug Directorate.

Said he: "There's a great deal of protection on the books—standards must be met on everything from rye whisky to mayonnaise—but the consumer must learn to search it out and use it. Besides that, there's no greater weapon than the customer's displeasure."

Some of that displeasure was evident by a wide-ranging barrage of questions to a panel of experts and an ominous murmur of approval when Mrs. Norma Morriss, former provincial government nutritionist, gave examples of what she called "The Great Supermarket Hoax."

"Involved and meaningless information on packages," said Mrs. Morriss was the main reason why housewives are unable to fulfill their responsibility as selective, informed, value-conscious shoppers.

Mrs. Morriss brought her own illustrated groceries to the meeting to help demonstrate commonplace problems in the marketplace.

One can presented a full-color rotagravure of spaghetti and succulent meat balls—but there were no meat balls inside. Another illustrated mouth-watering slices of chicken that turned out to be chopped-up bits and pieces inside.

'You Don't Know'

A box of corn flakes, labelled "the all-time favorite, fortified with three essential vitamins" was offered as an example of irrational information. Said Mrs. Morriss: "There are 88 different kinds of cereal in my market. No women has the time, the patience or the guidance in the face of this tremendous proliferation to know which is the best value. You just don't know what you're reading."

A behind-the-scenes expert

GETTING THE MESSAGE on the art of consumerism, an unexpectedly large turnout of shoppers Wednesday night heard a panel of experts offer guidance on how to stretch a dollar. The Focus on Food Forum, jointly sponsored by the Greater Victoria School Board's adult education division and the Greater Victoria branch of the Consumers Association of Canada, aired the complaints of harassed housewives and offered a variety of solutions for The Supermarket Blues.

soul-searching," the spokesman said.

An estimated 6,000 Greater Victoria construction workers would be hit by an industry shutdown, those working on institutional projects likely to be first affected, followed by larger projects such as the city's swimming pool, big apartment blocks and shopping centres.

Major work worth about $25 million is in progress or out to tender in this area.

Doug Fraser, secretary of the building trades council, Vancouver-New Westminster and district, said the action sounds the death knell for the recently-formed CLRA.

"At the sign of the first problem, which isn't really too serious, they take such drastic action," he said.

Connaghan said the CLRA represents 70 per cent of B.C. contractors and the membership voted unanimously to serve lockout notice. He said it is CLRA policy that if one member is struck, the others will lock out all other trades.

Dan O'Rielly, president of the B.C.-Yukon Trades Council, which has about 100 union locals as members, representing about 70,000 workers, said the council would meet today.

"Under the new B.C. Mediation Act, as long as negotiations are going on, strike action or lockout action should not be taken," he said.

"I didn't think the industry had reached this stage of breakdown."

O'Reilly said that regardless of the CLRA's actions, the B.C. construction industry will be closed down unless settlement is reached in the current wage dispute between the teamsters union and B.C.'s two biggest cement producers, Lafarge Cement and Ocean Cement Ltd.

Earlier this week, teamsters walked off the job at Lafarge Cement operations in the lower mainland and Ocean Cement served lockout notice on 200 teamsters.

Connaghan said the lockout notice is designed to show the unions the companies are "all through with light-hearted negotiations."

"This year we have been presented with demands ranging as high as a 105-per-cent wage increase," he said. "The lowest demand was for 40 per cent over two hears."

Trade and Industry Minister Waldo Sikillings said today the threatened shutdown of British Columbia's construction industry could lead to the collapse of the "entire fabric" of the provincial economy.

"You throw 30,000 men out of work and it means the entire fabric of our whole economic system collapses," the minister told reporters before entering a morning meeting of the provincial cabinet. "You cannot have 30,000 men out of work for any length of time and not feel the pinch in every sector of our economy." Skillings said he is hopeful that management and labor will seek help through the mediator to avert a shutdown.

"I hope both will be responsible and sit around the bargaining table," he said. "I hope that reason will prevail."

because his skin is black, or cries when he goes to bed at night because he is a member of a minority group?

"Does she tell him that freedom of speech is paramount."

When Alexander finished his speech there was a wave of applause from all sides of the House. He was congratulated, and sent notes, from all corners, and some who came to shake his hand were strong opponents of the bill as it now is written.

"After a speech like that," said one Conservative MP, "it's difficult to give a hell-for leather speech against the bill."

GOING ROUGH

However, the opposition to the bill, which is not against the principle of the measure, continued through the third day. At the end of Wednesday's sitting, the debate still centred on an amendment proposed by Eldon Wooliams (PC — Calgary North) that would nullify a major portion of the measure.

If the bill dealt with any other subject, said one MP, "we would fight like tigers." But when the measure concerns protection for minority groups, "it's awfully easy to be misunderstood."

Opponents Wednesday repeated their argument that it may threaten free speech while pursuing the impossible goal of legislating love.

Bank Robbers Remanded For Sentence

Two men, both admitted bank robbers, appeared in court today and were remanded by Judge William Ostler until later this month for sentence.

Jon D. McDermott, 27, of Burnaby, was to be sentenced for six armed holdups he pleaded guilty to in Victoria Provincial Court last week but his pre-sentence report was not complete.

He was caught in a Saanich police in a roadblock March 31 shortly after he robbed the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce at Burnside Plaza of $1,754.

John Alan King, 25, of 260 Gorge, appeared for a preliminary hearing on a charge of robbery but decided to change his plea to guilty.

Police testified that King entered the Toronto Dominion Bank, 630 Yates, about 3:10 p.m. Feb. 20 and handed a note to a teller on a cash withdrawal form.

The teller handed over $1,165 cash in a brown paper bag and King fled the bank.

. . . ARCTIC

"If they go through the passage they go through subject to Canadian authority," said a government spokesman.

The U.S. holds that the Northwest Passage is an international waterway, with ships of different countries having the right of free and unfettered transit through it.

IS BROADER BILL

The second bill placed before Parliament is designed to prevent pollution of the Arctic waters as a whole. Its application will be from the 60th parallel of north latitude — the border between the four western provinces and the Yukon-Northwest Territories — all the way to the top of the Canadian archipelago.

Except in the narrow straits between Canada and Greenland, its sway will also extend 100 miles out to sea.

Though a vessel caught polluting any part of this huge area will be subject to arrest, and its operators subject to damage liability, the measure is not an assertion of sovereignty, said the spokesman.

Rather, it represented an "extension of jurisdiction."

Until the last year or so, few Canadians ever dreamed that the Arctic could become a focus of international dispute.

It had always been taken for granted that the water and ice between the Arctic islands, as well as the islands themselves and the seabed, belonged to Canada.

NO CHALLENGE HEARD

As far as anyone here knows, there is still no challenge from any country against Canada's claim to sovereignty over the islands and the seabed between the archipelago islands.

The discovery of oil in Alaska, however, and the sudden interest of U.S. petroleum firms in opening a tanker route through the Northwest Passage, changed the picture in respect to waterways.

Until now the passage had never acquired the status of an international strait, either by usage or by international law.

Ottawa officials emphasize that Canada is not trying to prevent the development of the passage as a trade route.

Its concern has been to maintain its position in the passage and in the Arctic generally while trying to ensure that the Manhattan's pioneering forays do in fact take place.

Thus on the one hand Canada provided icebreaker assistance for the big ship's epic journey though the passage last summer and is doing the same for its less ambitious voyage to the eastern Arctic, now just beginning.

And on the other hand, Ottawa has insisted that the Manhattan on its present voyage meet pollution-safety standards set by the Canadian government, with on-board inspection by Canadian experts before the voyage began.

Parade of Protests Against Tax Reform

OTTAWA (CP) — Imperial Oil Ltd. of Toronto, biggest petroleum corporation in Canada, complained Wednesday that government proposals would raise its tax bill and possibly kill such projects as development of the Athabasca oil sands in northern Alberta.

Imperial joined a parade of protesting companies before the Senate banking committee in a study of government tax-change proposals presented last November.

W. O. Twaits, Imperial's president, zeroed in specifically on proposals to abolish in stages the present three-year tax holiday for new mines and oil wells and to change the system of applying another special tax relief known as depletion allowance.

"Taken together, the two proposals, if enacted, would so reduce the attractiveness of our oil sands project that they would almost certainly kill it and in so doing largely eliminate any chance of the further development of this mammoth mineral resource," said Mr. Twaits.

Imperial has a 30-per-cent interest in Syncrude Canada Ltd., which is engaged in a $200,000,000 project to extract oil from the Alberta sand deposits.

Imperial, with annual sales of about $1,500,000,000 and profits of $100,000,000, said it has calculated the government proposals would increase its tax bill by about 25 per cent—to $37,000,000 from $29,000,000 in 1969 terms.

'Fairer System'

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress gently resisted suggestions from the Senate Thursday that organized labor should make common cause with business interests against some features of government tax-change proposals.

"The better off industry is, the better off the worker," said Senator John Connolly (L—Ontario). "It seems to me you have a community of interests with business."

CLC President Donald MacDonald, presenting views about the tax proposals to the Senate committee on banking, trade and commerce, agreed labor favors a healthy economic climate, but said it is impossible to generalize that all industry deserves special tax favors.

Some groups opposed to the tax proposals had an approach "diametrically opposed to what we advocate"—a fairer tax system based on ability to pay.

Some of the anti-change agitation is a campaign to preserve special privileges under the tax law and even to extend such privileges, Mr. MacDonald said.

Kinsmen Plan Mini Session

DUNCAN — A crowd of about 200 Kinsmen and their wives from all over lower Vancouver Island are expected at a mini-convention to be held here Saturday and Sunday, convention chairman Gordon Gurski said today.

The convention is to celebrate the 50th anniversary of Kinsmen, the only completely Canadian service club.

Water Color Exhibition

An exhibition of watercolors by artist Jack Shadbolt will open at the Print Gallery, on Wharf Street, Saturday.

Shadbolt, a former Victoria resident, has taught at the Vancouver School of Art and recently had a large retrospective collection shown at the National Gallery in Ottawa.

His Victoria presentation will include a new land section series and a reflected land series — about 40 pictures.

The exhibition will run until May 2.

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

Scientists and doctors take note of the weather when they chart the incidence of flu as the disease passes over our continent. Although there still is plenty of it going around this late in the season, the flu virus doesn't really have a bonanza time of it as it seeks to live and prosper.

Just like people and everything else in the world, virus-induced diseases are influenced by the changes in temperature and humidity that accompany the changes in season. It is probably true that the flu virus survives and propagates best in cold weather. But it doesn't do so well when the relative humidity is high because the influenza virus decays more rapidly then.

The transmission of flu virus infection is reduced in wet weather when the relative humidity is greater than 50 per cent.

TRINITRON® COLOR the only difference that really matters.

When it comes to color, there's a lot of talk these days about better TV pictures—better because they're brighter.

We'd like to point out that brightness is only half the picture. Sharpness is every bit as important.

That's why we developed Trinitron—to make the image brighter and sharper. We did it by shooting all our color beams through the centre of one big electron lens—not one color through each of three small lenses like the others do. Our color beams don't diffuse; they focus sharply. The resulting image is sharper—and brighter—than any other color TV. At any price. In any size.

What's more, Trinitron circuitry is all solid state, which should eliminate 70 percent of service calls.

Before you buy, turn on Trinitron at your TV dealer's. Compare its performance with other sets in the store and see for yoursell why Trinitron Color is the only difference that really matters.

Blacks Condemning Smith But Doing It Nervously

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (WP) — Four hundred heads pivoted in a single motion as Edward Watunga, a candidate in Rhodesia's "other election" called Prime Minister Ian D. Smith "a mad man drunk with political power, who must be brought down."

The Africans who had crowded into the dimly lit Cyril Jennings Memorial Hall Tuesday night riveted their nervous gazes on the three white men standing at the rear of the room. When the policemen made no move, they turned back to cheer Watunga as he promised to work for "equal opportunity for every man, black or white."

Most of the attention given to Friday's national elections here has centred on the strong bid by Smith's Rhodesian Front Party to retain all of the 50 seats it has reserved for whites in parliament.

More Sparks Than Expected

But in the dusty African townships around the modern, bustling centre of Salisbury and Rhodesia's other urban areas, the focus is on the 34 Africans who are fighting for 8 elective parliament seats that Smith's regime has set aside for black men.

The campaign of men like Watungu is producing more sparks than many Rhodesians, white and black, had expected.

Watungu's attack on Smith was an exceptionally strong one for Arica, where many countries equate personal criticism of a leader with treason.

The white police, who came to take notes on Watunga's speech, made in English so they could understand it, made no move against him.

They could arrest him later, of course, under any of several laws at their disposal. But for the moment there is a remarkable amount of freedom of speech for black and white candidates who disagree with the government's plans to introduce more segregation into Rhodesian life.

Equally remarkable, in the view of some observers, is the response the African candidates are beginning to get. Watungu was lustily cheered as he condemned the Smith regime's new constitution as creating "a little heaven for white men and a barren hell for Africans."

Watunga also drew ovations when he told the crowd that "Smith's little heaven is temporary. We must fight for majority rule and fight until we die if need be."

The Smith government contends that the majority of Rhodesia's 4.8 million Africans are content to be governed by the country's 228,000 whites. Smith claims that most Africans support his government.

African nationalists outside Rhodesia and citizens here dispute this. But many of them have dispaired of creating political awareness among the African population, which has seen its leaders jailed, or forced into exile or co-operation with the Smith government.

"It is things like this that make us think that the Smith government is moving the country toward apartheid," says another African candidate, Gordon Chavunduka, a lecturer in sociology at Salisbury's multracial University College.

"They are insulting and humiliating us," he continued, pointing to an indication by Smith that multiracial swimming pools are to be abolished. "We never went to them anyway," Chavunduka said. "I don't even know where one is. But this takes away any choice, any freedom."

His Heaven Is Temporary

There are signs that this year's campaign, much of which has centered around race, has helped a little to unite the badly divided African community against Smith.

The election itself marks a turning point for the two races.

For the first time, the government has forbidden Africans to vote for white candidates and vice versa. In the past, voters in theory were divided into two multiracial categories by education and income qualifications.

SMITH
. . . watching, waiting

In fact, almost all the small number of qualified African voters were segrated in one category. But race was not an officiallly recognized voting qualification, as it is now.

Chavuduka, who received degrees from UCLA and Manchester University, is probably the most outspoken of the Arican candidates. "majority (African) rule will come here sooner or later. The Rhodesian front will end up in disaster. We should have one man one vote right now."

Chevunduka asserts that his National Peoples Union Party has 18,000 members. It has fielded six candidates for the eight seats. "The government is letting us speak out because they do not consider us a danger. If they thought we were becoming a danger, they would probably lock us up. We can see jail in the future."

Watunga, a dapper accountant in his forties, is a member of the multiracial Centre Party, which is seeking all eight elective seats. The balance of the African candidates are mostly independents.

"There are too many people standing who just want the salary," says Chavunduka. "It shows that we are still divided."

Smith's government has tried to emphasize the divisions between urban and rural Africans. In addition to the eight elective seats, there will be eight other African candidates chosen by tribal chiefs who are appointed and paid by the government.

The African candidates may have a tough time getting the urban vote out, despite whatever resentments may be building up against the Smith government. There is a deep-rooted antipathy to elections now among many Africans here.

Not Considered A Danger . . . Yet

This goes back to the first years of the 1960s when some Rhodesian leaders such as Joshu Knomo, and Nbanbanigni Sithole, thought independence was around the corner and organized boycotts of the Colonial elections that brought Smith to power.

Elections are still viewed by most Africans here as "white man's elections" and since Nkomo and Sithole are in detention, many view any candidates as "stooges" for Smith.

Bonding Ex-Convicts

TORONTO (CP) — A prison record no longer bars a man automatically from being bonded for employment.

John Trantom, an insurance executive and a director of the John Howard Society of Toronto, told a conference on rehabilitation of criminals Wednesday that many insurance companies in Canada have begun bonding persons with criminal records.

Mr. Trantom is assistant provincial manager of Guardian Royal Exchange Group Ltd.

Until 18 months ago, he said, insurance companies considered a prison record sufficient evidence of moral delinquency to prevent bonding.

A bond is often required by such employers as financial institutions as insurance on the trustworthiness of an employee. In effect, a person with a criminal conviction—even for a crime totally unrelated to the handling of money—was unbondable.

Psychiatrists 'A Threat To Freedom'

TORONTO (CP) — An American psychiatrist said Wednesday night psychiatrists pose a threat to freedom when they convince courts to lock up people they diagnose as insane.

Dr. Thomas Szasz of Syracuse, N.Y., told a lecture group at the University of Toronto that people who should not be jailed can spend most of their lives behind bars because psychiatrists have judged them insane.

"It's a lie to call a place a hospital when someone can be held there against his will," he said. "Let's call them prisons."

He said Sirhan Sirhan, facing execution for the murder of Senator Robert Kennedy, was treated unjustly by psychiatrists.

"There was a man examined by psychiatrists he didn't want. . . . He's an Arab patriot—and I can say this because I'm Jewish — and he was examined by Jewish psychiatrists.

"They didn't say he killed Kennedy because Kennedy was in favor of sending planes to Israel but because he was crazy. They even tried to strip him of his patriotism."

Singapore Runs Out Hippies

SINGAPORE (CP-Reuters) — The government, in another attempt to create what it calls the "rugged society," ordered immigration authorities today to turn away anyone who looks like a hippie.

But a group of six Canadian, American and British men who arrived by ship from Indonesia Wednesday managed a grant of three days residence after they had been refused entry.

The government order followed a series of police raids this week on boarding houses frequented by penniless hitchhikers and students.

A government statement said resident hippies were being dispersed and immigration officers were told hippies "should be helped to their destination."

In the last two days, the Canadian, British and Australian high commissions reported receiving complaints from their citizens picked up in the police swoops.

But the high commissions won the three-day reprieve today for the six Canadian, American and British travellers. All but one were professional men—but two had beards.

Their spokesman, Howard Oxley, 25, an Ottawa economist, told reporters:

"We are definitely not hippies or shaggy-looking hitchhikers. We are conservatives and consider ourselves stable. We can't see why we have been refused entry."

The Associated Press identified the other Canadians as Randolph Scott, 23; William Genge, 26, and Larry Jones, 22. It gave no hometowns.

Hurtled Into Space

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (WP) — Two diamond-shaped watchdog satellites hurtled into space Wednesday to join a network of satellites policing the world for any violations of the 1962 atomic test ban treaty.

Roaring off launch pad 40 just before dawn, an Air Force Titan 111-C lifted a pair of 770-pound satellites, called Velas, high above the earth. Then at 11:01 a.m. EST the two craft were separated and rocketed into two different orbits that will take them around the earth once every four and one-half days at a distance of 70,000 miles.

The two Velas (the word means "vigil" in Spanish) launched Wednesday join 10 Velas already in deep space.

A Good Forward Step

CITY-CORE PROPERTY OWNers who last Tuesday gave 90 per cent approval to a referendum plan calling for more parking accommodation did themselves a good turn and at the same time earned the gratitude of the car-driving public and tax-payers in general. Half of the eligible 165 voters cast ballots to give the green light to a $1.5-million program of construction for a parking building on Johnson St. and additions to the existing facilities on View and lower Yates Streets.

The additional spaces are needed now and will be even more necessary in the very near future. The business-property owners who have guaranteed the costs should find that the new facilities, like the previous constructions, will soon pay their way.

It is heartening to know that the downtown businessmen have thus affirmed their faith in the future of the city centre, and that they are prepared to back their judgment with cash. It indicates, too, a good deal of organization and preparation for the vote by business leaders who are alive to the need for attracting purchasers into the area: An active and co-operative business community is essential to the progress of any city. That only half of the eligible voters turned out may be explained in part by the number of property owners who live elsewhere.

A valuable by-product of the Johnson Street parking approval is that this marks a step in the broader plan for further improvement of the 700-block on Yates Street and creation of a pedestrian mall and plaza in the centre of the area bordered by Yates and Johnson Streets. This project, publicized earlier, should add an attractive asset to the business district by widening and decorating the Yates Street sidewalks and rejuvenating an unsightly back-alley section into a pleasant and revenue-producing feature.

It is to be noted that although these plans require city council approval and support, they are essentially the product of the businessmen concerned, who now find themselves in the forefront of the effort to make downtown Victoria an attraction for shoppers and strollers and a pleasant place to be.

Two Down . . .

ALTHOUGH NUMEROUS REASons were advanced by senators opposing the elevation of Florida's Judge Carswell to the United States Supreme Court, his rejection, like that of an earlier nominee, Judge Haynsworth of South Carolina, is a much greater blow to President Nixon than to either of his proposed incumbents. As Mr. Nixon himself said two weeks ago, the issue of Judge Carswell's approval by the Senate transcended "this or any other appointment."

That issue involved the constitutional fact that the President is empowered to name judges to the Supreme Court. But it is equally true that the Senate has the power of approval, and it depends on the relative strengths of President and Senate as to which shall prevail in any controversial case.

The importance of the present incident is that the Senate has prevailed — and twice within five months. The significance of this rejection of Mr. Nixon's judgment of suitable incumbents goes deeply into the American governmental system, and the political repercussions as the United States prepares for the Congressional elections later this year will no doubt be widely felt.

Seldom does a president of the United States receive so resounding a personal setback. Mr. Nixon's immediate predicament is now apparent. He must nominate a third choice for the court with defiant disregard for possible Senatorial disapproval, or prudently select a man who he knows will be unquestionably acceptable—and thus by implication confess that he showed poor judgment in the earlier cases.

What emerges is a realization that Congress will readily reject the Nixon leadership whenever it feels justified, and in the very uncertain climate of Washington these days this trend could have many far-reaching consequences for the important national decisions that lie ahead.

Money Cannot Measure Such Respect

A SAD LITTLE EPILOGUE TO the drama of Canadian efforts for peace is contained in Hansard published just before the Easter adjournment. It details Parliament's response to the appeal for a $40,000 grant for the Canadian Peace Research Institute. The Institute sprang into tender bloom about a decade ago. It flourished under the warm breath of praise and hope breathed upon it by outstanding Canadians, including Pierre Elliott Trudeau and Gerard Pelletier.

From this foundation was conceived a "Bridge of Reason" to reach man's universal dream of a world without the conflict of war. Under the auspices of the Institute several studies of value were conducted. Last month Mr. Tom Barnett, Comox-Alberni's NDP member, added his plea for government consideration of a grant to the Institue, following earlier submissions by Victoria's Liberal MP, Mr. David Groos, and others.

With a suitable reference to the current period of austerity, Privy Council president Donald S. Macdonald gave the government's reply: ". . . I regret that at the present time the government is not in a position to assist the Institute, although the government has great respect for its objectives."

The need for economy in these times is widely recognized. It may seem a trifle incongruous however, that the nation can afford to excuse automobile manufacturers millions of dollars in tariffs owed to the treasury, but hasn't a few thousand to support an institute for whose objectives the government has such high respect. Or, for that matter, that there appeared to be unlimited funds available to make cupboard doors hang true and to stabilize furniture on the aircraft carrier Bonaventure shortly before it went out of service.

Stacking the Tinder at Home

SAANICH FIRE CHIEF JOSEPH Sutherland has drawn attention to the hazards so frequently created in private homes by owners who accumulate too much inflammable material and leave it lying around. This is the tinder awaiting a spark or match that can cause loss of life or loss of property when touched off by accidents. In too many basements, utility rooms and attics, discarded objects are laid aside, perhaps in the belief that they will come in handy some day. The resulting "rats' nests" present a danger of fire.

Recognizing the situation Chief Sutherland calls upon residents of his municipality to undertake spring cleaning operations to rid themselves of the assembled junk—a wise precaution advocated by various municipal authorities in Greater Victoria each year.

The acquisitive instinct which leads to collection of negligibly valuable objects should be weighed against the hazards their assembly creates — and the advice of the Chief, to get rid of it, calls for action.

The Unseen Audience

Letter

Other Side

Allow me to comment on, "Sex is a serious business", Victoria Daily Times, March 28, 1970 (page 45):

The perverse and homosexual segment of Danes are Mammon-worshippers too. Many centuries ago, those sex-show promoters would probably have been "great" Viking-chieftains. However, Denmark cannot compete with other countries' war-sadisms of today, so what could the Danish "bastard-brains" do, to get their "kicks"?

They seem to have picked the open sex-business as their solution, where many others may have chosen to become religious fanatics, or worse.

Also, according to the said news item, it is obvious that many insane and greedy Danes are exploiting legal loopholes, as are their Canadian (and worldwide) counterparts.

At this point, many readers would probably do well to think and compare. My filing cabinet is stuffed with "black on white" facts re:

1. Many Canadian mothers' and wives' money-making sex activities.
2. Many Church-groups becoming "swinger clubs".
3. Our money-making pollution — and war efforts in North America.
4. Some Canadians' tax-evasion techniques. et cetera .... — Knud V. Larsen, 426 Luxton Ave.

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

Shrewd Distrust in the Igloos of Arctic Quebec

Western

IF THE discussions at Great Whale River are a fair reflection of Indian-Eskimo opinion, Arctic Quebec looks with profound suspicion on the latest federal-provincial proposals for its future. The transcript available to me is unofficial and doubtless imperfect, given the difficulties of interpretation from Eskimo and Cree. It is unnecessary, however, to depend on the precise text of sentences since the same themes were sounded over and over again at meetings over the three-day period Feb. 19-Feb. 21.

In the spring of 1969 Mr. Chretien reopened discussions with Quebec as to the means by which the provincial government would extend its services to the Ungava region. Various proposals were agreed and sent out for comment to the various settlements. Elected Eskimo spokesmen were also brought south for discussions. According to a letter which was supposed to be the basis for talks with the people at Great Whale, some immediate changes are also proposed. These would involve a single administrator, one set of services and one school in each community.

Mr. Neville, a federal spokesman, and Mr. Robitaille, representing the Quebec government, were sent North "to talk with you about these matters and to listen to your views on how best to make these changes."

The Eskimos and Crees were more than willing to talk; they indicated a willingness in fact to go on for about three weeks. But they left absolutely no doubt that in their view the agenda was all wrong.

No Prior Consultation

In the first place they protested — and the officials agreed — that the proposals had been drawn up without prior consultation. They also made unflattering comments about the letter. Officials patiently though vaguely explained that the proposals were subject to change but their assurances had little apparent effect on the progress of the discussion.

On the Indian-Eskimo agenda, the number one subject is title to land. This has been a low, almost invisible, priority with the federal government (it has never been clear, though, how it could be ignored since aboriginal rights cannot have been different in the north than in the south). In his carefully selective historical introduction, which slid past the embarrassing chapters, Quebec's Mr. Robitaille also avoided any mention of a land question. The omission led to interesting exchanges such as the following:

Mr. Joe Kumarluk (Eskimo councillor): "The first and main concern here is land, as to what right or deed we have to the land — who has the legal right to it. We must get this land question straightened out first. Then we can decide which of the two governments will provide services here."

Mr. Robitaille: "The question of land in the North for us whites is a difficult problem."

Mr. Kumarluk: "We face difficult problems practically every day in this settlement . . ."

Mr. Robitaille: ". . . It is difficult because white people in the south see territories on maps called the province of Quebec."

Mr. Kumarluk: "I'm not here to subdivide the northern country. I'm merely saying that the Indian and Eskimo people in the North who live in this land should have deeds to their lands and after this is settled then decide what government should provide services here."

Mr. Robitaille objected that the Eskimos, unlike the Indians, had not written to Mr. Bertrand about the land. He was not able to say what answer the Indians would get. The Eskimos indicated that they were quite prepared to write letters to both ministers.

A Cree band councillor, Noah Sheshamush, cast additional light on the problem.

Ignoring Ownership

"When the white man wants to build a house, he just goes and builds without consulting anyone. By existing legal agreements, the land belongs to the Indians and Eskimos, but the white man does what he wants on the land. If an Indian or Eskimo went down south and tried to pitch his tent or house on land belonging to the white man by legal title, he would have to get permission and pay for it. This should also happen in this country with Indian and Eskimo land."

Despite the well-known opinion of Rene Levesque that the Ungava people are not fit to decide their own future, many comments at the meeting revealed remarkable political insight.

Noah Sheshamush: "Mr. Robitaille and Mr. Neville stated that the two governments had proposed to work together. I would like to address a question to these two gentlemen on it. Don't you two gentlemen think that if the two governments work together that eventually one government will be doing all the administration? This is what I think will happen. I would like you to understand that at first it may seem the Quebec government takes a small responsibility for Indian and Eskimo affairs but eventually it will be total. This is what I fear." (No answer is recorded.)

Land Issue

Paulose Naparktuk (Eskimo councillor): "Both governments don't seem to understand our position with regard to the land. If we continue to talk about other things, this will make it harder because their heads can only hold so much."

Josie Unarlik (Eskimo): "We get lots of stuff from the white man's land . . . I want to say more about the content of what is written here. The Quebec government does not want to have the same as the rest of Canada although they want to be part of Canada just the same. Also a few Quebec people want to be separate from the rest of Canada. Quebec wishes to have a special status, but in any question of separation Nouveau Québec would not go with Quebec but go back to the rest of Canada."

David Masty (Cree): "In provincial elections the right to vote is not extended to the Indians and the Eskimos in northern Quebec and therefore (they) are not recognized by the provincial government and because they are deprived of this privilege they are not represented in the provincial government. This is taxation without representation . . .

"If the provincial government does not recognize the Indians and Eskimos in Northern Quebec, as citizens in their own land, how do they expect these people to trust in what they are going to say?"

Mr. Robitaille was able to show that Indians had been given the vote last year. He observed a prudent silence about the Eskimos.

In 1965 there was a limited transfer of responsibilities for such matters as electricity, water, sewage, fire protection and roads. Mr. Masty was unimpressed by the results. Only two houses had been wired and neither the fire truck nor garbage collection was of much use since roads were not kept open. "I am merely pointing out that if the Quebec government cannot keep their promise about services such as these, then how can they expect the Indian people to trust them in anything else they say thay are going to do?"

Silas Cookie (Eskimo chief councillor): "The two governments will have a joint administration for only five years. When the five years is up, the Quebec government will no longer get any help from Ottawa.

"The reason the Quebec government is so interested is because they want the land and the wealth contained in it.

"If the Quebec government does not get financial help from Ottawa, they will have nothing with which to help the Eskimo in northern Quebec . . .

Query Purpose

"We have also heard that the Quebec people who came as administrators really came because the Ottawa people want them to be administrators, not because they come on their own. Is this true?"

Josie Tookalook (Eskimo): "If the government of Quebec takes over all the administration, we worry that people who can't talk French won't get a job. I myself work for Quebec."

On the evidence of the transcript, three days of consultations failed to yield a single expression of approval for the joint proposals. Mr. Chretien will doubtless have heard from the two hard pressed officials that the meetings, from this standpoint, were an unmitigated disaster.

On the other hand the minister must now have a very clear view of what the people do not want and of matters, not embraced in the proposals, which they regard as of first importance. He will be impressed also by the keen political perceptions of the Crees and Eskimos and by the enthusiasm and skill which they display in these exercises in participatory democracy.

Proposals, after all, are expendable. Mr. Chretien has ample consolation. By arranging for these meetings, he has demonstrated in the most convincing way that Rene Levesque, in his judgment of the northern people as in many other matters, was completely wrong.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"GOOD NEWS, DAD! MOM SAYS SATURDAY IS YOUR DAY TO PUT UP WITH ME!"

Looking Back

From the Times of April 9, 1910:

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has given notice of a resolution in connection with the naval bill providing that there will be a department of the government of Canada which shall be called the Department of Naval Service over which the minister of marine and fisheries for the time being shall preside.

Correspondence From Our Readers

One Authority.

According to reports sewage disposal has become quite a problem in our fair Dominion of Canada. It seems to me there is too great a spread of authority to ensure success in cleaning up our waterways and harbors. Over 60 years ago, the river Clyde, on which the city of Glasgow is built, was cleaned to such an extent that salmon were coming back. Now the Port of London has done a similar job on the River Thames.

The reason for the success enjoyed by those two ports is that the control of the waterways is in the hands of a central body. In the case of Glasgow, the Clyde Trust and in the case of London, the Port Authority have supreme authority over all waterways in their region.

If we had a government in Ottawa with enough intestinal fortitude, a committee would be formed to take over the job of policing all of our water assets. It would be too big a task for one group of men so a more feasible scheme would be to split Canada into regions, which would report to a central office. — The Critic.

Hess Imprisonment

Allow me to say a few words regarding Mr. Corrance's recent letter. I am amazed to find somebody with such anti-semitic ideas and having the guts to have them published.

I do agree, though, with his view that Rudolf Hess should be freed. Hess did perhaps try to arrange peace by his flight to England. But as far as the "Anschluss" of Hitler's gang with Austria is concerned, I would like Mr. Corrance to read the report Carl Zuckmayer wrote in his biography. Zuckmayer is one of the best German writers of our time and he was in Vienna at the time of the "Anschluss." According to him it was absolutely bestial, the worst mob filled the whole city. It meant the end of the happy cheerfulness for which Vienna had been known throughout the world.

And what was wrong with the House of Rothschild? Only because it was owned by Jewish people? Are Christian financial institutions better?—H. Schmidt, 765 Arden.

No Pollution Fight

I disagree strongly with statements made in several local newspapers that the so-called "clean-up" of Colquitz Creek is fighting pollution. One should not confuse beautification, as man sees it, with fighting pollution. The removal of litter and man's cast-offs certainly decreases pollution but the removal of brush and so called "weeds" is a backward step and increases pollution. The removal of vegetation along the stream increases stream run-off, increases turbidity and simplifies the ecosystem. Anytime man reduces natural diversity he is creating pollution problems. I am sure that many animal populations are being adversely affected by this removal — insects, birds, fish, etc. Call this "clean-up" a creation of a park for man, a recreational area, a golf course, etc. but please do not believe that this is a blow against pollution for you are creating more pollution once you proceed past the point of cleaning up man's litter. — A. Canada's Apartheid Investment

By MAGNUS GUNTHER

Ten years ago, South Africa's white police massacred 69 Africans, including eight women and 10 children, at Sharpeville. Another 180 Africans were wounded.

A peaceful gathering of Africans had assembled that day in front of the Sharpeville police station to protest South Africa's "pass laws" which in terms of a 1952 "Abolition of Passes Act" (South African, like any other despotic system, attempts to put attractive wrappings on its sordid goods) required all African males to carry a pass book.

About 3,000 Africans a day are fined or imprisoned for offences against the "pass" laws—offences such as not producing the pass book immediately on the demand of a police officer; living with one's wife in an area restricted to the wife only; being employed in a job or area forbidden to Africans; or not haying paid one's taxes. Some 1,000,000 Africans each year are made "criminals" under these "pass" regulations.

In 1960 the government introduced legislation to extend the pass book system to African women. This was the object of protest of the Africans who had gathered on March 21 in Sharpeville.

No one knows to this day who among the police gave the order to fire on the crowd or why the firing started. No one among the police ever claimed that the police station was under attack, although the senior officer in charge justified the massacre by saying that "the native mentality does not allow them to gather for a peaceful demonstration. For them to gather means violence."

Magnus Gunther lived in South Africa for 26 years before emigrating to Canada.

The government of South Africa has withdrawn his passport for anti-apartheid activities.

Thus for the crime of "gathering together" 705 rounds from revolvers and Sten guns were fired for 40 seconds into the crowd. Significantly, 30 shots entered the wounded or killed from the front of their bodies, and no less than 155 bullets entered from their backs.

The grim statistics should speak for themselves. South Africa is obviously not some minor "banana republic" dictatorship. It is a fearsomely efficient, savage and brutal system of government in which 3,500,000 whites pursue the relentless exploitation of 17,500,000 Africans, colored and Indians with an almost professional lack of mercy.

* * *

The endless stream of brutalities perpetuated on the non-whites every day is fuelled by a heavy $5 billion investment program (average returns run between 17 and 25 per cent) and import-export trade with the Western democracies. (South Africa's trade is highly concentrated. The United Kingdom, the United States and Japan provide markets for 50 per cent of South Africa's total exports — 75 per cent if you include the federal republic of Germany, France, Belgium and Italy.)

Canada's contribution is much smaller — imports and exports to the amount of $100 million. But its investments in South Africa are not insignificant. For instance, Premier Milling, Canada's largest investment in South Africa, is also that country's biggest food concern.

Perhaps as important as the amount of Canada's investments in South Africa (which includes a contribution from a Crown corporation — Polymer) is the attitude, assumed by these investors toward racialism. Thus Alcan Aluminum in South Africa recently offered a large number of its shares to the South African public. According to a South African newspaper, some of these shares were reserved for its own employees on the following basis: "Shares were available to all white employees and a significant number of Asian employees and some African employees." Even shareholding is racially restricted —and by a profit-motivated, free enterprise Canadian business to boot.

* * *

Why do investors find South Africa so attractive? Part of the reason lies in the extraordinarily high rates of return. More important is the social "tranquility" which Prime Minister Vorster claims he provides for foreign business enterprises. Essentially, this tranquility is the peace of the dead. It is based on a starvation wage system for African laborers (especially attractive to South African and foreign businessmen), and a Draconian system of "law and order." Where else could investors find such a climate of control and order among laborers which offers the following "attractive" features?

1. Absolute control over worker's movements.

- For instance, Africans are only allowed to have their families living with them in white towns (87 per cent of the country is white, 13 per cent of the land has been set aside for the African majority) if they were born in the area, or if they lived there continuously for 15 years, or if they have worked continuously in the same employment for 10 years.

2. A no-nonsense attitude to the workers.

- Africans may not strike. The penalty for contravention is a fine of $1,500 and three year's imprisonment.
- White per capita income ranges from $2,050 to $2,190 per year. For blacks in urban areas per capita yearly income is $175 to $187; in rural areas it is $45 to $53.
- In the key mining industries whites (62,000 employees) in 1966 were earning $4,688 per year. Black workers (548,000 employees) received $261 per year.
- Nor is there any mollycoddling of non-whites in the field of education: 77 per cent of the total education budget is spent on the white minority; 9 per cent on the black majority ($187 per white child each year compared to $17.50 on each black child).
- Monthly African family income in one of the larger urban areas (where wages are highest) was found to be on average $65 per month. This meant that the average African family was living well below the poverty line, which is estimated at $80 per month.

3. A virtual ban on dissent which has made South Africa one of the most violent countries in the world.

- Half the world's executions take place in South Africa. Some 100 persons are hanged each year, an average of one every three days (South Africa's total population is slightly less than Canada's).
- Criminal violence took the lives of 8,640 South Africans in 1966.
- Flogging is a popular method for maintaining order. In the last 15 years South African judges and magistrates have ordered the imposition of about 1,000,000 strokes on about 200,000 convicted persons.

As long as other countries trade with South Africa and invest there they are clearly helping to maintain this system. It is little wonder that Prime Minister Trudeau admitted that, as regards Canada's policies on South Africa, "I'm not very proud of this policy. It's not consistent. We should either stop trading or stop condemning."

* * *

Despite shootings and mass imprisonment, despite banishment and bans, the non-white peoples of South Africa will continue to fight race rule. Resistance has already lead to repression and repression to greater resistance, and this will continue until rebellion and massacre make of South Africa itself one long internal hemorrhage of humanity.

The outside world has a choice between breaking the back of white supremacy and actively assisting it to survive. There can be no moral escape into mere acceptance. Behind the policemen who fired into the fleeing throng at Sharpeville are those who trade with South Africa. They are accomplices in the force against which they protest; and as long as they remain so, their protests are not only hollow but insulting.

It would be a fine stride in the fight against apartheid if Canada honored the Sharpeville martyrs by making its policy consistent in stopping trading with South Africa.

Good Old George— A Man for All Seasons

By DOUGLAS FISHER

One afternoon in January, 1958, MP George McIlraith (Lib—Ottawa West) was frustrating the cocky crew of Diefenbaker ministers and members in the Commons with pernickety points of order.

A noisy Maritimes Tory interjected confidently: "Wait until Charlotte gets him."

Stanley Knowles then threw in a great line: "Wait until you get Charlotte."

Everyone then in politics knew that an election was at hand. The minority Diefenbaker government was rolling. Its prospects were wonderful, prospects which matured in March with the greatest electoral triumph ever. But one who came back among the 49 Liberals was George McIlraith, by the majority of 1,425 over Charlotte Whitton.

Last month, the House honored Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. McIlraith on the 30th anniversary of their election to Parliament. In the House and in the press there was humor over the contrast between the two men. Even the kids today must have a clear idea of whom John Diefenbaker is and what he looks like.

Exasperating Critic

But who knows George McIlraith, eight years a parliamentary assistant to C. D. Howe in the golden Liberal era, for six years the most exasperating critic, next to Jack Pickersgill, in rousing Prime Minister Diefenbaker, for seven years a Cabinet minister in four different portfolios.

It's natural to think: This man may be almost anonymous outside of Ottawa but he must possess much in merit and talent to have had such a long career close to or in the seats of power. I feel this way but it is much easier to feel it than to explain the McIlraith career or delineate its purpose.

The casual comment is often made that George McIlraith is quiet but this isn't true. He is not a silent Bob McGregor-type (36 years as Tory MP for York East—one speech).

Lots of Work

Mr. McIlraith worked himself into position to take the nomination in 1940 for the good Liberal seat of Ottawa West by lots of work within the Liberal Party; as a young Ottawa lawyer he spent many hours around Parliament meeting and helping party stars.

Once he got his seat he worked at it assiduously, always fostering contacts and membership and regular meetings with his backers. In other words, he nailed down his base.

He's so trustworthy and careful that plans, prospects and all the secrets, important and superficial, of the party, the caucus and the ministry are safe with him. In short, George McIlraith will neither get the party and government in trouble nor cause trouble within it.

The caucus of a party, in power or out, needs brokers and listeners whose own ambitions or ambitions for more colorful colleagues do not shake the trust of the whole group.

For years, going back to the early 50s, there have been almost annual rumors that George McIraith was retiring to his law practice or going to the Senate of the Bench. He's always ignored them or denied them without further comment. In the 1968 leadership campaign he was probably the most effective support Robert Winters had in making his surprising showing.

But the effort was muted in the public sense. After it was over, hardly anyone thought of George McIlraith as a critic or detractor of the winner, Pierre Trudeau.

From 1955 to the present, the hardest tasks in government, next to the prime ministership, has been that of government House leader.

Unobtrusive

When George McIlraith was House leader he never became an issue in himself while he was there. Unlike Jack Pickersgill or Guy Favreau or Allan MacEachen or Gordon Churchill, he was so unobtrusive and thorough that he never became the centre or cause of uproar. Yet in his days as House leader (1964 to 1967), through crisis after crisis, the institution ground through an enormous amount of legislation.

That's why Stanley Knowles credits McIlraith with being the most effective House leader he has known.

Presently, Mr. McIlraith is solicitor general. Whenever speculation grows about Cabinet changes he and another veteran, Art Laing (four years older at 66), are always listed as sure to go. The time will come, of course, but his experience and qualities are rare.

Low Profile

Mr. McIlraith's parliamentary career seems to demonstrate that there's a role for the "low profile," industrious man.

What has he achieved? He'd point to the legislative record of the Liberal governments he's supported and the ministries he's belonged to. Beyond that he might ask one to look at the city of Ottawa as national capital, a record of progress in spending in buildings, driveways, bridges and parks in which he has been deeply involved for 30 years.

This must have its satisfactions for him, this and all the unknown years of influence and power on the inside while the flamboyant and nationally known people like John Diefenbaker and Charlotte Whitton have become household images.

Principles of Justice?

When First Lieut. James Brian Duffy's platoon flushed out an unarmed Vietnamese civilian one evening last September, Lieut. Duffy told one of his men to shoot him. In his defense, the young officer said he asked his Vietnamese scout three times whether he thought the man was a Viet Cong supporter before giving the order to shoot. But Lieut. Duffy had done so without any evil intent, his attorney argued, because he believed he was following Army policy which emphasized "the body-count principle." Thus Lieut. Duffy was not guilty of any crime.

This argument was quickly rejected by the military court, trying the officer for premeditated murder. "What the hell are we fighting for here anyway? Are we fighting to be murderers? No. We are fighting so that people here can have the same rights we do—so that a man cannot be tried, and sentenced and executed by one other man. If we didn't believe these principles we wouldn't be here." Such was the impassioned summary of Capt. Robert Bogan, prosecuting counsel.

The military judge instructed the other members of the court that "a man of ordinary sense and understanding" would know that shooting an unarmed civilian was illegal. Furthermore, the judge continued, "the fact that an illegal act was committed on order of a superior does not mean that the act was not a war crime."

Lieut. Duffy was found guilty. An open-and-shut case, it would appear, until the members of the military court learned that the mandatory sentence was life imprisonment. On hearing the penalty, the court reconvened, reversed its decision and found Lieut. Duffy guilty of involuntary manslaughter. It tried to suspend all sentence but when informed by the judge this was not possible sentenced the officer to six months confinement and docked his pay $1,500.

"We are fighting so that the people here can have the same rights we do . . . if we didn't believe these principles we wouldn't be here," said the prosecutor. If such is the case, Lieut. Duffy's trial must set a precedent in American jurisprudence as the first time the crime has been adjusted to fit the punishment.

If these are the principles of justice the United States is fighting to uphold, Heaven help the Vietnamese and the Americans!

'Weapons Move People' Says Koji

By TAKASHI OKA

Tokyo —" Our aim is revolution — not just in Japan, but throughout the world. We have to destroy the old, corrupt society and power structure before we can build the new.

The young man who spoke these words was sitting in an all-night cafe in Shinjuku, the "bohemian" area of Tokyo. At adjacent tables, long-haired youths and their girls held hands or cuddled up to each other as they sipped their coffee or tea.

Koji — that is not his real name — is a student turned professional revolutionary in a land bursting with affluence. Koji has already been in prison six months, was released on bail and is currently in hiding in Tokyo, having violated the condition set by the court, that he live with his parents in southern Japan.

Koji belongs to the so-called red army, the most extreme of Japan's splintered student groups which recently hijacked a Japanese airliner.

He obviously believes in what he says; yet, hearing such words as "revolution," "armed uprising," and "power to the people," and then looking around at the carefree young people occupying most of the cafe, the listener wonders whether Koji and they live in the same Japan.

Koji refuses to discuss why he turned to Marxism and thence to student activism after enrolling at Doshisha University, a Protestant institution in Kyoto.

"It's not important," he says. "What is important that I came to realize the basic relationship in society — one between the exploiters and the exploited. The exploited can change the situation only if he rises to unshackle his chains. There has to be an armed uprising, because the power structure will not allow itself to be toppled in any other way."

* * *

He readily admits that those who think as he does are only a tiny minority of Japan's student population. "But all of us have to find a reason for living," he said. "A person has to make a choice—whether he wants to enjoy girls, bowling, a car and a home, or become a fanatic like me.

"Sometimes our most powerful incentive for fighting the police is not the ideal of world revolution, but the thought that these ruffians are trying to crash through our barricades, to smash the beautiful society we have constructed inside."

Koji first joined the League of Communists, popularly known as the Bund, which was formed a decade ago by student dissidents expelled from the Communist party for refusing to accept party discipline.

He came to Tokyo last year to participate in what has come to be known as the Battle of Yasuda Hall — a three-day clash between riot policemen and extremist students barricaded within the squat neo-gothic tower that for generations has been the central symbol of Tokyo University. He was arrested and spent six months in jail.

On being released from jail, he joined the Red Army, which had just been set up by some of his former comrades in the Bund. The Red Army's purpose was to train its adherents in the use of weapons.

"Weapons move people," Koji said. "With weapons, you can force people to do your will. At the same time, it is people who use weapons. If we can master this relationship between weapons and people, we can become the vanguard of the revolution."

The Red Army is a small group numbering no more than 500 at the most, the police estimate. But because of its open espousal of violence, the police keep closer watch on the Red Army than on any other extremist group.

The Red Army's immediate objective, Koji said, is an armed uprising in the fall. "We don't expect it to succeed," he said, "but it gives us an objective to fight for. The people must learn to take up arms and fight for their freedom. And they can learn only by doing."

'We're Fooling You but Not Misleading You,' Says Grocer

had a word to add on that.

"You are paying for advertising and gimmicks," said Clare Yarwood, of the Victoria Community Grocers Wholesale Association.

"This is an eight ounce box of corn flakes priced at 27 cents. That means you are paying 50 cents a pound for corn that cost the manufacturer five cents. We are fooling you, possibly, but we are not misleading you. It's the consumer who will pay 10 times the value for a little whistle inside who is responsible."

Bamboozled

"Mrs. Consumer gets bamboozled," readily agreed Gerald Sharples, of Slade and Stewart, "but there's no compulsion about it."

Asked about the method of setting prices, the fruit and vegetable wholesaler's representative said that wholesale prices were "about the same" and that most retailers needed a 25 per cent gross mark-up.

"We're a bystander in this, he said, "but we know that the best buys are not always the best sellers. Right now green peppers are in short supply, the price is high and, frankly, they're not very good. That's the way it is. Usually when prices are high the product is not as good as when prices are cheap. The way to influence the price is simple. Don't buy the product."

Beefs and queries kept the meeting a lively one.

When one woman complained that apple juice canned in this province "to give the impression that it was made from B.C. apples "was actually concentrate imported from Switzerland, A. L. Cartier, of the Department of Education moderator of the forum, said that it was a matter of economics, that the Okanagan processors had to import apple concentrate to keep a year-round operation.

Best Method

When another asked why fruit was priced by the pound rather than the dozen, the Slade and Stewart representative said it was fairer that way. "If it wasn't by the pound the wholesalers and retailers would look for smaller sizes so that they could advertise them cheaply, but you wouldn't be getting the best."

When another asked if she was paying for the moisture on lettuce periodically watered in the bins, Sharples replied, "It's a misconception. Its a good practice that costs you no more than half-a-cent."

The evening's loudest applause went to a male member of the audience who criticized the "immorality" of advertising directed to children that, he said, "takes advantage of the close relationship of mother-and-child."

Food and Drug Director Devlin said he doubted if that kind of advertising could be legislated, but pointed out that radio listeners and TV viewers had, at least some protection in the "good taste policy" of the Canadian Radio and Television Commission that decreed advertising must be "acceptable to the family group."

Sales Pitches

Miss Smith urged the audience to submit offensive newspaper advertisements to the Department of Corporate and Consumer Affairs, but wondered if sales pitches directed at children weren't the result of a society that lets it's children have everything."

Miss Smith had a beef of her own when she described the busy, destructive prodding of a woman shopper of the tomato-poking breed. "There are good and bad consumers, too," she noted. Again, to those who complained that there was no way of appraising pre-packaged meat she chided: "Every time you take a wrapped cut of meat off the shelf you are voicing your approval."

Many in the audience complained about frozen meat or fish fillets put on sale after they've been thawed in the shop, but with a warning that it is dangerous to re-freeze. When Food and Drug Director Devlin wondered if that was a great problem a member of the audience tartly quoted from one of his department's books specifically warning against it.

Several women complained of the inability to check on cashier's addition when "special prices" are involved.

A volunteer described her own method. "I leave all the specials until I've unloaded the basket, then I'm free to watch when they're rung up."

The second male member of the audience to venture an opinion identified himself as a member of the Socialist Party of Canada and saw no shining hope for the future. "The solution can't be found in a capitalist society," he said.

'War' Reported

TAIPEI (Reuters) — The nationalist Chinese Central News Agency said today there have been clashes between armed groups in China in recent months. Quoting informed sources, it said that in Shansi province the fighting was so fierce in February it was called the "Shansi Civil War." Clashes also were reported in the southern provinces of Kwangtung and Yunnan, the agency quoted the sources as saying.

Black Eye Cited For Red Cross

CALGARY (CP) — The Red Cross movement suffered a black eye in Nigeria, Maj.-Gen Arthur Wrinch, national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross society, said Wednesday.

"As a result of the Nigerian situation, our domestic program is being hurt," he told a news conference.

"We've had young people dropping out of the society and I've heard people say they were refusing to give blood because of the way Nigeria was handled.

"Generally speaking, our hands were tied by governments and politics.

"That is why I am talking on this, to set the matter straight. We have to get the message across that the Red Cross has done the job."

Maj.-Gen. Wrinch said the International Red Cross has moved more than 132,000 tons of relief supplies into Nigeria, built five hospitals and 53 sick bays and immunized more than 2,500,000 people against smallpox and 250,000 against tuberculosis.

"The last word I have, about three weeks ago, is that 5,000 tons of food is going into the Biafran region every week. While this does not meet the absolute needs, it is adequate for a reasonable feeding and above the subsistence level."

Maj.-Gen. Wrinch, who spent 11 days in Nigeria in January as part of a Canadian government fact-finding mission, was in Calgary for the annual meeting of the Red Cross Society's Alberta-Northwest Territories division.

Jack Westbrook of Calgary was re-elected president of the division, which last year collected 85,038 units of blood in its Calgary and Edmonton depots, 1,306 more than in 1968.

The meeting was told that it cost $115,319 in 1969 to procure blood donors.

A total of 109,336 persons participated in the division's water safety service program in 1969, an increase of more than 25 per cent compared with 1968.

Lamarsh Appeals $2,500 Libel Award

VANCOUVER (CP) — Former state secretary Judy Lamarsh launched an appeal Wednesday against a British Columbia Supreme Court decision ordering her to pay $2,500 damages to a Vancouver radio broadcaster for libel.

Chief Justice J. O. Wilson handed down a 10-page judgment Feb. 9 making the award to Ed Murphy of radio station CKWX and formerly an Ottawa radio reporter.

Murphy was described in a section of Miss Lamarsh's book, Memoirs of a Bird in a Gilded Cage, as a "brash young radio reporter heartily detested by most of the press gallery and members."

The description was read into evidence during the first day of the trial before Chief Justice Wilson, which ended Jan. 19.

Notice of appeal was filed Wednesday at the Vancouver courthouse by Lawyer C. W. Brazier, representing Miss Lamarsh and her publishers, McClelland and Stewart Ltd.

The case will be heard by the B.C. court of appeal but no date has been set.

In his judgment, Chief Justice Wilson said Murphy's name was tarnished in the mind of the ordinary reader of the book. He said it was a precedent-setting case because it is the first time in a libel case that the libel didn't hurt the professional standing of the plaintiff.

Boy Released

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. F. B. Bryson, superintendent of Riverview Mental Hospital in suburban Coquitlam, said Wednesday than an 11-year-old boy held in the hospital's adult mental ward since Good Friday has been released.

Dr. Bryson said the boy has been placed in a residential home setting in Vancouver by child welfare officials.

SCIENTIST HOPEFUL IN WINNIPEG

Fish Will Eventually Rid Selves of Mercury

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mercury-contaminated fish will eventually rid themselves of the poison once the source of pollution is cut off and clean water is restored, says a fisheries scientist here.

Dr. Graham Bligh, head of the Freshwater Fish Research Institute, said the length of time this will take in polluted Lake Winnipeg depends on how much mercury has collected on the lake bottom.

"I don't think the situation is beyond repair," he said.

"The levels we are finding are not anything like those found in Japan that led to the death of quite a number of people."

Dr. Bligh addressed the Manitoba Federation of Fishermen Wednesday as Resources Minister Sidney Green was telling the legislature he was inclined to think sports fishing in Lake Winnipeg and the Winnipeg River would not be banned.

Dr. Bligh said a chemical plant at Dryden that had been discharging mercury into the Winnipeg River system has stopped the flow or is well on the way to cutting it off.

He said Lake Winnipeg studies show mercury pollution higher in the southern end, which is fed by the Winnipeg and Red rivers.

Perch and bass containing more than the tolerance level of contamination are being destroyed. Sauger and Pike are sometimes above and sometimes below the level.

Green said his department is awaiting a report on pollution conditions in the Assiniboine River, which flows through Brandon and Portage La Prairie and joins the Red at Winnipeg.

Until the amount of pollution is established, he said, it is hypothetical to consider whether the Portage diversion should or should not be used in the event of high water this spring. The diversion is designed to carry Assiniboine flood waters north to Lake Manitoba.

Green added, however, that the government would not knowingly pollute Lake Manitoba which at present is considered a clean lake.

Puddle Views: We Challenge Photographers

When it rains in Victoria, as it did early today, or when the days linger on into weeks of sunshine, the city's measured pace changes little and its willingness to stop and reflect upon itself continues.

For a photographer there is something of a challenge in the moods of the city — in capturing its reflections.

With the miles of seacoast, pond-filled parks and the necklace of Elk, Beaver, Prospect and Thetis Lakes to the north and west, the opportunities are abundant.

These photographs were taken by Bill John, one of the area's best-known freelance photographers, and a man who insists this sort of thing is easy to do.

So the Times, after some reflection upon Bill's work, decided to test the mettle of Greater Victoria's legion amateur photographers by offering prizes — $20 for first, $10 for second — for the best reflection shots they can work up and submit to the Times by Friday, May 15.

Bill offers a few tips, adding that color film can provide an even more exciting blend of distortion and rhythm:

All that is needed is a reasonably good camera, preferably with a medium-long focal length and a calm day. The trick is in not focussing on the refelction, but on whatever it is that is being reflected. For example, if you are standing 10 feet from the water, add this distance to your distance from the object being reflected and make the total your focus distance.

Submissions will be judged by Bill and by members of the Times staff.

The contest is open only to amateur photographers; professionals and employees of Victoria Press Ltd. are ineligible. Prints only are to be submitted; they will become the property of the Times and cannot be returned. Send entries to "Reflections, Victoria Daily Times, 2631 Douglas Street." The winners will be announced Saturday, May 23.

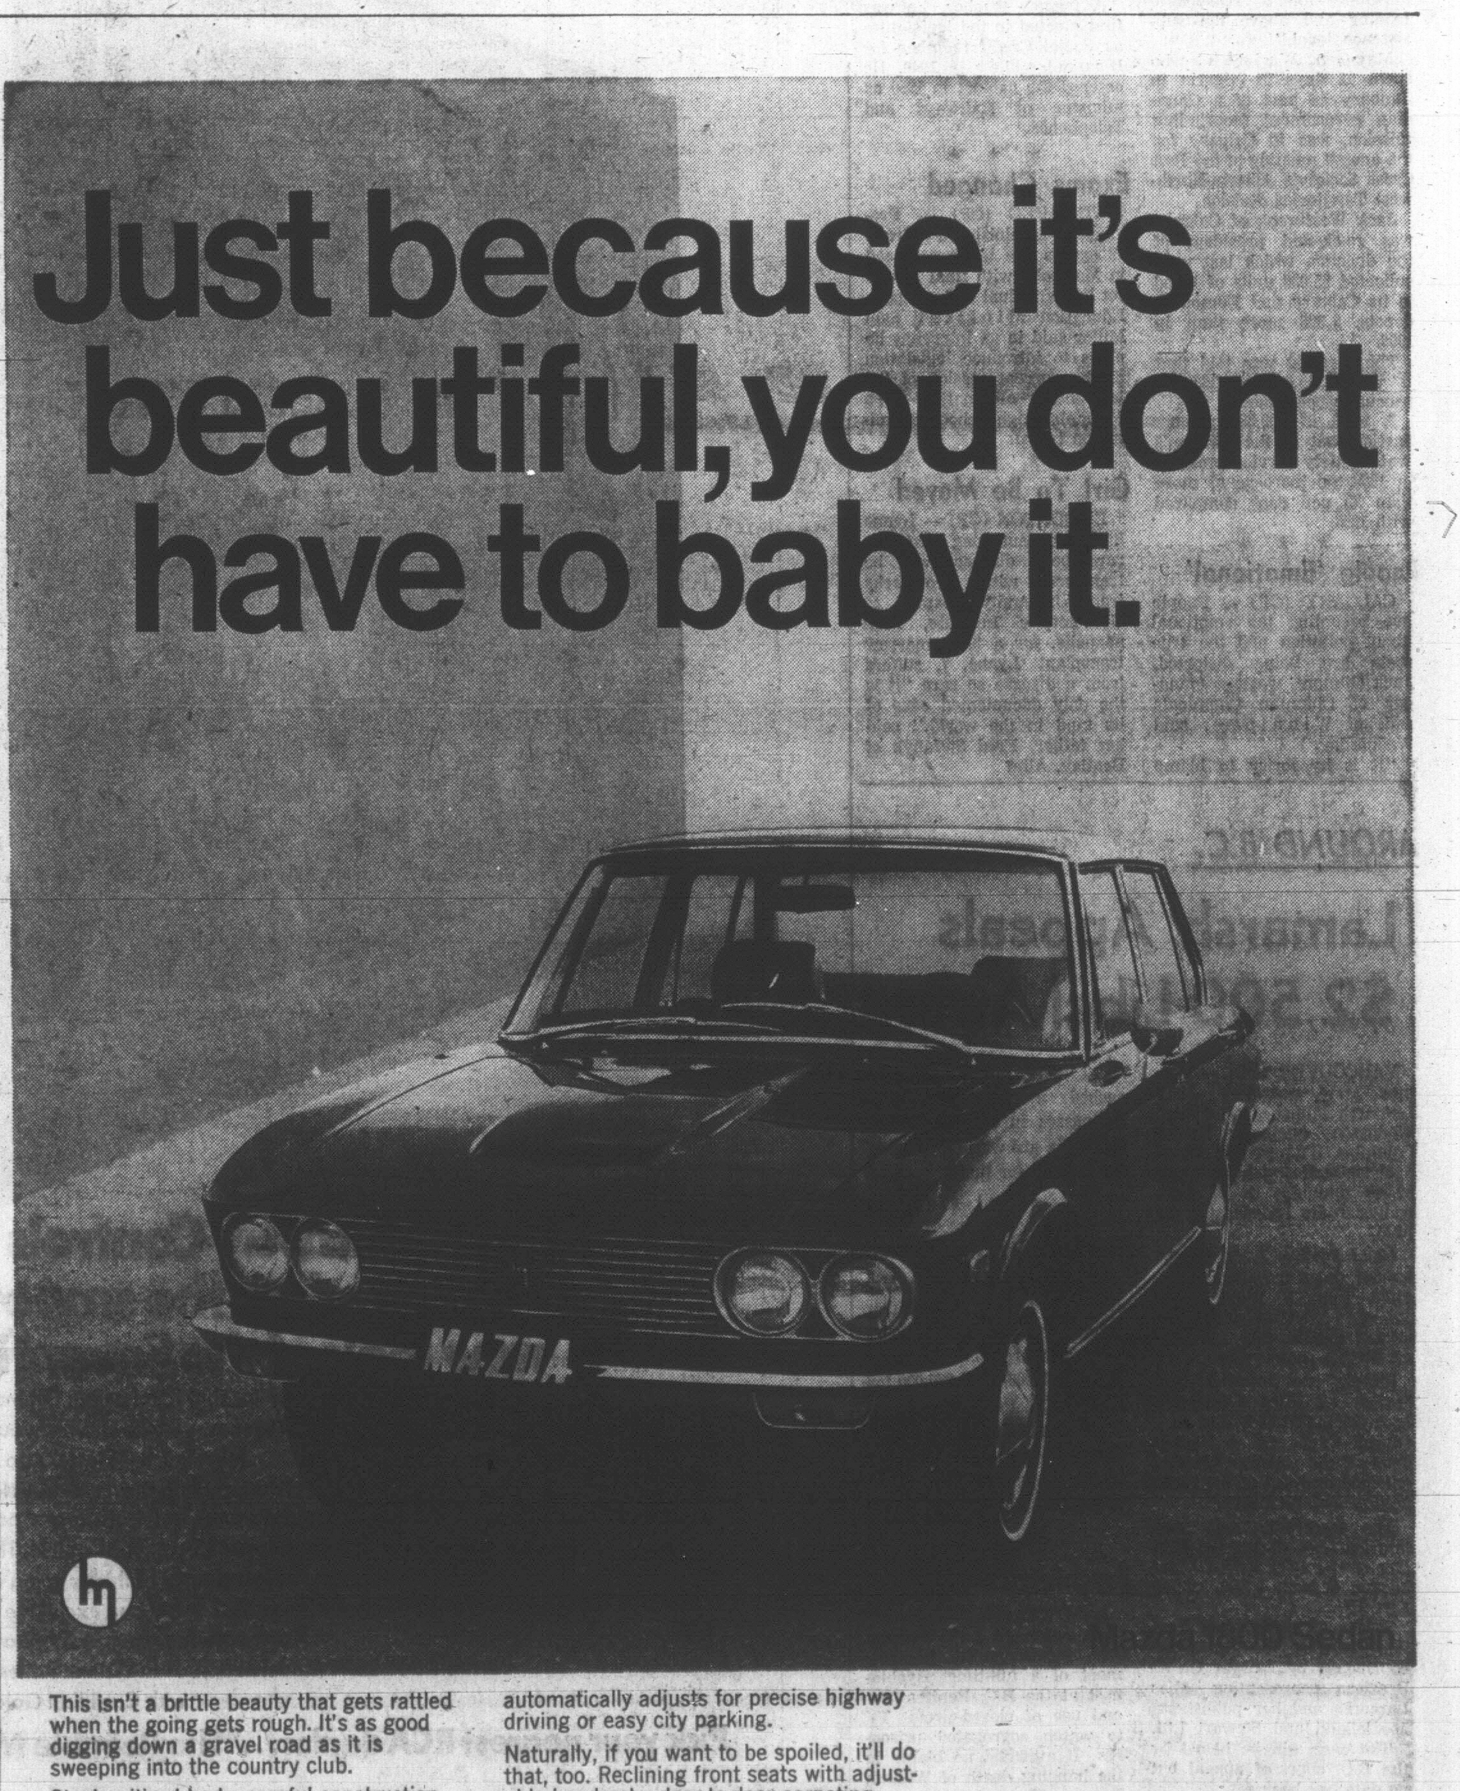
YOUR ASSURANCE OF QUALITY

This Advertisement is not published or displayed by the Liquor Control Board or by the Government of British Columbia



This isn't a brittle beauty that gets rattled when the going gets rough. It's as good digging down a gravel road as it is sweeping into the country club.

Steel unitized body, careful construction and low profile tires take care of the rough stuff. Sleek looks and a luxury interior take care of the prestige.

And all the time you enjoy the standard equipment like a 104 horsepower S.A.E. overhead cam engine, 4-speed synchromesh transmission, power assisted front disc brakes and variable ratio steering that automatically adjusts for precise highway driving or easy city parking.

Naturally, if you want to be spoiled, it'll do that, too. Reclining front seats with adjustable headrests, door-to-door carpeting, fold-down rear seat armrests and round, readable instruments set in a classic padded dash. All standard equipment.

The list goes on, but we're not here to brag. We'd rather you went for a test drive.

Hot Wiring Dry Kiln Dangerous, Probe Told

LAKE COWICHAN — "Hot wiring" a control panel to start a dry kiln when it wouldn't start after using normal procedures could be deterimental to the save operation of the furnace, an inquest jury was told Wednesday.

Paul Gattey, a civil engineer and former employee of Dickinson's Ltd. of Burnaby, was testifying at the inquest into the death Jan. 23 of Ronald Marchment, 32, of Lake Cowichan.

Marchment was killed and three other workemen injured after an explosion destroyed a kiln, demolished the concrete block building enclosing it and collapsed the roof of Island Shake and Shingle Co. Mill.

Cross-examined by Victoria lawyer Lloyd McKenzie, Gattey said a set of working instructions on how to operate the control panel was essential.

He said he was not personally on hand to demonstrate to the owners — Norman Rooke and Mervin Albert Roddenbush — how to operate the propane-fired $40,000 kiln. He said instructions were given by foreman Jack McGregor who worked directly under him.

He was not able to say whether written instructions were supplied by the company. He now works for a Vancouver firm which also manufactures kilns. The Dickinson firm no longer manufactures dry kilns.

Testimony concerning the use of a "hot wire" to activate the control panel and start the kiln was given Wednesday by local electrical contractor Dick Watson under protection of the British Columbia and Canada Evidence Acts.

* * *

Watson said the procedure was to be considered temporary and Rooke testified that he called Cigas Propane Ltd. of Nanaimo to send a repairman to check the furnace the next morning. He said when no Cigas representative appeared, the "hot wiring" procedure was continued under his supervision except for the morning of the fatal blast.

Rooke said he did not know the power had been off earlier that morning. The kiln had to be refired whenever there was a power failure and for other reasons.

Albert Rooke, Norman Rooke's brother, told the jury a strong odor of gas permeated the control room when he entered it just before 8 a.m. the day of the explosion.

He and Marchment went outside during the period David Svendsen and Michael Matskiw were to begin lighting the kiln fire. He did not see them begin the procedure.

"All hell broke loose," Rooke said. "The dry kiln blew up."

Svendsen and Matskiw were both severly injured in the explosion and testified they could not remember anything that happened that day.

The inquest continued today.

CHEMAINUS TROUBLE

New Bid Planned To Get Breakwater

CHEMAINUS — The Chemainus-Crofton and District Chamber of Commerce will renew its request to Ottawa for a breakwater here following the sinking of an empty scow in a windstorm last Friday.

The booming ground of MacMillan Bloedel and two tugboats of the Chemainus Towing Company also were damaged.

Chemainus harbormaster Barry Guilbride said if there had been a breakwater the mishaps would not have occurred.

"Everytime there is a storm we have damage at Chemainus Harbor," he said.

Federal Transport Minister Arthur Laing is expected to visit Chemainus soon to study Chemainus' harbor problems.

The 60-foot scow, valued at $25,000 and owned by Tiger Tugboat Company of Gibson's Landing, sank in about 30 feet of water in the harbor area.

The scow was raised Wednesday.

Damage to the two Chemainus Towing Company tugs Ravenhill and Smith-Gibson was estimated at $3,500.

Oyster Farmer Sues Mill

LADYSMITH — A Ladysmith oyster farmer said today he is taking legal action after several years of out-of-court negotiations with British Columbia Forest Products.

Peter Limberis, 51, part-owner and manager of Thetis Island Oyster Co., filed suit against the parent firm of Crofton Pulp and Paper Limited alleging loss of business because of pollution of his oyster beds.

The case will open in Supreme Court in Vancouver on Monday.

Limberis leases about 180 acres, one-third of which are in the Crofton area. He said the last time he took oysters off the property was in 1957 — the year the pulp mill began production — "and after that they lost all their fatness."

He said about 2,000 tons of oysters are still on the Crofton lease but "you could leave them there a million years and they'll never be any good."

Two other Crofton oyster growers have had out-of-court settlements from the pulp company.

TWO-YEAR CONTRACT

Wage Hike for Nurses, Staff

DUNCAN — Contracts with registered and unregistered nurses and lay staff have been signed for 1970-1971, Cowichan District Hospital administrator Ken Noton told a news conference Wednesday.

Registered nurses received wage increases bringing their salaries from $508 and $633 in 1968 to a range of $549 to $684 for 1970. They will earn from $590 to $740 in 1971.

Non-registered nurses, that is nurses who have for one reason or another not completed their necessary training for a B.C. certificate, got increases of 9 to 13 per cent and will earn from $483 to $522 in 1970.

Lay staff got a straight across-the-board $50 a month raise while supervisors who earned $610 to $754 in 1969 will make $659 to $824 this year and $708 to $883 in 1971.

Noton said negotiations will start soon with six members of the Operating Engineers Union whose contract expired March 28.

He said the hospital hopes to get the services of a pathologist increased from the present once a week to three times a week which would mean all autopsies could be performed here.

Mrs. Dorothy shaw, director of hospital volunteers, reported that 1,263 hours were donated in February. This added up to eight full-time jobs per month at a saving of a "bare minimum" of $3,000 to the hospital during that time.

Noton said the hospital is endeavoring to have all hospital admissions completed by 2 p.m. each day because of convenience to staff shift-changing.

Wheat Exports Register Gain

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian wheat exports for the week ending April 1 totalled 5,100,000 bushels, more than both last week's 3,800,000 and the 900,000 bushels of the same week one year ago, the board of grain commissioners says.

The board said in its weekly report that the visible stocks of wheat decreased 1,100,000 bushels to a total of 417,500,000.

Farmers marketings of 5,600,000 bushels of wheat was less than the previous week's 9,100,000 bushels and the 6,600,000 total of the same week one year ago.

Lake head stocks of all grains totalled 84,200,000 bushels, greater than both the previous week's 81,400,000 and the 69,800,000 bushels of the same week one year ago.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG

Rapeseed maintained an aggressive exporter buying trade with prices higher at the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Commission houses were fairly active with early buying and some short-coverings.

Trading was light in flax with hedges and commission house offerings meeting moderate exporter demands. Prices were fractionally easier.

Oats, barley and rye prices remained steady throughout the day with light trading.

Volume of trade Wednesday included 1,236,000 bushels of rapeseed, 507,000 of flax and 36,000 of rye.

Interest Rate Boost by Japan

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan has raised moderately the specially low rates of interest at which its central bank supplies money to promote exports.

The Bank of Japan announced the rates of interest it charges for its discounts and loans for export financing would be increased by one per cent to a range of five to 5.5 per cent, effective May 15.

This was the first change in these rates since 1965, when they were lowered to promote exports.

Crown Zellerbach Chief Dies at 63

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Peter T. Sinclair, chairman of the board of Crown Zellerbach Co., died Tuesday at 63.

Sinclair who joined the forest company in 1928 as an electrical engineer served for six years as its president.

A native of Portland he was a director of Wells Fargo Bank, Pacific Indemnity Co., and Clorox Co., St. Francisville Paper Co., Zellerback Paper Co. and Crown Simpson Pulp Co., as well as numerous civic and industrial organizations.

Aluminum Ingots, Products Higher

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Aluminium Co. of America said today it will increase the price of primary aluminum ingot by 1 cent a poind to 29 cents a pound, effective with orders received next Tuesday.

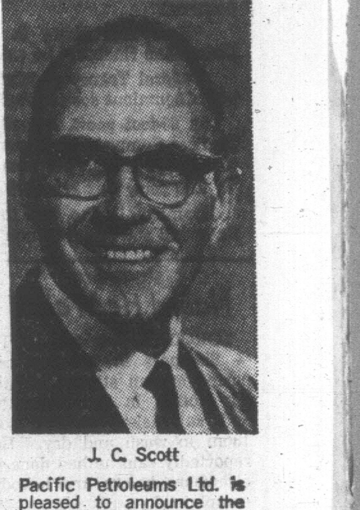
A similar hike will be imposed by Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp.

The prices of alloy ingot and a selected group of fabricated products will be increased proportionately, Alcoa said.

A spokesman said the price increases on ingot and mill products are necessary to improve the company's return on capital investments.

Kaiser said the move is to offset inflation and rising cost of doing business.

PACIFIC PETROLEUMS APPOINTMENT



J. C. Scott

Pacific Petroleums Ltd. is pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. J. C. Scott as Director - Exploration effective April 1st, 1970. Mr. Scott succeeds Mr. A. B. Cameron who has resigned from the Company. Mr. Cameron plans to continue his activity in the Canadian Oil Industry on an individual basis.

ABOVE AVERAGE MAN

The man we want must be between the ages of 25 and 65. He must be married with family responsibilities. He must be a good citizen, active in community affairs. He must have an impeccable reputation. And a sincere desire to provide his family with a better than average living.

To such a man we can offer:

- * The opportunity and challenge found only in the operation of his own business, and without having to make a substantial investment.
- * A product training that is second to none, and could lead to a professional status, with sincere and diligent effort on his part.
- * A substantial guaranteed income, plus exceptionally attractive incentives, that could provide a much better than average income. Last year this average was better than $12,500.
- * The security and peace-of-mind found only in comprehensive employment benefits such as pension — disability income, group life insurance and medical coverages for himself and family.

Plus the advancement opportunity found in a large International Company having representation from Coast to Coast and is well and favorably known by a substantial clientele in this area.

If you are such a man, and have the sincere ability to work hard

French Look At B.C. Coal

A French steel mill is trying to get a 40,000-ton sample of East Kootenay coking coal, according to sources in B.C. and France.

But up to Wednesday, Kaiser Resources Ltd. with which the French are negotiating, was unable to confirm the shipment in light of existing customer commitments.

Kaiser has committed its entire production to Japanese markets thus far in its development of the rich Balmer seams around Michel, Natal and Sparwood, and has begun shipping coal from Port Moody, hoping to switch later this month to new terminal facilities at Roberts Bank.

If a sample can be arranged and it is satisfactory to French steelmaking requirements, a new sphere of markets could be opened for once-depressed B.C. coal.

A mines department officer here said inquiries have been received from Germany for similar trial samples and a Kaiser spokesman in Vancouver said there had been many other European bids for samples.

Kaiser said the French would get a shipment, subject to other customer requirements, and where feasible there also would be samples shipped to other potential buyers.

The bid for 40,000 tons, equal to four unit trainloads of coal, came from Usinor, which specified the port of Dunkirk as destination.

ADDED COST

Britain and the Netherlands also are reported to be interested in Western Canadian coal for their steel industries, despite the added cost of shipping such long distances.

Domestic coal in the U.K. is depleting, especially good coking coal necessary for steelmaking.

Since steel is vital to their economies, the prospective European buyers — and the Japanese — apparently are willing to pay a premium for the assurance of long-term supplies of quality coking coal. The U.S., with some of the world's finest coking coal, is reluctant to enter into major new commitments.

The U.S. has heretofore set the price of coking coal for the world market, $2 a ton shipped from Hampton Roads, principal port of export for Virginia coal. Cost of coal from Roberts Bank will be $4.50 a ton.

FIRST SHIP SOON

Kaiser will ship through a wholly-owned subsidiary, Westshore Terminals Ltd., as soon as rail and dockside facilities permit. The first ship to load at Roberts Bank is expected toward the end of April.

Once regular shipments to Japan commence, Kaiser said, it is hoped to be able to sustain operations by means of two unit trains per day, but this will depend partly on the size of bulk carriers dispatched to receive cargoes at Roberts Bank.

These will vary between 50,000 and 120,000 tons deadweight, but over the course of a year they will aggregate 5.5 million tons. More than $1 billion worth of Kaiser coal will go to Japan over the next 15 years.

Mine Firm, Indians To Talk

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Supreme Court suit by an Indian band and a mining company it owns against Bethlehem Copper Corp. Ltd. today was set over indefinitely pending an attempt to reach an out-of-court settlement.

Lawrence Page, lawyer for the Cook's Ferry Indian band of The Highland Valley area of southern interior B.C., said the two parties will try to resolve the dispute without continuing court proceedings.

The band filed a writ last August claiming that Bethlehem has trespassed on a portion of Indian reserve land in filing copper claims.

The writ, on behalf of the band the the Indian-owned Dark Hawk Mines Ltd., seeks damages for alleged trespass and an interlocutory injunction banning further trespass, as well as voiding of certain claims filed by Bethlehem.

Levy Demanding Seaway Control

TORONTO (CP) — The Levy brothers of Toronto, claiming they control more than half the shares of Seaway-Multi Corp. Ltd., Wednesday called for a special shareholders' meeting to remove the company's present directors.

It was another step in a battle for control of Seaway which has sent the firm's common stock from under $6 in late March to $17.25 at the close of trading on the Toronto Stock Echange Wednesday.

Mark, Benjamin and Edward Levy, and three corporations they control, said they own or control about $1,150,000 of Seaway's 1,826,700 issued common shares.

They called for the meeting to remove present Seaway directors, elect new ones, and to name an inspector to investigate the affairs and management of Seaway since Dec. 31, 1968.

Their request was under the Corporations Act which permits calling of a special meeting at the request of shareholders holding not less than 10 per cent of the issued shares.

Seaway recently fired the Levy brothers as employees of Levy Industries Ltd., a subsidiary which Seaway bought from the Levys for $28,000,000 last year. Seaway now is suing members of the family in connection with the purchase.

Seaway, until the end of 1968, was called Seaway Hotels Ltd., and operated a number of hotels motels in eastern Canada.

$10 Billion Outstanding

OTTAWA (CP) — Balances outstanding on the books of principal grantors of consumer credit totalled $10 billion at the end of January, but this figure is not strictly comparable with the $9 billion reported for a year earlier.

Reporting the figures Wednesday, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics announced it has shifted some figures to make the new total more clearly representative of consumer credit.

The old figures included some large amounts of credit granted by sales finance and consumer loan companies for the purchase of automobiles, when these cars were to be used in commercial fleets of automobiles. These now have been classified as commercial credit.

The new figures show an increase of more than one-third in personal cash loans of over $1,500 granted by the sales finance and consumer loan companies. The total at the end of January this year was $1,071,000,000 compared with $802,000,000 a year earlier.

Unsecured personal loans by chartered banks, other than for home improvements, rose 12.4 per cent in the year to $4,161,000,000 from $3,701,000,000. Life insurance policy loans were up 17.1 per cent at $651,000,000 compared with $556,000,000 at the end of January last year.

Not included in the new $10,062,000,000 total is consumer credit that is reported to the bureau less frequently than once a month. Oil company credit card accounts are reported only every three months and at the end of 1969 they totalled $153,000,000, up 16.8 per cent from a year earlier.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

Pato

Pato Consolidated Gold Dredging Ltd. operating in Columbia, South America and with head office in Vancouver, reported a drop in net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1969.

The company said despite higher gold prices in 1969, net earnings fell to $738,482 or 21 cents a share from $4.4 million or $1.27 a share in 1968.

Last year capital gains amounted to only $23,092 compared with $3.8 million the year before, while retained earnings were $2.9 million compared with $938,388 in 1968.

Coronation

Coronation Credit Corporation Ltd. had net earnings of $351,189 for the six-month period ended Jan. 31 compared to $122,705 in the corresponding period the year before.

After payment of $86,583 in preference share dividends, net earnings available to common shareholders were $264,606 or nine cents a share compared to $122,705 or five cents a share the year before when no preference share dividends were paid.

Power Corp.

Shareholders of Power Corp. of Canada Ltd. have voted to increase the investment company's authorized common stock by 10 million shares to 30 million shares.

The increase will enable Power Corp. to acquire the remaining outstanding shares of Consolidated-Bathurst Ltd., one of Canada's largest pulp and paper producers, for an outlay of more than $100 million.

Power Corp. now owns 16½ per cent of the common shares of Consolidated-Bathurst.

Granduc

Granduc Mines Ltd. reports an increase to $23.8 million in assets at Dec. 31, 1969 from $23.7 million at the end of 1968.

The company said its working capital at the end of 1969 was $255,247 compared with $352,596 at Dec. 31, 1968.

'Committees Destroy Men Who Lead'

Society is destroying men with leadership qualities, Ronald R. Jeffels, director of admissions at the University of Victoria, said Wednesday.

"Leadership is being destroyed because men are no longer able to carry out their responsibilities . . . they are hedged in and about by committees," he told the annual meeting of the Community Council of Greater Victoria.

"This is one of the most destructive forces in society today."

The destruction of leadership was adversely affecting government, church, armed forces, business and university, he said.

Jeffels pointed out that government by committees resulted in no clear cut decisions. Policies which were not clear but rather amorphous.

There was also a tendency today to be governed by unstructured groups, he said.

ISSUES NOT FACED

"Issues are not faced and nothing really organized," he said.

Speaking on a "decade of disaffection," he said people were disturbed with changes taking place today.

"The present actors on the stage are duly conscious of the clamor of the voices off, accompanied by rather thunderous noises as conventional props and traditional scenery collapse on the stage," he said.

They should be concerned, he said, as there were signs of degeneration everywhere.

Rationalism was on the decline and was being replaced by a new type of romanticism based largely on sensationalism.

Forces were also at work to destroy the traditional role of men and women, he said.

'MAKE THEM ONE'

"There is a tendency to make them one, to make them look the same," he said. "This all tends to destroy the individual — to make everything uniform — all in keeping with a faceless society."

Ald. Edith Gunning, vice-president, chaired the meeting in the absence of president Harold Moist who was unable to be present.

The president's report showed the housing registry report was being widely used by community groups planning the building of housing.

"I know of no other source where information pertaining to the numbers of persons needing houses, the type of accommodation required, family composition and financial circumstances is available," it said.

ASSIST NEEDY

The report said the community council is seeking to have a community organization to operate the Christmas Bureau formed to assist the needy at Christmas time.

The council has been operating the bureau for years.

A small committee under the chairmanship of John di Castri would be undertaking a feasibility study pertaining to a regional administrative structure for welfare services, the president said.

It would seek information on all of Victoria's community's health, welfare, recreation and correctional services.

The study was requested by the board of the capital regional district and the provincial social welfare branch. Its aim is to avoid duplication of services.

HOUSING

Plans were going ahead for the construction of a housing project for handicapped persons, their families and senior citizens, the president said.

The community council was particularly interested in the development of an activity centre for handicapped children in conjunction with the centre, he added.

"This would fill a major gap in the services to the handicapped," he said.

Addiction Centre Opens Monday

A Victoria centre to help people addicted to drugs will open at 1290 Gladstone Ave. Monday.

Establishment of a non-profit society to provide facilities to deal with drug problems, was approved at an open meeting held at the Dominion Hotel Tuesday.

It was chaired by William Ogston.

"We will provide counselling to young people taking drugs," said Ogston. "The same service will be available to worried parents. We will stress group and individual therapy."

He said the centre would be mainly staffed with volunteers but professional help would be available.

He said many of the centre's supporters were people between the age of 18 and 50 who were once addicted to drugs.

"The centre will fill a gap in the community," he said. "It was badly needed. We also plan to open a similar centre in Nanaimo."

Operation of the centre would rely mainly on financial contributions from individuals and community organizations.

"The society hopes to have 150 financial sponsors donating $10 a month," he said. "This would meet its yearly budget of $18,000." He said people wishing to make contributions should make them out to the British Columbia Drug Dependency Society or the Victoria Centre, 1290 Gladstone Avenue. The centre's telephone number is 382-1321.

Everybody Fleeced but the Audience

GALUPPI
. . . polish

By JUDI FREEMAN

Almost everybody got fleeced Wednesday night — except the audience. It walked away with an evening full of laughs.

The scene was the McPherson Playhouse with Victoria Fair's preview of Turcaret playing to a capacity crowd of willing victims.

But the only victimizing took place on stage in the 18th century drawing room of a Paris baroness.

Turcaret, the corpulent financier, loves the baroness who loves the knight. The knight is fleecing the baroness who is fleecing the financier.

The financier, by the way, just happens to be fleecing the general public.

Take these swindlers, surround them with a cast of other cheaters and you have a French farce. Director Ralph Allen wrote his adaptation from the original by Alain-Rene Lesage. French drama buffs may be able to pinpoint change in nuance, joke or style but the play suffers nothing in its translation.

The audience had a satisfying evening, expressing their enjoyment of characters such as the Marquis, played by Anthony Jenkins. Jenkins gave a convincing portrayal of a French fop having trouble with his "cwedit."

Professionals Richard Galuppi, as Turcaret, and Richard Davidson, as Frontin, provided polish and pace.

However, professionally fast-paced as the play was Wednesday night, the speed didn't quite jibe with a few of the lines. The convoluted sentences lost their meaning almost before they were voiced.

And at times, what should have been a laugh at a well-understood joke became a desperate chase for meaning down a long flight of words.

But with jokes coming from all sides, one or two won't be missed. Fortunately, many scenes built their humor on rich characterizations rather than on specific punch-lines.

The elaborate sets and costuming provided a visual effect to match the richness of the acting.

Harriet Allen as the baroness and Wandalie Henshaw as Mrs. Jacob gave particularly sure performances.

The play continues until Saturday and will be a highlight of Victoria Fair this summer.

LICENCE SUSPENDED

Paul D. Wannamaker, 3289 Galloway, was fined $300 for impaired driving and his licence was suspended for four months.

He was observed by police driving a car on Goldstream Avenue about 1:30 a.m. March 15 that had weaved over the centre line several times.

James C. Murray, 2620 Sooke Road, was fined $250 driving a vehicle without insurance.

He was stopped on Jacklin Road March 13 about 2:30 p.m. and he didn't have coverage at the time.

On First Space Ride, Haise Going All the Way

By PAUL RECER

HOUSTON (AP) — Fred W. Haise Jr. has trained three years for space, but the idea of soon setting foot on the moon still boggles his mind a bit.

"I'm not sure it's really hit me yet," says the 36-year-old civilian astronaut. "On a few occasions I've awakened with a little sense of butterflies from maybe a realization that it's really coming true."

On his first flight into space, Haise will spend up to 10 hours exploring the rugged highlands of the moon. He is the lunar module pilot of Apollo 13. He and astronaut James A. Lovell Jr. will make man's riskiest landing yet on the moon.

Haise is a Biloxi, Miss., native who as a youth had no intention of becoming a pilot. He wanted to be a journalist.

But after graduating from Perkinston Junior College in Mississippi at the age of 18, Haise joined the naval air cadet program "because that was the only program I could go into at that age and get a commission and become an officer."

WORRIED ABOUT FLYING

"It began to worry me near the end of three or four months of pre-flight training when all at once I realized that I was actually going to have to fly an airplane as part of that goal of getting a commission," Haise said. "I'd never flown before in my life. I'd had no inclination toward flying prior to that time."

But Haise found that flying gave him "a lot of enjoyment and self-satisfaction."

He spent 2½ years as a fighter pilot at Cherry Point, N.C., and after discharge in 1956, went back to school for a degree in aeronautical engineering.

He entered the University of Oklahoma, graduated with honors in 1959 and accepted a job with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as a research pilot.

NASA later transferred him to the aerospace research pilot school at Edwards Air Force Base near Los Angeles where he graduated as the outstanding student in his class. He was one of 19 pilots selected as astronauts in 1966.

Haise married the former Mary Grant in 1954 and his wife is expecting their fourth child in June—only a few weeks after the post-Apollo 15 quarantine is scheduled to end on May 8. The Haises' three other children are Mary, 14, Frederick, 11, and Stephen, 8.

Toronto's 'Probe' Used to Prod Cleveland Polluters

By KORKY KOROLUK

CLEVELAND, Ohio (CP) — The work of Toronto's Pollution Probe is becoming known in Cleveland through a publication of the League of Women Voters.

Probe's well-publicized list of phosphates in detergents appears in the current issue of the Lake Erie Letter, a monthly bulletin published by the league.

William F. Tritton calls the list "an effective piece of work that is providing us with a valuable weapon."

The league also is publishing a 14-point, true-false quiz to enable people to assess for themselves how they rate as polluters. If 10 or more statements are answered with a true, you're a gross polluter; six to nine trues make you a medium polluter; one to five make you a simple polluter, and if you reply with a false to all 14 points, you are perfect.

It is difficult not to answer true to some of the statements which include:

—I burn some leaves every fall;

—I insist that everyone flush the toilet after every use;

—I have thrown away some cans and bottles recently.

HAS TOUGH FIGHT

Mayor Carl Stokes of Cleveland, an advocate of stiff anti-pollution measures, has run into so much opposition from suburban communities that he talked the city of Cleveland into imposing a water ban.

This is a no-sewers, no-water policy.

The city supplies water to most of Cuyahoga County and parts of Summit and Medina counties, and refuses to issue tap-in permits in communities without adequate sewerage. Many suburban officials consider this blackmail but Stokes has maintained a hard line.

He recently told a meeting of suburban mayors:

"We not only imposed the water ban, we are going to continue this ban and if some of you don't like it, then go to court. The ban will continue until the highest court in the land tells us it would rather see the streams and lakes polluted and dying than have the community deprived of a water supply for which it cannot afford to dispose the resultant sewage."

The Cleveland city action arose from Stoke's frustration with the problems of an area that sorely needs some form of regional government. Surrounding Cleveland are about four dozen cities and incorporated towns in three or four counties. Each insists upon maintaining as much local autonomy as possible. The result is endless bickering when it is suggested that a few adjoining towns get together to build so simple a thing as a trunk sewer.

SEEK JOINT TREATMENT

Currently in dispute is a proposal that would bring the sewage from much of the area into three central treatment plants.

It would be an effective way to treat the sewage but local officials look upon it as an infringement upon local rights.

At the urging of Stokes, voters in the city a year ago approved a referendum on a $100,000,000 bond issue to finance the pollution fight. The bond issue has been floated but much of the money remains unspent while local politicians argue.

The city has been invited to explain to the state why it is lagging so far behind in the area of water pollution, an explanation which is due in about a week.

against all tire failures for the life of the tread, PLUS — Guaranteed to wear for 36 months. WIDEGUARD tires are built to give up to double the mileage of ordinary tires. Fiberglas belts give a big edge on traction, handling and manoeuvrability because of more contact with the road at all times.

1. Better handling on curves—tread is in full contact with road, while side walls take up stress of tight curves.
2. Stop in shorter distances because tread stays open, gives firmer grip, means better traction than ordinary tires.
3. Your WIDEGUARD TIRES last up to twice as long because belts keep tread from squirming, stopping major cause of tire wear.

Baseball anyone? And in the middle of the hockey playoffs, too. Sport seasons mean nothing now. What's a fellow to do? But then, it is that time of the year, isn't it?

Yes, the small-ball season is underway and into its second century. But many misgivings are still dangling over the scene.

Denny McLain has confessed and been given his pennance. It may have surprised the Detroit star to find he wasn't as guilty as he thought he was, or said he was. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn told him that he wasn't really a member of the bookmaking trust. He only thought he was. He was being duped.

So, it actually wasn't all his fault, and the fact that he hadn't bet on baseball, only basketball, convinced Kuhn that he wasn't all bad. He had made unfortunate friendships. That's all. He could be excused for that. And now he could play baseball again. In July. That's when his pennance would expire.

But be good in the meantime, and be careful, and don't talk to strangers, or his Tiger teammates. Those were the guidelines.

Seattle got its verdict, too, after a long cold winter, an equally frigid spring.

The Pilots were told to pack up and move on to Milwaukee. The Pacific Northwest didn't deserve to have baseball. Seattle couldn't support it. Milwaukee would do much better. Because, after all, Milwaukee had been a major league town once before. And hadn't the National League been guilty of playing hob with the franchise? They had given it away to Atlanta in a snit. And now the benevolent American League would make it all right again.

●

Eight thousand people showed up at the airport to greet the new Brewers on their first visit to town. That was more than attended most Pilot home games last year. This was Milwaukee's first display of affection. There was more tangible appreciation Tuesday night. The Brewers' home opener attracted 37,000. The Brewers (nee Pilots) were so shook up, they got bombed, 12-0.

There will be more, about Seattle, in the courts. But for now the Pilots have gone, forever.

The sport itself is in a bind. Curt Flood, an outfielder by trade, has challenged the reserve clause. Flood doesn't want to be told with which team he must play. He is giving up a $90,000 salary to settle his peace of mind. And he has hired former U.S. Supreme Court justice Arthur Goldberg to assist him in his crusade. This includes a $1 million suit against organized baseball.

It all started when Flood was traded from the St. Louis Cardinals to Philadelphia Phillies for Richie Allen. He didn't want to leave St. Louis. Baseball, too, has not yet signed an agreement with the players association. This will probably come about, because nobody really wants a strike; and the fact that talks are still going on is a hopeful sign.

And as this is the era of tarnished images, baseball is taking a long look at itself.

Is the game that dull, too tedious, too long? Does the sport fan want more for his dollar? What can be done to improve the image? All these questions are a part of the sport, just as they were last year.

●

That's when the league split up into four divisions. And what happened? Interest grew, attendances were generally up, and the revival was noted and appreciated. There were few complaints. But still there is the theme heard most often: The game must be speeded up.

But then, baseball, is not a speed-up game. It's a relaxing sport, to watch. And really, once into summer, and the hot weather of the east and midwest, who wants to hurry? There probably will be an innovation, or two. But what? Maybe another bazooka ball! Kuhn hasn't given up on that. He is committed to change.

On the playing field, the New York Mets will have all eyes upon them. Will they endure, and live on to win another pennant?

The oracles of Las Vegas say no. St. Louis will be stronger because of Allen, and will be 4-1 to win as they should have done last year.

The Mets, meanwhile, will attempt to relive their impossible seance of last season with virtually the same club. Only at third base is there a change. Ed Charles is gone. Joe Foy, he of many teams, is the new man. There is not much to recommend him as a super-Met. But then the Mets were never recommended last year, not until mid August.

That's when they were buried nine games behind Chicago. They won 26 out of their next 32 games.

That's part of the legend. That and the Mets' fine young pitching staff. During one 10-game winning streak last year, Met pitchers gave up only 11 runs. They should be even stingier this year. And everyone knows what happened in the world series. Ask the Orioles.

●

But will it happen again?

Yes, it will. The Mets will prevail. True, the Cardinals are strong, but they are rebuilding, and may not have plugged all the holes in the process. Chicago was right there until the final weeks last year, and with basically the same club, will be pressing. Leo Durocher was charged with mis-management in the moment of stress in Chicago. He has outlived that and the Cubs are good enough to win it all, with due deference to the Mets. So put the Cubs second.

But watch for a tight race. The Cardinals and Pittsburgh certainly will offer many arguments. The Pirates have the hitting, the Cards the pitching. Take your pick for third. St. Louis is the choice here. Which leaves Philadelphia and Montreal to gather up the crumbs.

Tomorrow, the National West and the American League.

Hurler's Horseplay Could Cost Finger

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Pitcher Cecil Upshaw of Atlanta Braves severely cut the ring finger of his right hand during horseplay with a group of other players Wednesday night and was taken to Stanford Medical Centre at Palo Alto, Calif., for surgery.

A spokesman for the Braves said doctors had not determined whether it would be necessary to remove the finger.

The spokesman said Upshaw, a right-hander, and several other players were walking along a street "discussing the National Basketball Association playoffs."

"Upshaw suddenly leaped up to demonstrate how he used to sink baskets when he played basketball. He caught his finger on an overhanging awning or some similar object, and severely cut his finger."

Dr. Richard Braun of San Diego determined that there was artery and nerve damage, and advised immediate surgery.

Upshaw had a 6-4 record last season.

Blues Topple North Stars; Seals Edged by Penguins

By The Canadian Press

As if the National Hockey League still wasn't convinced that Bobby Orr and Phil Esposito are its top scorers, the two Boston Bruins marksmen Wednesday night combined for a total of seven points to set the pace in their drive for the Stanley Cup.

Esposito, last season's scoring champion and second only to Orr this year, scored three goals to lead the Bruins in an 8-2 romp over New York Rangers in the opening game of their quarter-final playoff series.

Orr, who won the scoring leadership this spring with 120 points, added two goals and both he and Esposito combined to set up Wayne Cashman for another of the Boston markers.

In the other Eastern Division series, the champion Chicago Black Hawks downed Detroit Red Wings 4-2. St. Louis Blues, the Western Division titlists, opened their series with a 6-2 win over Minnesota North Stars while Pittsburgh Penguins took their starter from Oakland Seals 2-1.

All four of the best-of-seven quarter-final series continue tonight at Chicago, Boston, St. Louis and Pittsburgh with the teams switching home arenas for the third and fourth games Saturday and Sunday.

The bruising battle at Boston started with Esposito getting his first two goals in the first 10 minutes. Rookie Jack Egers kept the Rangers in the game with a goal one minute before the period ended.

Orr started the second-period explosion with his two goals and Derek Sanderson, Esposito and Cashman followed up with one each. Fred Stanfield wrapped up the Boston scoring with his goal early in the final period before Bob Nevin collected the Rangers' other score.

Orr's second goal and the one by Sanderson came with the Bruins' Don Marcotte sitting out a tripping penalty.

Francis Gives Bobby Full Marks

Bruins coach Harry Sinden said after the game that Sanderson's goal on a pass from Eddie Westfall was the key score in the match.

"The play Westfall made to get the puck up to Sanderson was tremendous," Sinden said. "If there was a turning point, that was it."

But Emile Francis, Rangers manager-coach, went back to Orr's first goal which came when the Boston defenceman grabbed his own rebound off the goalpost and slipped the puck behind goalie Ed Giacomin.

"That was the backbreaker," Francis said. "Everybody seemed to stand around figuring the first shot had gone in, but the referee knew it hadn't. But give Orr credit—he had his wits about him, and he made sure the second one went in. Then, as if that isn't enough to seal the coffin, we get a man up and they score two goals."

The game got rough in the late stages with several fights breaking out. New York's Walt Tkaczuk, Bill Fairbairn, Brad Park and Orland Kurtenbach had scraps with Boston's Johnny McKenzie, Ken Hodge, Esposito and Sanderson.

CHANGE GOALIES

Giacomin lasted the first two periods with Terry Sawchuk taking over the New York goalie duties in the final session.

A crowd of 14,835 turned out to watch the start of the Bruins' run for the Stanley Cup which they last won in 1941, the year after the Rangers last held it.

The Black Hawks, whose last cup victory came in 1961, had a tougher time than the Bruins getting their first win.

The Red Wings took an early lead on a goal by Wayne Connelly but Pit Martin scored to tie the game late in the opening period before a Chicago crowd of 16,666.

Stan Mikita put the Hawks in front and Chico Maki's goal late in the middle period proved the clincher.

Gordie Howe's third-period goal cut the Hawks lead to 3-2 but they failed to get the equalizer even after pulling goalie Roy Edwards for an extra attacker in the final minute of play. Eric Nesterenko scored the Hawks' final goal into the empty Detroit nets.

Maki's goal also came when the Hawks were a man short while Martin and Mikita scored with Detroit players in the penalty box.

Gump Worsley, the losing goalie at St. Louis, was also over-worked as he faced 46 Blues shots on the Minnesota nets, allowing two goals each by Terry Crisp and Ab McDonald and one each from Red Berenson and Gary Sabourin.

10TH STRAIGHT

The North Stars' Bill Goldsworthy and Jean-Paul Parise put the puck behind veteran netminder Jacques Plante who stopped 19 other shots.

The crowd of 16,304 fans saw the Blues claim their 10th straight victory in Western Division Stanley Cup action. The Blues were eliminated in the cup final by the Eastern Division's Montreal Canadiens in the last two playoff encounters.

The Blues, who were second only to Boston in power-play goals scored during the regular season, collected three of their scores while playing with a man advantage.

At Pittsburgh, the Penguins edged by the Seals on a disputed goal by Nick Harbaruk late in the third period.

Oakland goalie Gary Smith allowed a goal by Jean Pronovost and Pittsburgh's Les Binkley let in one by Gerry Ehman in the first period. The two netminders held the game scoreless the rest of the way until Harbaruk put the puck in the Oakland nets on a goal-mouth scramble.

Smith came charging out of the nets claiming the goal should be disallowed because he had been interfered with in his nets by Pittsburgh's Glen Sather, but referee Bruce Hood let the score stand at 2-1.

Sniffling Arnie Sounds Warning

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer sniffled and snorted with a bad cold and announced that his golf game "is sounder than it has been in five years opening the Masters." Coming from a four-time champion, it sounded like a warning to all the rest.

Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and 80 other golfers, including Toronto's George Knudson, started today in the 34th fight to win the Masters tournament at Augusta National Club.

"I feel physically up to it," said the 40-year-old Palmer.

"Although I'm not hitting the ball better than past years, my over-all game has as much muscle as, well . . . as it did in the early 1960s."

Palmer won the Masters in 1958-60-62-64.

EAGER FOR ACTION

"I can't think of many things I want more than a fifth Masters," he said. "Sure, I'd like to have a PGA championship, too, since I've never won that one. But I'm eager to see what happens at Augusta National this week."

The rolling Augusta National course is a subject of controversy. Some, like Bruce Devlin and Dan Sikes, say it appears in poorer shape than any of their past years here. Nicklaus, on the other hand, says it's not as pretty but is super for pure golf.

"The greens are fast and I'll be the happiest cat around if they're like greased lightning and experience comes into play. When experience comes into play, I think I'll be among those with an advantage."

GREENS SLICKER

Jack and his close pal from amateur golf days, Deane Beman, agreed that the greens are slicker for this Masters than any since 1965. "Recalling my trips here, I would say that 1959, '60 and $65 gave us the fastest greens, but they are rolling well now," said the tiny Beman.

Augusta's normally money-green fairways showed a tinge of brown in spots from an extended Georgia winter, but handy workers with cans of green spray paint were making certain late Wednesday that the green is there for the weekend ahead.

Champ Leading Snooker Series

TORONTO (CP) — George Chenier, 63, defending champion, used a 52-break in the fifth game against challenger Eddy Agha of Montreal Wednesday to win the five-game set 3-2.

Chenier, North American title holder for 22 consecutive years, leads the series 20-10.

Ted Green Isn't Planning To Return During Playoffs

OTTAWA (CP) — Ted Green of Boston Bruins Wednesday discounted the possibility that he would get into the current National Hockey League playoffs.

Green, who suffered a fractured skull in a stick fight with Wayne Maki in an exhibition game here Sept. 21 and who has missed the entire regular schedule, was declared physically fit late Tuesday by his Ottawa physician, Dr. Jean Richard.

* * *

This opened the way to Green serving the 13-game suspension set by NHL president Clarence Campbell following the stick fight. Campbell said earlier he would await the doctor's verdict before allowing the suspension to begin.

Although Campbell has not announced his decision, if the suspension was ruled to start from last night's Boston-New York game, it is possible that it could be completed while Bruins are still engaged in the playoffs.

Green, however, said that he does not expect to see action until the start of next season.

* * *

Green's trial on a charge of common assault was adjourned here Wednesday until May 27 after testimony of game officials, photographers and spectators. His lawyer, Edward Houston, told Judge M. J. Fitzpatrick that he might want to call Bruins executive and a Boston reporter as witnesses and that it would not be convenient for them to appear until after the playoffs.

Maki was acquitted last month on a similar charge, laid following the incident.

GORGE EDGES OAK BAY IN JACKSON CUP SEMI

Gorge Molsons advanced to the April 22 Jackson Cup soccer final Wednesday night by ousting Oak Bay 2-1 in a semi-final tussle at Royal Athletic Park.

Dan Henry scored both Gorge goals, one in each half, while Palle Polson averted a shutout for Bays with a successful penalty shot in the final half.

Molsons, champions in the Victoria and District Soccer League's first division this season, plays the winner of next Wednesday's match between Victoria West and Hourigans in the final round.

McLeod Shuts Out Totems in Opener

PORTLAND (AP) — Jim McLeod got the shutout that eluded him in the regular season as Portland Buckaroos stopped Seattle Totems 6-0 Wednesday night in their first Western Hockey League semi-final meeting.

Second game in the best-of-seven series will be in Seattle Friday night. Portland was No. 2 in the regular season. Seattle tied for fourth with Phoenix Road-runners and won a playoff game to face Portland.

Vancouver Canucks, No. 1 and bound for the NHL next year, lead No. 3 San Diego Gulls 1-0 in the other semi-final series and play next in Vancouver Friday night.

Portland scored four times in the second period to break open a tight game that was scoreless until the final 49 seconds of the opening period.

Cliff Schmautz got the opening goal and added the final talley in the third period.

Rich Van Impe picked up a pair of goals for Portland in the second, when Dennis Kearns and Bill Saunders also scored. Mcleod slapped away 27 Seattle attempts before a crowd of 5,114.

Phils Receive One Player In Flood Deal

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals have sent first baseman Guillermo Montanez to Philadelphia to compensate the Phillies for Curt Flood, who was traded but will not play this year.

The Phillies also have the right to choose another player Aug. 31.

Flood was involved in a multiplayer trade with Philadelphia at the end of last season. But he filed a suit challenging the reserve clause in baseball player contracts and as a result is sitting out the 1970 season.

McGrandle Knocked Out

EDMONTON (CP) — Jose Luis Pimentel of Los Angeles stopped Billy McGrandle of Edmonton at 2:55 of the fifth round in a professional boxing card Wednesday night.

Pimentel, 28, former No. 1 contender for the world featherweight title, downed McGrandle with a left hook.

It was Pimentel's 28th victory in 31 bouts. He has won 23 by knockouts. McGrandle, 21, has four losses and a draw in 31 bouts.

Giants Win Strategy Struggle; Joe Niekro Shuts Out Senators

Second Blanking By 'Weak' Corps

By Associated Press

Joe Niekro is the latest Detroit Tiger hurler to take up some of the slack caused by the gambling suspension of Denny McLain, ace of the Detroit staff.

The 25-year-old right-hander, obtained from San Diego in an off-season trade, made his American League debut a rousing success Wednesday night with a six-hit, 3-0 blanking of the Washington Senators.

It was the second shutout of the slugging Senators in three days by the supposedly weakened Detroit mound corps, although they were battered for 17 hits and 14 runs in the middle game of the series. Mickey Lolich stopped Washington on seven hits opening day.

Elsewhere, Kansas City's Dick Drago stopped Oakland 2-0 on a four-hitter, Mike Cuellar hurled Baltimore past Cleveland 3-2 and three California pitchers combined to hand Milwaukee its second straight setback 6-1.

In the National League, St. Louis trounced Montreal 7-2, Atlanta whipped San Diego 6-1, San Francisco edged Houston 5-4 and Cincinnati beat Los Angeles 5-2.

CHANGES GAME

Bill Freehan's two-run homer in the seventh inning following Willie Horton's single broke up a duel between Niekro and Washington's much-traveled George Brunet, now with his eighth major league team.

The Tigers added their third run in the same inning on a walk to Don Wert, a single off Brunet by Cesar Gutierrez and a wild pitch by reliever Horacio Pina.

Niekro worked out of three jams in the first six innings, getting Ken McMullen for the third out each time with runners on base.

Drago didn't permit Oakland a hit after the fourth inning and allowed only four runners as far as second base. He got the only run he needed in the fourth inning when Amos Otis singled, took second on an infield out and rode home on Ed Kirkpatrick's single.

The Royals picked up an insurance run in the eighth when Bob Oliver scored on a perfect suicide squeeze bunt by Luis Alcaraz.

The defending champion Orioles made it two in a row over Cleveland, scoring all three runs in the second inning and holding on behind Cuellar's five-hit pitching.

Saanich Lacrosse

Saanich Minor Lacrosse Association squads will hold first practice sessions Saturday at Braefoot and Hampton parks. Tykes will practice from 9 to 10 a.m., novices from 10 to 11, peewees from 11 to noon and bantams from noon until 1 p.m. Midgest will only be in Braefoot from 2 to 4 p.m.

Honors Shared

Joan Gillan and Doris Usher each carded a net 79 to share "A" division honors during a women's Darcus Cup and medal contest at Uplands Golf Club.

Other divisional winners were Doreen Gage, Betty Moore, J. Meredith and D. Austin.

Exhibition Park Set for Opener

VANCOUVER — Exhibition Park will open its golden anniversary season of thoroughbred racing in Vancouver Friday night.

Net proceeds from the opening night's card, starting at 6:15, will go to the United Community Services building fund.

Friday's feature will be a six-furlong dash for $5,000 claimers.

Saturday afternoon the top sprinters at the park will meet over six furlongs in the $5,000 added Inaugural Handicap.

Racing will be held on Friday and Saturday's only for the first two weeks before the regular Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday schedule commences on April 27. Parade to the post will be 6:15 p.m. on weekdays and 1:45 on Saturdays.

The jockey colony has been bolstered by the presence of veteran Ray York. He won the Kentucky Derby in 1954 on Determine.

Shifts at Plate Pay Off for King

By Associated Press

There were the San Francisco Giants trailing Houston 4-2 with two out and nobody on in the bottom of the eighth inning Wednesday night.

The Giants had lost their opener to the Astros Tuesday and clearly, something had to be done fast. It was.

Hal Lanier singled and moved up on a wild pitch. Steve Whitaker delivered a pinch double for one run. Now the wheels started turning in earnest. Manager Clyde King sent up left-handed Bob Burda, who had six homers and 27 RBIs last year to bat for righty Bobby Bonds (32 homers, 90 RBIs last season).

That move so shook Houston skipper Harry Walker that he yanked righty Jack Billingham for southpaw Jack DiLauro. King played the percentage game all the way, sending up righty Ron Hunt to pinch hit for pinch hitter Burda. Naturally, it worked.

HUNT HITS, RUNS

Hunt singled the tying run across and moments later scampered home with the winner on rookie Allan Gallagher's double.

Elsewhere Wednesday, Atlanta thumped San Diego 6-1, Cincinnati trimmed Los Angeles 5-2 and St. Louis took Montreal 7-2 in the only games scheduled.

Until the managerial wheels began spinning, the Giants and Astros had been engaged in a long ball duel. Dick Dietz tagged a two-run homer for San Francisco and Doug Rader and pinch hitter Jim Beauchamp—a strategy coup by Walker—cracked Houston homers.

Richie Allen staged an explosive debut for St. Louis, walloping a homer and two doubles in the Cards' victory over Montreal.

Allan scored the first St. Louis run after doubling in the fourth, then tied the game with a homer in the eighth and drove in two more runs with his ninth inning double.

Bob Gibson, with ninth-inning help from Chuck Taylor, was the winner, allowing just five hits—only two after the first inning.

Coaching Post To McCafferty

BALTIMORE (AP) — Don McCafferty was named head coach of Baltimore Colts Monday, after serving 11 seasons as an offensive aide of the National Football League team. Cafferty, 49, replaces Don Shula, who quit Feb. 18 to become head coach, general manager and part owner of Miami Dolphins. McCafferty joined the Colts in 1959 as offensive end coach and scout under Weeb Ewbank. When Shula took over in 1963, McCafferty was named offensive backfield coach.

Defending Champs Fall In National Tournament

WINNIPEG (CP)—Three of five defending champions were eliminated Wednesday in the Canadian closed badminton championship semi-finals.

The defending women's singles champion, Judy Rollick of Vancouver, was upset 12-9, 11-1 by Nancy McKinley of Vancouver.

Mrs. Rollick, teamed with her husband Bruce, also failed to retain the mixed doubles crown. The Rollicks were beaten by an unseeded pair, Marg Shedd of Toronto and Ahmed Shaikh of Vancouver, 15-6, 15-6.

The third upset was in the women's doubles where the defending champions, Miss Shedd and Barbara Hood of Toronto, lost to Pat Moody of Montreal and Miss McKinley, 7-15, 15-8, 15-1.

Defending men's singles champion Jamie Paulson of Calgary remained in contention with an 11-15, 15-10, 15-3 win over Montreal's Yves Pare.

Paulson then teamed with Pare in defence of their men's doubles title to beat Wayne Macdonnell and Rollick 15-2, 15-6.

In other men's singles action, Rollick advanced into the finals against Paulson with a 15-13, 15-5 win over Macdonnell.

WINS BERTH

In women's singles, second-seeded Alison Ridgway of Vancouver won a finals berth with a 12-10, 11-9 win over Sharon Whittaker of Vancouver.

In women's doubles, second-seeded Mrs. Rollick and Mimi Nilssen of Vancouver defeated Jennifer Dakin and Nancy Lynch of Toronto to advance to the finals.

In men's doubles, Paulson and Pare will meet unseeded Dave Charron and Jim Lynch of Toronto, who upset Greg and Geoff Harris, the second-seeded twins from Calgary, 15-7, 15-7.

Third-seeded Pare and Pat Moody defeated second-seeded Mimi Nilssen and Rolf Paterson of Vancouver to gain a finals berth in mixed doubles.

In men's singles quarter-final Wednesday, Paulson downed Pal Chawla of Winnipeg 15-3, 15-10, and Pare defeated Don Smith of Calgary 15-3, 12-15, 15-11.

Macdonnell defeated Vancouver's Mike Epstein 15-10, 15-7, and Rollick defeated Charron 15-11, 15-7.

In men's doubles, the Harris twins defeated Chawla and Larry Ladyman 15-13, 15-8, Charron and Lynch downed Paterson and Shaikh 15-11, 15-11 and Macdonnell and Rollick beat Patrick Daly and Jamie McKee of Toronto 15-5, 15-6.

Paulson and Pare combined to defeat the Toronto pair of Jim Peters and Jan Novotny 15-7, 15-7.

In mixed doubles, Mimi Nilssen and Paterson defeated Ann McDiarmaid and Damon Chawla of Winnipeg 15-6, 15-7, Pat Moody and Pare defeated Nancy and Jim Lynch 15-2, 17-16.

Dowling Wins Three Crowns

John Dowling of the Victoria Racquet Club claimed three junior squash titles at the weekend, winning the under-17 crown during an invitational tournament in Vancouver as well as club championships in the under-15 and under-17 brackets.

Dowling defeated Angus Izard and Phil Green, respectively, for the club championships.

Another Racquet Club player, Glen Bradshaw, won the under-15 title at Vancouver.

Other club champions were Green (under-18), Izard (under-13) and Charles Proctor (under-11).

ESQUIMALT FINALIZING PREMIER SPORTS WEEK

Esquimalt Sports Week will make its debut May 31 to June 6.

Plans are now being drawn up by the Esquimalt Recreation Commission to have over 1,000 athletes participate in various sports during the week-long festival.

Games each night of the week will include lacrosse, a tennis tournament and boys' and girls' softball tourneys.

Highlight of the week will be the naming of a male and female "athlete of the year" on June 6.

Sports Week Committee will finalize details of the festival Sunday at an 8 p.m. meeting in the Sports Centre.

Island Soccer Squads Seek Spots in Finals

Four teams in the Lower Island Juvenile Soccer Association and a side from Port Alberni have a chance this weekend to earn berths in the 18th annual Provincial Cup finals.

The "Tournament of Champions" is scheduled for the weekend of April 25-26 at Burnaby.

Only one of this weekend's semi-final tussles will take place in Victoria, with Gorge FC facing Westminster Blue Mountain Wanderers in a second-division struggle at 2 p.m. Sunday in Carnarvon Park.

Victoria Boys' Club takes on Burnaby Westburn for a Division I berth the same day in Burnaby. Evening Optimists of Victoria tackle Burnaby Imperials and Gorge FC takes on Westminister Whalley Elks in sixth and third division semis Saturday on the Mainland.

Alberni CJAV hosts Vancouver ANAF in a Division V battle the same day.

Oak Bay Yachts 'at the Marina'

We are proud to announce that Mr. Jorgen (Yawn) Baess has assumed command of our Sailing Instruction Program.

Jorgen (Yawn) is a well-known naval architect, Victoria businessman and international yachtsman. Born to the sea and very early well experienced in the rough Scandinavian waters, he qualified as a naval architect in Denmark.

Before settling in Victoria to practise with V.M.D., he spent a year as ski instructor at Sun Valley, Idaho. He has sailed in international competitions for Canada and, during the last 20 years, raced and cruised in his own boats in North American waters.

Jorgen (Yawn) Baess will start immediately. Oak Bay Yachts is providing for instruction a brand new "Grampian 26" sloop. The "Grampian 26" is the largest, roomiest, newest, competitive (in cost and performance) 26-footer available. The boat is fully equipped with all safety gear — all the extras for full instruction and convenience.

The "Grampian 26" has 5 full berths, galley, stove, fully enclosed heads, a very large cockpit and full head room. Each member of each group receiving instruction will only need: soft shoes, suitable clothing, an open mind. Sailing is fun, relaxing, refreshing. An easy disease to contract and almost incurable.

For the novice, basic instruction courses first. For the initiated, more serious courses are available to provide the more detailed techniques of cruising and racing.

Sailing is perhaps the fastest growing recreational activity in the western world today. Where better to learn it early, quickly and at minimum cost in the world's most lovely waters . . . in one of the finest boats and under best of skiper/instructors!

We are delighted to have Jorgen (Yawn) Baess join us. Call now to Oak Bay Yachts "at the Marina", 386-3488, for rates and information. Enroll now! Teen classes for those 13 to 19. Adult courses for those over.

Soggy Sod-Turning Ceremony As Artificial Turf Job Starts

VANCOUVER (CP) — Workmen moved onto Empire Stadium Wednesday for the start of an $839,801 facelift, including installation of the first synthetic-turf gridiron in Canada.

Target date for completion is June 30, a week before British Columbia Lions' first home game of the 1970 season — a Canadian Football League exhibition game against Edmonton Eskimos.

★ ★ ★

The project was launched with due ceremony — a luncheon and sod-turning ceremony attended by officials of the football club, Pacific National Exhibition, which operates the stadium, and the 3M company of St. Paul, Minn., which was awarded the contract to install 160,000 square feet of Tartan artificial turf to the playing field and an eight-lane running track that circles it.

Rain fell steadily during the sod-turning, underscoring the reason Vancouver city council ordered the expensive installation March 24.

Since the stadium was built in 1954 for the Empire Games, drainage problems had caused frequent problems on both the playing field and running track, both of which have been dug up and relaid several times.

★ ★ ★

Initial work includes removal of the present grass field and cinder track surface, replacing it with gravel and 3½ inches of asphalt.

Once the surface is completed, workmen will begin laying 110,000 square feet of artificial turf on the playing field and another 50,000 square feet on the running track. Officials said it would be the largest installation of synthetic turf surface in North America.

The $839,801 price tag breaks down into $167,036 for initial preparation work, $522,3T46 for the playing field installation, $141,344 for the running track installation plus $9,075 for track curbing, runways and three jump areas for track and field events.

In addition, the stadium operators have allocated $59,000 to refurbish the stadium proper, including painting and replacement of some seating sections.

TEAM FINED . . . . . . BARRED FROM CUP PLAY

Derby County Disciplined

LONDON (AP) — English soccer administrators fined Derby County the equivalent of $24,000 Wednesday and barred the team from next-season's European Fairs Cities Cup.

A joint commission of the English Football Association and the English League found Derby guilty of eight charges of breaking the rules governing payments to players.

One of the stars concerned was Dave MacKay, team captain and a former Scottish International. Derby paid him $4,800 above his normal salary for writing articles in the match programs—after being officially warned that this was not approved by the Football Association.

Sweet Reason Helps Truants Back to Class

By BOB MITCHELL

From September to the end of March some 325 students, most of them in grade 10 and 11, withdrew from Greater Victoria schools.

Ian Duncan thinks the figure, which is 2.5 per cent of 12,240 high school students, would be somewhat higher if it wasn't for Ian Duncan—or someone else in his place.

"I really think if there wasn't someone there to keep control there would be chaos.

"If I didn't go around to let them know somebody is watching it would become an everyday occurrence."

He shook his head in amazement as he told of one junior secondary girl who has been absent 76 days since last September.

Ian Duncan's job is to persuade anyone who deosn't want to go to school that he (or she) should go to school.

He's "attendance counsellor" for the Greater Victoria school board.

In the old days, he would have been known as "truant officer," traditionally a comic strip character, the school equivalent of the dog catcher.

But styles have changed—the force and authority of the truant officer have been replaced by the subtler persuasion of the attendance counsellor.

"My role is to promote attendance, not so much to prevent truancy.

"I'm not going to force them back to school. I haven't got the authority.

Won't Be Pushed

"You couldn't get to first base with these kids if you pushed them around as an authority.

"I've' got kids to go to school by going and talking with the parents or the kids involved, and this usually gets a great response."

Duncan started his work for the school board in 1957 after 12 years on the Victoria city police force.

He's been around so long he occasionally runs into a former dropouts — former clients—who have made it in the business or university world.

His work includes regular visits to bowling alleys, pool rooms and department stores where youngsters taking a vacation from the school grind might hang out.

One day he saw a young girl on Yates and asked her whether she shouldn't be at school. Laughing, she told him she was a music teacher at one of the local secondary schools.

"Girls are my problem. You get a girl 14 or 15 and you say to yourself, gosh, she must be 18 or 19."

Find the Problem

Duncan finds out about most absentee cases through school records. When a student puts together a long string of days absent the principal is likely to notify a special counsellor at the school board's special education division, who in turn passes difficult cases on to the attendance counsellor.

"My work is actually to find the problem."

There are several reasons why students decide not to go to schools: personality conflicts with teachers, boredom, domestic trouble.

Once he finds out through "discreet inquiries" why the student has dropped out he tries to arrange a group discussion of the problem with parents, student and himself.

"Sometimes I've felt like walking out on a situation.

"It's just . . .," he searched for words ". . . sick. I don't see how a kid can survive in a situation like that."

Working with families and their problems means Duncan must maintain contact with a number of agencies concerned with juveniles: the probation agency, the Family and Children's Service, departments of health and welfare and the juvenile detention home.

"I'm not concerned with what they're charged with," he said of the latter, "I'm just concerned with how long they're going to be there."

He admitted it's sometimes good for a student to get out of school for a while if he has a "good home background."

"Youngsters today must have tremendous support (at home) or else they will fall by the wayside.

"What I feel sorry for are the ones who haven't got the stability at home."

Pickup of Pesticides By Student Teams Called Frightening

An official of the B.C. agriculture department said today the prospect of teenagers picking up a variety of pesticides in Victoria Saturday is "frightening."

John Proctor, pesticide officer at the entomology and pest control division, said there "could be trouble" with youths not knowing how to handle pesticides.

"Where you get mixtures on the skin of three, four or five pesticides and exposure there is potential danger," he said.

"This could affect nervous systems — you just can't tell."

Mixing one normally safe pesticide with another normally safe pesticide could together produce "a toxicity which is very much greater."

★ ★ ★

Proctor said the youths are "really well motivated" and this was good to see, but they had made no approach to pesticide officials.

"I believe they should collect nothing but chlorinated hydrocarbons," he said, but the youths plan on collecting about 35 insecticides.

"It also worries me that they are going to go around with plastic bags and carry them. The bags won't support much weight so bang, bang, break and break."

Asked what the public should do to get rid of pesticides, Proctor said, anyone should bring them to the agriculture department in the Douglas building, Government Street.

Earlier this week, Kim Smith, a Grade 12 Mount View high school student, appealed to local garden enthusiasts to let him know if they have one of about 35 insecticides, including Aldrin, DDT and mercury compounds.

'MY LIFE NOT WORTH A NICKEL'

A Victoria man sentenced today to one year in provincial jail for possession of stolen B.C. Hydro bonds told County Court that if he was sent to the federal penitentiary "my life won't be worth a plugged nickel."

"They will take care of me inside for being a stool pigeon," said Rene Talon, 36, of 110 Government St.

Talon was convicted Tuesday of being in possession of seven $1,000 B.C. Hydro bonds stolen from the Vancouver firm of King and Scarfe Ltd. Jan. 13.

He cashed the bonds at four Victoria banks.

THREATENED

Before sentence was passed this morning, Talon was called to the witness stand by defence counsel Dermod Owen-Flood.

A dark-haired man in a brown suit Talon said he would not have cashed the bonds if his life had not been threatened by, men from Vancouver.

Talon said he was in debt for between $1,600 and $2,000 because of a business he operated in Victoria.

"Why were you afraid for your life?" asked Owen-Flood.

"They told me they would shoot my head off," Talon replied.

He said the three men gave him the seven bonds in Victoria and one said: "if I didn't cash them he would make sure nobody could find me, that is, he would get rid of me."

Talon said the three men came to his house and produced a shotgun.

"Did you believe this threat would be carried out?" asked Owen Flood.

'DONE TIME'

"Yes, various people told me such threats have been carried out and I knew these men had done time."

Talon said he was followed in a car by the men while he was cashing the bonds in Victoria banks. He was cross-examined extensively by Crown Counsel Cecil Branson.

Talon stated that if he came out of jail alive, he would go back into business. He spoke of a woman with two children and said "I will marry her if she will have me."

Earlier Talon admitted to a criminal record including sentences for theft and possession of house-breaking tools.

Budget Talks Next Week

Saanich council will sit down next week to produce the 1970 municipal budget and strike the mill, or tax, rate for the year.

Three evenings have been set aside for budget consideration. The meetings, at the municipal hall, start at 7:30 p.m. and are open to the public.

The provincial budget in January indicated expenditures of $8.9 million this year compared with $7.6 million last year, excluding education which is the responsibility of two school boards.

This forecast expenditure would require an additional tax levy of 8.6 mills, but three mills of this would be for garbage collection which in the past was paid separately.

However, the provisional figures will be subject to cutting at next week's meeting. Last year, the provisional budget would have required an increase of seven mills but the final budget showed an increase of 3.65 mills.

Poison Drop Protested By Conservationists

The Victoria Fish and Game Proctective Association today protesed the use of a deadly poison in a forest management program.

Robert Kennedy, president, said B.C. Forest Service proposes to coat spruce seeds with Edrin to kill forest mice.

Seeds form part of the diet of mice.

Edrin, a chlorinated hydrocarbon, is one of the deadliest of poisons.

Plans call for an air-drop of the poison-coated seeds in the Kassick River area, near the mouth of the Skeena River, Kennedy said.

"Such a program is bound to effect one of the best steelhead rivers left in British Columbia," he said. "The poison through the mice will also kill other forms of wildlife."

Mice form an important diet of owls, eagles, hawks and the peregrin falcon, all protected by law.

Wolves, cougars and other animals also feed on them.

"I've been told that the use of Edrin-coated seeds is only being tried as an experiment," he said. "Does this mean if it is successful it will be applied to all other forest areas in B.C.?"

Kennedy described the government's anti-pollution program as contradictory.

"This is Wildlife Week," he said. "One government department tells you to protect wildlife. Another department plans to use a poison which will kill it."

He recalled the government had announced that it planned to abolish the use of DDT and other deadly poisons by the end of the year.

'Million-Dollar' Rain Cheered by Foresters

While some Greater Victoria residents with flooded basements may be thinking otherwise, the steady downpour early today was a million-dollar rain for the Island and other parts of the province.

Lakes and creeks in the Greater Victoria watershed which have been below peak levels since last summer, rose sharply as more than 1½ inches of rain fell over a period of 12 hours.

Floyd Nelson, B.C. Forest Service protection officer, said the rain benefited the whole province — especially the interior where the land was parched.

Some grass fires had occurred last week but with the return of moist weather over the weekend, the danger was over, he said.

In the Capital Region, the rainfall varied from district to district. The wettest spot was Sidney where 1¾ inches of rain fell over a period of eight hours.

Gonzales was the driest district with only three-quarters of an inch.

Victoria reported a few flooded basements while Saanich had about 70.

Faulty drainage systems around homes caused most of the flooding.

Municipalities said they had little trouble with storm drains.

The weatherman said more wet weather can be expected for south Vancouver Island.

"We will get showers tomorrow," he said. "But more rain is moving in from the north."

OIL RIGHT SALES NET B.C. $1.6M

A total of $1,611,203 was added to provincial revenue today following sale of oil and gas rights.

Bids on 36 parcels were accepted, said Mines and Petroleum Resources Minister Frank Richter.

Areas involved include, Mile 150 on the Alaskan highway, northeast of Fort Nelson and north of Fort St. John.

Next sale of rights will be Aug. 9.

YOUNG CYCLIST INJURED

A 13-year-old Saanich boy is in satisfactory condition in hospital recovering from injuries in a traffic accident this morning on the Patricia Bay Highway.

Roger Crombie, of 6315 Robin Way, was riding his bicycle north of Elk Lake about 7 this morning when he was struck by a car driven by Philip D. Williams, 1106 Monterey.

He was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with a broken arm, multiple scrapes and possible head injuries.

Roger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Crombie and is a student at Mt. Newton Junior Secondary.

Day-Long Talks Planned For Loffmark, Hospitals

Day-long talks will be held in Victoria between hospital and medical officials and Health Minister Ralph Loffmark Friday.

A prime topic will be the minister's announcement last week that hospitals must cut spending, or find extra money on their own, for operating funds.

The policy, under which the provincial government will pay only 70 per cent of the wage and salary increases awarded hospital workers this year, means hospitals like St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee must reduce 1970 budgets by about $200,000.

The meeting in Loffmark's office will be attended by six representatives of the B.C. Hospital Association and delegates from the B.C. Medical Association, B.C. Society of Architects, Registered Nurses Association of B.C., B.C. Research Council and the Vancouver regional hospital district.

"We have been arranging this type of meeting for some time," said Duncan Bradford, executive secretary of the B.C. Hospital Association.

The session is to thrash out problems of hospital financing including those of day-to-day expenses and costs of new buildings and equipment. This is why architects, nurses, doctors and the research council are involved.

Bradford said his group has been planning for the meeting since before Christmas and it is a "little unfortunate" that Loffmark's cost reducing announcement was not made earlier.

Arthur Mayse . . .

VICTORIA, I'M ASSURED by several long-term residents, has never held much attraction for that pioneer of do-it-yourself tourism, the Gypsy rover. His colorful bands drifted with the roads as far as the mainland rim. But the Gulf crossing was awkward and expensive, and the wandering folk rarely undertook it.

What set me asking questions was a newspaper account from Britain, where for centuries the Gypsy has been regarded with a dubious eye.

Now, under the new Caravan Sites Act, and over the anticipated objections of various ruffled town and city councils, British Gypsies who wish to put down roots will be given a chance to do so.

Local governments, unless they can come up with satisfactory grounds for exemption, will be required to set up adequately equipped trailer parks for the Romany tribes.

According to the report, about half Britain's Gypsies hope to settle on the eviction-proof sites contemplated.

A blow to romance, and I find it strange to think of those big, mustached men and kerchiefed, full-skirted women as anchored citizens.

Yet something of the same is happening in North America, and particularly in the United States. In the postwar era, very many Gypsies turned from the encampment to steady work and permanent homes.

Canada once numbered her Gypsies in the thousands. But their welcome by the Gadsha — their term for all outside the brotherhood of the wandering clans — was never of the warmest. By degrees, the descendants of the wanderers who migrated from Europe in the nineteenth century turned south.

An estimate I came on a while ago set Canada's present Gypsy population at only about 400, with concentration heaviest in the West.

That seems a small figure for a race that once travelled all provinces.

The prairies, with their wide sky-sweep and long horizons, knew them. They would come with the late spring or the summer to the outskirts of our little Manitoba town.

Children were warned by their relatives to stay away from the strange, dark people. I first heard the scurrilous rhyme about the dangers of playing with Gypsies in yon wood from an aunt who freighted each word with omen.

It never occurred to us that people so well-supplied with children of their own would hardly be interested in adding us to their plenty. So we stayed away, and would discover one morning that the Gypsy families had loaded their wagons, hitched their horses, and vanished overnight.

I don't know where they spent the bitter winters, but expect that they headed for the cities.

Years later, when the depression was knocking out little stores and businesses in Vancouver, it was easy to tell when the Gypsies had come to town.

The horses and wagons were long gone by then. We would see instead battered trucks or cars parked in line outside one store or two which had been empty for months.

Faded curtains masked the street-facing windows. This was the Gypsy camp, transported under shingles.

The police kept a casual eye on the occupants, but I don't recall that these were much interfered with. Some of the women told fortunes without benefit of seer's licence. The men might trade in cars as they had once dealt in horses, or do such pot-and-pan tinkering as they could drum up in those close-hauled times. I suppose in total, they were at least as poor as most of us.

Once as a junior reporter I was sent to interview a clutch of Gypsies who had moved into a vacated store in the East End. It was a triumph of non-communication.

From the sidewalk, I could hear men's deep voices, children's light patter, and a woman laughing. I opened the door on a sudden silence.

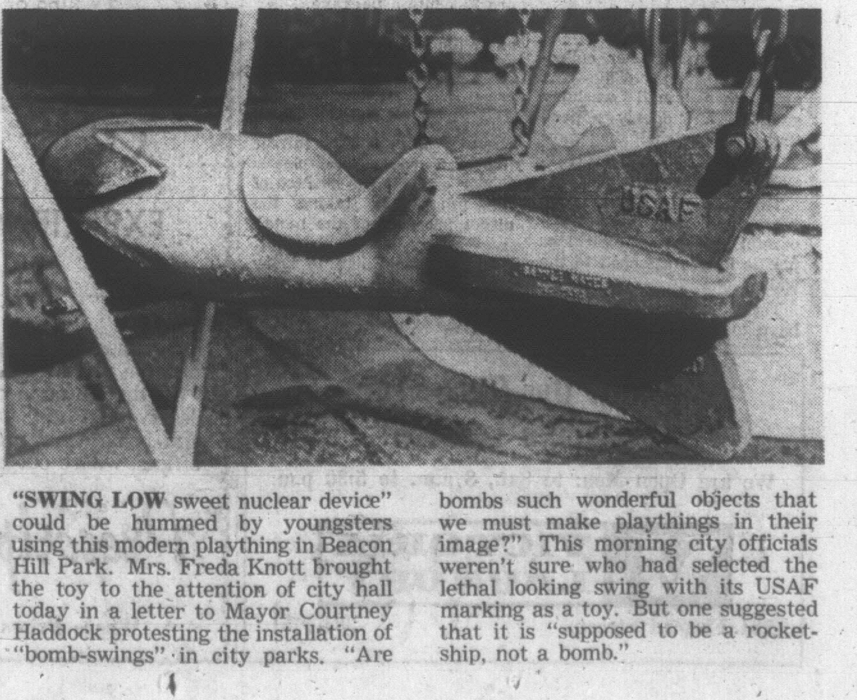
The silence continued while I explained my errand. One of the women, matriarchal in years and build, then asked me if I would like my palm read.

I produced 50 cents, hoping those two quarters would be recoverable on an expense account. My memory has slipped her reading; but if she possessed the gift, she might have predicted a short journey.

Once more, I tried to explain my purpose. Then two men, six-footers with splendid mustaches, seized me from either side. With no evidence of ill-will, they set me carefully in the street.

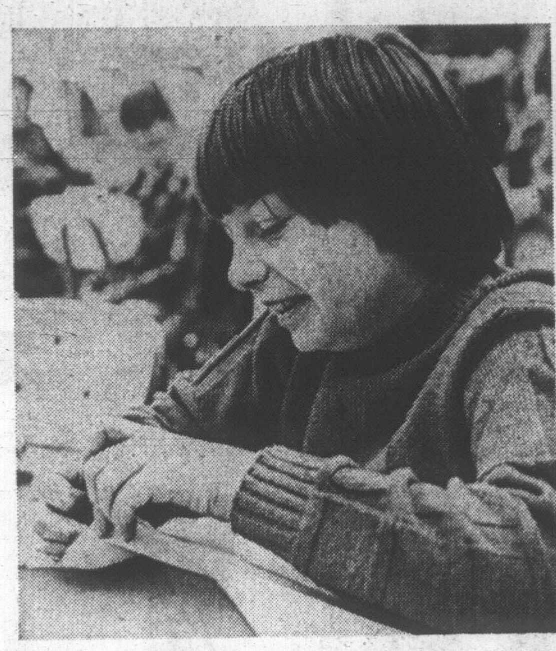
I have never held this gentle throwing-out against the Gypsies. After all, a people hustled and persecuted from one end of the earth to the other can be excused its suspicion of strangers.

What hurt was the waste of half a buck, which I never did recover.



"SWING LOW sweet nuclear device" could be hummed by youngsters using this modern plaything in Beacon Hill Park. Mrs. Freda Knott brought the toy to the attention of city hall today in a letter to Mayor Courtney Haddock protesting the installation of "bomb-swings" in city parks. "Are bombs such wonderful objects that we must make playthings in their image?" This morning city officials weren't sure who had selected the lethal looking swing with its USAF marking as a toy. But one suggested that it is "supposed to be a rocketship, not a bomb."

WOMEN



FESTIVAL DANCERS MAKE COSTUMES

Young students in Mrs. D. A. Hatfield's class at View Royal School are not only rehearsing a German folk dance for the Victoria schools' festival which begins Monday, but are making their own costumes as well. Even the boys are helping with the yellow and green halter straps and ties that will give a Bavarian look, and the girls did all the hand-stitching on their green and yellow dirndle skirts. Pictured above with Mrs. Hatfield are, from left, Doug Bell, Scott Douglas, Mark Lemon, David Cruickshank, Randy Smith, Chris Raynham and Garth Levalee. The hard-working girls at the right are Jenny Phillipson, top, and Patty Kobierski. (Robin Clarke Photos.)

Group Elects 1970 Officers

Iris Aitchison was elected president of the Women's Auxiliary, 800 Pacific Wing, RCAF Association at the annual meeting recently.

Other officers installed by past president Olive Henderson were: Dorothy Moulson, first vice-president; Betty Ahlers, second vice-president; Betty Belinski, secretary, and Ethel McLaren, treasurer.

The conveners installed were Joy Adkins, Lesley Davies, Marian Hay and Lorraine Prior.

It was reported that membership had risen to 61, and increase of 23 over the past year.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Lenders Weepers

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A few days ago, without my parents' permission, I let one of my friends drive our big car up and down our driveway. While he was doing it, my mom drove up in her little car. My friend panicked and drove the car backwards and it hit a tree. The car now has a dent which one of us will have to pay for.

Even though it was both of our faults (me for letting him drive it, and him for hitting the tree), my mom is holding me responsible for the whole thing. She is making me pay for the damage out of my allowance and has taken away a lot of my privileges. Do you think this is fair? My friend hardly got into trouble.

My mom doesn't even trust me or understand me anymore. I can't even talk to her about it.

What can I do so she will be good friends with me again and I can get my privileges back? — Can't Understand Parents.

DEAR CAN'T: You allowed your friend to drive the family car without permission on purpose. He hit a tree accidentally. The lion's share of the blame was yours. Start now to build good will with your mother. When you have shown more mature judgment by your behavior, your mother will restore your privileges. As for being "friends" with you again, your mother is probably your best friend right now. She is teaching you how to be a more responsible person.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me explain to some American women why American men marry orientals. I am an oriental who married an American service man. We met while he was serving his country in the Orient.

I am heartsick when I hear American women say that the only reason an American man marries an oriental woman is because he wants a lifetime servant.

I have heard other equally insulting remarks, such as "An oriental woman will bathe a man, massage him, wash his feet — she'll do anything and everything a man wants her to do. No American woman will sink that low."

This is not true, Abby. The oriental woman is taught from girlhood to care for a man lovingly. She remains quiet and uncomplaining, treating him always with respect and consideration. She thinks first of his happiness and comfort because she loves and appreciates him.

It is a fact that a contented man is never unkind to the woman who provides him with peace and happiness.

Abby, if you can express this better than I, please do so. Very truly yours, — Oriental Wife.

DEAR WIFE: You have said it well enough.

DEAR ABBY: There is a situation that bugs me no end. I am an avid TV fan and watch it from 7 a.m. until midnight almost every day, and an increasing number of actors appearing on some of my favorite programs are letting their hair grow longer and longer. I have watched some formerly good-looking actors transformed into something rather sickening. I am more than tempted to cease support of these programs and the products that sponsor them.

I wonder how many other viewers feel as I do about it? Some of these men look like aging Buster Browns or women who need shaves!

I have accepted the style changes in clothes, but this long hair trend makes me ill. What can be done? Mary In Victoria.

DEAR MARY: Nothing. I know what you mean because I, too, have had trouble recognizing some of my old heroes. But don't let it bug you, Mary. Hair today. Gone tomorrow!

SHOPPING GUIDE

Early Laundry-Room Theme for Decor

By PENNY SAVER

Early American I can believe, or even Early Canadian, but when I discovered that one of my acquaintances (the wife of a man in my husband's office) had decorated her rumpus room in Early Laundry-room I had trouble maintaining a polite calm.

"It all began with this darling old poster," she said showing an old pre-integration ad of an Aunt Jemima-type surrounded by clean sheets announcing that because of a certain brand of soap she was "middlin' proud."

So, having this, my acquaintance assembled wash-tubs, scrub boards and what-ever, making them the basis for her decor.

I didn't want to know how she made her cunning soap-box lamp-bases, or how much work went into her soap wrapping mural so I plopped on the brightly painted washboards and asked, "Where-ever did you find these? I haven't seen one for years."

So I know that a good old-fashioned glass and wood washboard costs $2.95 for a small one and $4.29 for a big one, new.

These washboards are unpainted and the part the wash is scrubbed against is made of textured glass — rather like a bathroom window.

These scrub-boards are still handy, by the way, for coercing stubborn stains out of laundry at summer cabins or on camping trips, as they are much easier to pack than a washing machine and need neither running water nor electricity.

While admiring her collection of obsolete clothes-pins and other small washday gadgets, I suddenly noticed that the glass shelf they were on had no visible means of support.

This was only a temporary illusion however, as a more careful look showed four clear plastic ledges attached to the wall.

These ledges, of course, have to be placed at corners of the shelf and can only be used where there are supports on both ends of the shelf. For example, in a medicine cabinet or in a shelf like this one that is fitted into the angle of the corner.

The shelf had been installed by a former owner of the house, so I went searching for these little plastic ledges.

I not only found them at 19 cents for four, but also some clear plastic brackets for mirrors.

These brackets come in a variety of shapes and like the shelf brackets come in packages of four with screws included.

At 29 cents a package there are fluted, squared-off brackets that fit over the rim of the mirror. Barrel shaped clips of the same general kind are 35 cents a package.

Both these are the kind that enter the wall beside the edge of the mirror. For 35 cents a package, however, there are flower-shaped brackets that surround a screw which passes through the mirror into the wall. The plastic flower protects the surface of the mirror by taking the direct pressure of the metal.

If you would like to know where to find these items, please call 382-3131 between 9 a.m. and 12 noon.

Adoption Trends

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — There is a growing trend among Nova Scotia couples to adopt children of mixed races, Lillian Romkey, supervisor of adoptions for the provincial welfare department, says.

"It used to be that only babies were placed for adoption. And now the most wonderful thing is that people are asking for children of mixed race and for older children."

They will take an older, physically handicapped child that no one else wants.

Miss Romkey said it is quite a common occurrence for young clergymen and their wives and other professional people to adopt children of mixed race.

"Another wonderful thing about the growing trend is that adopting parents never want the child to lose his identity," she said. "They tell the child, 'You are Indian, Chinese or Negro, and you must be proud of it'."

Feminists Move Into Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The women's rights movement has reached into the Pentagon, the United States military headquarters.

Two women leaders — one in air force blue — are out with public statements deploring their sex's second-class status in the service.

Col. Jeanne M. Holm, director of women in the U.S. Air Force, says:

"To date, top-level management and executive positions are, for all practical purposes, closed to military women except those directly involved with women's programs."

Dr. Hester Turner, chairman of the Defence Advisory Committee on Women in the Services, suggests the military fails to use women's talents to the fullest, and says:

"It is doubtful that a military system which does not itself provide equality of opportunity for its own members can truly ensure . . . freedom for its country's citizens."

REVOLUTION EMERGING

The statements by Col. Holm and Dr. Turner appeared, somewhat surprisingly, in the normally dry-as-dust Defence Management Journal, a Pentagon publication devoted to discussing ways to stimulate cost reduction and efficiency.

There are more than 40,000 women serving in the army, navy, marines and air force, doing mainly clerical work, medical administration, and certain technical assignments.

Col. Holm had some practical advice for women in the battle for an even break with men.

"It is high time we stopped telling children that girls don't have the aptitude for mathematics, engineering, science, etc. . . . ," she said.

"Most girls . . . are still raised with a romantic image of life — school, marriage, family — and they lived happily ever after.

"But Cinderella is dead!"

Clothiers Fight Paper Image With New Disposable Items

LONDON (Reuters) — A campaign to persuade British women to switch to disposable clothing was launched Tuesday.

"But it is going to be a hard fight," said a spokesman at London's first exhibition of throwaway goods.

The first stage, said the spokesman, is to destroy the unfavorable image created by the first era of disposables — paper products.

Now, instead of paper, manufacturers are using a mixture of man-made fibres — mostly rayon and cellulose — for women's panties, men's briefs, nightdresses and even play suits, all of which are washable.

The manufacturers today presented a glamorous display of fashion which, at a quick glance, was almost unidentifiable from expensive silks and satins.

Outstanding was a night dress prettily printed in a multi-color floral design, with a feminine frilly collar and modern mini styling. It costs under three shillings — less than 40 cents.

At the moment, one of the best markets for throw-away clothing is Scandinavia. Germany is rapidly becoming another good market.

One exhibitor of beachwear, dresses and even rainwear came from Montreal. He said it is not easy to convert Canadian and American women to disposables.

So, he now is planning production in Britain because he thinks the new fashion will catch on quicker with British women.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WESLEY PETERS

Svetlana Re-Marries

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Svetlana Alliluyeva, daughter of the late Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin, has married an architect she had met only 20 days before.

The simple Quaker ceremony was performed Tuesday in the living room of Taliesin West, an architectural school of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, the Arizona Republic says in a copyright story. The bridegroom was William Wesley Peters, 57, vice-president of the foundation and chief architect of Taliesin Associated Architects.

Svetlana, 44, who fled the Soviet Union in 1967, met Peters when she accepted an invitation from Mrs. Frank Lloyd Wright, widow of the famous architect, to visit Taliesin three weeks ago.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Raymond G. Manker, of the First Unitarian Church.

FORMERLY MARRIED

Peters, the son-in-law of the Wrights, was formerly married to another Svetlana—Svetlana Lloyd Wright, who died in an automobile accident in 1946.

It was Miss Alliluyeva's third marriage. She was married at 18 to a fellow-student, Gregory Morosov. Her second husband was Yuri Zhdanov, a biochemist.

She defected to the United States via India, where she had gone in December, 1966, to return the ashes of Brajesh Singh, a man Soviet officials would not permit her to marry.

She settled in Princeton, N.J.

The Soviet Union revoked her citizenship last January for "acts defaming a citizen."

Mother Claims Babies Exchanged

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mrs. Claudette Walker, 20, of Chicago has filed a $1 million damage suit against Michael Reese Hospital claiming they gave her another woman's baby.

Mrs. Walker charged in the suit, filed this week, that on March 4, the day she gave birth to her daughter Tonya Marie, a woman named Irene Walker also gave brith to a girl at Michael Reese.

The suit charges the hospital placed the babies with the wrong mothers, and that Mrs. Walker discovered the alleged error when the board of health sent her a birth certificate for her child which listed Irene Walker as the mother.

A spokesman at Michael Reese said there was no record of another mother in the hospital named Walker between March 4 and March 31.

Mrs. Walker calimed in the suit that the baby of Irene Walker was displayed next to her baby in the hospital viewing area.

Mrs. Walker's attorney, Burton F. Grant, said a blood test would be made on the baby. He said Mrs. Walker hopes "it is only a clerical error and that this is her baby."

WELL-ROUNDED NUDES REPLACE SQUARE POLITICS

Yugoslav Papers Swinging Despite Nervous Party

By DAN MORGAN

BELGRADE (WP) The press of Yugoslavia is dazzling its readers as never before these days, and puzzling those who are trying to chart its development in the years ahead.

Last fall, it seemed to some that a period of restrictions, even greyness, was in the wind. A Communist party white paper criticized the "negative features" in the mass media, complained about the "race for sensation and the alarming presentation of conflicts" and roughed out some suggestions for guiding the press back into "the forefront of the struggle for socialist progress in society."

A few months later, a new press law is indeed inching slowly forward. But the publishing houses wheel confidently, caught up in an unprecedented commercial fever. Slick new illustrations, featuring everything from political news to ungarbed pinup girls, are hitting the kiosks almost every day.

Editors Buoyant

The mood in the editorial offices of Belgrade, bustling with dynamic young editors, is anything but one of dread.

"The rules of the game are in the process of being formed for a long while to come," said one of them in reference to the debate on the press law. "But it may be that not even those rules will be final."

Few conventional rules seem to apply these days to the country's press, which falls somewhere in between the strictly controlled organs of the rest of Communist East Europe, and the unleashed press of the Western democracies. Almost everybody agrees that some rules are needed, both for the protection of the newspapers themselves and for the next stage of the "Yugoslav experiment."

The commercial boom confronts the eye at every newsstand. Downtown, news boys hawk "Cx Vecernje Novosti," the afternoon tabloid which offers a tasty package of sports, light news, hobby tips and Tiffany Jones comic strip to 400,000 daily readers. The morning paper of the same publishing house "Borba" — the proud standard bearer of old Yugoslav Communists and former partisans, and now of the "Socialist Alliance" (National Front) — is on the brink of perishing from bankruptcy, with a puny nationwide circulation of 60,000 daily. By contrast "Nin," the politial, well-written and often troublesome (to the regime) weekly of the competing publishing house Politika is to break into an expensive new format next week, modelled on Western newsmagazines.

Sensation Selling

Frown though the regime may on sensation, newspaper readers in Belgrade recently have been following with fascination a real circulation builder — the macabre story of a childless Bosnian damsel who was accused of murdering a pregnant village woman, cutting open her stomach and stealing the embryo, which died.

Perhaps even more significant, Belgrade papers this week printed the story of how a man who confessed to setting off a bomb in a cinema, and was sentenced to death, had retracted his confession. What made the story remarkable was that the police authorities had vigorously intervened to try to keep the story out of print — but the editors overruled them.

"The next day there was a hell of a row," said one executive, "but we could see no reason to withhold publication or anything to justify the secrecy label on the story."

It is this sort of incident which illustrates why the press and state are still looking for the right political specific gravity.

Leaders Paved Way

The complex development now underway in the publishing field is the end product of decisions taken at the highest level years ago by the Communist leadership. The most important of these was to include the publishing houses in the country's model of a socialist "Market economy," in which the country's business enterprises were made self-managing and, to a large degree, self-reliant.

Newspapers and magazines were acknowledged to have a special function and to be a public trust. In that respect, the newspaper plants differ from shoe factories and steel works. But the regime of President Tito nevertheless committed itself to a free press on grounds that criticism and a fairly unrestricted flow of information was essential in the system of economic self-management.

The papers' sponsors retained the right to hire and fire chief editors, but decision making, at least in theory, was put in the hands of the workers' councils of the enterprisers. Subsidies were retained for a number of papers, particularly those in outlying regions.

Serious papers, such as the satirical weekly "Jez" began casting around for new revenue sources and found one by establishing a light weekly, mixing sex and fashions, "Alled Ci." It has now grown to a circulation of 300,000—10 times that of the parent paper. Forced to sink or swim, without the mixed blessing of guaranteed subsidies indefinitely, many publishing houses chose to swim by appealing more to readers' interests and tastes, by diversifying and boosting circulation and revenues.

> We will not have the party running our papers . . . censorship is in our hands.
>
> —Journalists

With commercial success came, logically, stronger and more independent papers.

The regime's belated efforts to define the role of the press, and assert a measure of guidance over it, is similar to its bigger problem of keeping hold of the dynamic processes of decentralization underway at all levels of the economy.

"The trend in the leadership is not to more restrictive policies," said an editor. "It wants a press which is critical but also soundly incorporated into the socialist system rather than standing outside of it. Some adjustments will be made. But we are not going back. We will not have the party running our papers. Only we can do that. We are aware of the criticism from some sides that some publishing enterprises are becoming monopolies. But we turn the argument around and say that a party monopoly on information would be just as wrong. Who is to say that a member of the central committee knows better what's good for the country than a chief editor?"

The new press law now taking shape is aimed at a compromise. It is expected to establish new "editorial councils" for each paper, made up of mixed citizens' commissions named by the papers themselves. Obviously, everything will depend on who sits on such "advisory" boards.

The idea, according to a federal official, would be to "insure that the papers are oriented along the lines of the political intentions of this country."

Potential Danger

Publishers and others are aware of the potential dangers.

Editors worry that "responsibility" (the code word for obeisance to the party line) will replace good journalism.

Those connected with the writing of the new law respond that "we have only one way to spread the party line in the kind of society we are developing, and that is by correctly explaining it."

What some ask, if the advisory editorial councils' concept of a paper conflicts with the concept desired by the readership? The consequences of a duller press would be circulation losses, and loss of jobs for workers. And under the Tito system, the workers' councils are supposed to decide these questions.

Others wonder whether the concept of "guidance of a similar kind in the shoe factories and oil refineries, results in interference with plant managers."

Leading Belgrade editors are not against some guidance. At present there is almost no institutionalized system for channeling party views down to the newspapers, though they get the message through individual contacts with the leadership.

"I have no problems on this score," said one editor. "Of course we have some of the old-fashioned people calling us to complain about the way the paper looks. But they have no real power. I set the phone down, go on with my work and hang up when they're finished."

Judging by the uniformity of the Yugoslav press on most important political questions, the message gets through, although the old ways of pre-censorship and rationing newsprint have long ago been abandoned.

"Our censorship is in our hands," said one journalist who was reprimanded by his editor several years ago for adopting a pro-Israeli stand in the wake of the Middle East War.

In return for accepting the editorial councils, the editors speak of a more open policy of information, and, perhaps, doing away with criminal penalties against individuals who misinterpret the party position.

But the market will continue to be a big factor in how the press develops.

In its report on the press, the party commission spoke of the formation of information "monopolies," clearly meaning the country's three biggest publishing houses, Politika and Borba in Belgrade, and Vjesnik in Zagreb.

Rail though it may against these growing semi-private empires, the regime has no alternative to them except substituting their revenues with government subsidies, which it can ill afford.

Mass Media New

Though Yugoslavia still has 20 per cent illiteracy, and though mass communication is relatively new to it, the public has a capacity for absorbing new publications that has amazed publishing officials in Belgrade, Zagreb and elsewhere.

New publishing houses have sprung up which cater unabashedly and exclusively to the public's craving for the prurient and the pornographic.

This has led some writers on serious journals to complain that the only pornography the regime objects to is political pornography.

The wealth of reading material available is certainly a major element in the fading fortunes of such staunch but duller papers as "Borba," but this is little comfort to the regime as it gropes for a new way of maintaining a voice and keeping "excesses" in check.

Healthy on Balance

Nevertheless, many responsible officials think the commercial wave is a healthy thing, on balance.

With the decentralization of Yugoslav political and economic life have come signs of grass roots newspaper democracy. Novi Sad, 75 miles from here, now has a paper which is aimed solely at small private enterprisers. And there are now 400 to 500 factory house organs many of which have begun to cover community news and give Yugoslavia the makings of its first local press.

"People needed a more attractive press," said Stevan Marjanovic of the Yugoslav Institute of Journalism.

The commercialization of the press is healthy, he believes, even where it has hurt papers such as "Borba" and the weekly paper "Komunist."

"They are being forced to adjust," he said. "This means that they must explain their political views in a way that will interest and stimulate people, and convince them. This is a much sounder basis for the kind of society we are trying to build."

Astronaut Gets Crash Course For Moon Shot

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Backup astronaut John L. Swigert Jr. begins a crash training program today to determine whether he can replace a measles-threatened member of the Apollo 13 crew in time to take off for the moon Saturday.

SWIGERT

Swigert is to climb aboard a spaceship simulator with James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr. to practice such critical manoeuvres as rendezvous and docking in lunar orbit and abort situations on the launch pad and near the moon.

The big question is whether Swigert, who has never flown in space, can work smoothly with the other two in manoeuvres that require close and rapid co-ordination.

Lovell, Haise and Thomas K. Mattingly II have practised together as a team more than two years, first as backup pilots for Apollo 11, man's first moon-landing mission, and then as the prime crew for Apollo 13. Observers say they are a superbly co-ordinated team.

HIS CHANCES SLIM

Mattingly hasn't been dropped from the mission but all indications are that he will be because of his exposure and lack of immunity to German measles.

Lovell, the Apollo 13 commander and a veteran of three previous space flights, was reported to have voiced initial opposition to a late substitution, but later agreed to give Swigert a chance. Lovell may make the final decision after the trials are complete Friday.

The commander, informed sources said, preferred postponing the flight from Saturday until the next favorable launch date, May 9, so he could keep his crew intact.

Lovell and Haise hope to land in the ancient lunar highlands of Fra Mauro, and Saturday is the only day in April in which they could be launched to reach that target.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, the astronauts' personal physician, said Wednesday night that Mattingly's chances of catching German measles are "very, very high."

Mattingly would be retained as a member of the Apollo 13 crew only if his blood samples showed a sudden rise in antibodies to German measles. Berry said this was unlikely, but tests were continuing.

CAUGHT FROM DUKE

The carrier of the disease who exposed the other Apollo 13 crewmen is Charles Duke, one of the backup astronauts along with Swigert and John W. Young. Blood tests showed that Lovell, Haise and Swigert are immune to the disease, but not Mattingly.

Berry said Duke apparently caught the measles from children of a friend in the astronaut community near Houston's Manned Spacecraft Centre.

Although Duke did not break out in a rash until last Sunday, he was infectious four days before that, when he had considerable contact with the other Apollo 13 crew. With an incubation period of 14 to 20 days, that means that Mattingly could come down with measles during the critical period when he would be orbiting the moon alone while Lovell and Haise were on the surface.

That could affect his ability to conduct the rendezvous and docking manoeuvres after Lovell and Haise launched themselves from the moon.

AMBASSADOR KILLED IN PANIC—PAPER

HAMBURG (Reuters)—The West German newspaper Die Welt says that Guatemalan kidnappers murdered Ambassador Count Karl von Spreti in a panic after they discovered police were shadowing a man sent to bargain with them.

The report was based on a hotel-room interview of the mystery contact man of the kidnappers. The man was not identified.

The rebels would have forgotten about their demand for the release of 25 political prisoners if the ransom money they wanted was substantially increased, he said.

Osaka Blast Draws Inquiry

OSAKA (Reuters) — A full-scale government inquiry was launched today into Japan's worst gas explosion which claimed the lives of more than 70 persons here Wednesday.

The latest count by the Osaka fire department shows 71 persons were killed and 251 others injured—92 of them seriously—by the blast and subsequent fire. At one stage, the death toll was reported as high as 92. Women and children were among the dead.

Premier Eisaku Sato ordered two of his cabinet ministers to fly to the site of the blast from Tokyo.

The disaster struck while Japan was showing off its post-war economic development at Expo '70 just 12 miles outside Osaka.

It occurred beneath a densely populated area where construction men were working on a new underground railway.

Police said that a gas leak in an underground tunnel near the main Osaka railway station was reported about half an hour before the first series of explosions. Evacuation of the area had already started but many people were caught on the busy street and in their homes when the first blast shook the area.

It was followed by at least two more explosions touched off fires which quickly spread. People, concrete blocks, steel plates and cars were hurled high in the air.

Three Rescued

POWELL RIVER (CP) — Three men were rescued from chilly waters near here Monday when their pleasure cruiser struck a deadhead and sank.

William Bodleck and Glen Adams, both of Powell River, and Winston Adams of Port Coquitlam, were pulled from the water by RCMP and private craft as they attempted to swim ashore.

All were released from hospital after treatment for shock.

KEEP ARMY AWAY FROM CAPITAL

Iraq Can't Afford to Have Peace

By RALPH JOSEPH

TEHRAN (CP) — The sudden widening of the rupture between Iran and Iraq comes at a time when relations between the two countries seemed on the point of improving. But the omens are certainly not good now for peace in the Persian Gulf area in the 1970s.

The recent expulsion of ambassadors from Baghdad and Tehran came as a surprise to most observers here, because Iran had appeared to be bending almost backwards to avoid friction with her neighbor.

It will obviously remain unclear for some time as to how far Iraqi charges of Iranian involvement in the recent unsuccessful attempt to overthrow the Iraq government are true. But if they are false, as some observers believe, the Baathist rulers in Baghdad probably relied on the old saying that when a lie is big enough it tends to be believed. And the charges could only have been levelled with the aim of gradually stepping up tension in the area.

IRAQ APPLIES NEEDLE

Shaky Iraqi regimes cannot afford an atmosphere of peace. Tension is needed on the perimeters of the country to keep ambitious army officers well away from the politically sensitive capital. And the present regime of Ahmed Hassan al Bakr is probably the shakiest that has come to power in more than a decade.

The first Iraqi move to create tension with Iran began when Baghdad took a sudden cocky posture on the Shatt el Arab dispute last year, after the issue had remained dormant for years. Control of the waterway at the head of the Persian Gulf has been disputed by the two countries for years.

Iran first called the Iraqi bluff by sailing ships through the waterway, despite Iraqi threats that such ships would be fired upon. There was no fire. Then Iran took steps to calm the situation by getting the Jordanians to mediate. But nothing was heard of the talks, which were supposed to have been held last November.

THREATENS STABILITY

Iraq came up with a further irritant when she imported to Baghdad the former Iranian intelligence chief, Lt.-Gen. Teymour Bakhtiar, who had been serving a jail term for gun-running in Beirut. Bakhtiar has been allowed to make propaganda broadcasts against the Iranian monarchy. He seemed also to provide a rallying point for Iranian dissidents.

This of course was upsetting to Tehran. A policy consistently followed by the Shah of Iran in recent years has been that of creating an atmosphere of stability in the country, to encourage foreign investment. The policy has been successful, judging by the amount of development that has taken place in less than a decade.

Bakhtiar's stand in Baghdad has threatened to upset the apple cart. But Iran continued to play it cool, almost ignoring the unfriendly stance of the Iraqis.

This was in sharp contrast to Iranian action against Lebanon earlier. Diplomatic relations with that country were broken off when Lebanon refused to extradite Bakhtiar, on the ground that he was wanted for political offences. Lebanon had merely been following a policy she has maintained for years: making Beirut a political haven for men who found things too hot in their own countries in the Middle East.

The way Iraq has used Bakhtiar has certainly been more blatantly unfriendly than the Lebanese stand, and yet relations with Baghdad were not broken off. In fact, even after the expulsion of ambassadors recently, diplomatic ties have still not been completely severed. Embassies are being maintained on either side, manned by skeleton staffs.

CP Reliance 'Lamentable'

OTTAWA (CP) — A psychologist who favors diversity in mass media says it is lamentable that almost all Canadian newspapers rely so much on The Canadian Press, the national news agency.

Christopher Knapper, chairman of the psychology department on the Regina campus of the University of Saskatchewan, made the point in a brief to the special Senate committee on mass media.

Prof. Knapper, who has done extensive research into mass media, said "it is lamentable that, with a few distinguished exceptions, newspapers across the country carry non-local news in a form which is a word-for-word replica of the original CP dispatch."

He said there is an "almost incredible reliance" by Canadian radio, television and newspapers on CP, the news-distribution co-operative operated by the country's daily newspapers.

Because of the reliance on CP, treatment of non-local events is unlikely to be improved by competing newspapers in a particular region.

NO NATIONAL PAPER

This problem is linked to the fact that Canada is not served by a newspaper with a national circulation. Readers therefore have to depend on local media for non-local news.

Prof. Knapper said that diversity in the communications industry should be encouraged. This means the expansion of the news-gathering function of CP and the CBC as national agencies.

Newspapers should be urged to employ more correspondents outside their local area. Prevention of formation of huge media chains should be encouraged. Some means are required to see that editors and journalists are free from editorial interference from publishers.

"While the existence of chains does not in itself lead to the stifling of diversity, the preponderance of groupings in the communications industry means that stringent safeguards will increasingly be necessary to protect the rights of free expression for the journalist and editor."

JUDGE AND MRS. HARROLD CARSWELL . . . after the U.S. Senate vote announced

Carswell Loss Election Issue?

WASHINGTON (CP)—The crushing Senate rejection of Supreme Court nominee G. Harrold Carswell loomed today as a major factor in November's congressional elections. There were hints that defecting Republicans might have trouble unlocking party campaign chests.

The 51-to-45 vote against the Florida jurist Wednesday was the most serious blow dealt to President Nixon by Congress so far. The White House was gloomy and a spokesman said Nixon was naturally disappointed and had no one in mind at present to be his third nominee to fill the seat.

The defeat of Carswell, who said he would stay on as a judge on the Fifth Circuit court of appeals, followed Senate rejection in November of Nixon's first nominee, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth of South Carolina.

For Nixon, it was a personal as well as a political defeat. Not only did the senate turn down two of his nominees—the first time it has happened in this century—but 13 Republican senators went against him despite his personal intervention last week.

WANT DISCUSSION

Republican senators now are urging Nixon to consult them before submitting another nomination.

The White House gave no hint of Nixon's third choice for the court vacancy.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said another nomination will be made "in due course," and he did not rule out the possibility Nixon might wait until after the November Congressional election.

Senator Robert J. Dole (Rep. Kan.), a strong Carswell supporter, suggested Nixon take the issue to voters, but he also told reporters "a little earthy discussion with senators" would be advisable before the administration selects another nominee.

Echoing the sentiment for prior discussion was Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

ADVISED TO WAIT

Several conservative senators urged Nixon to wait until January after the elections to name a new appointment. If Nixon does, it might ensure the president's unsuccessful efforts to "balance" the court with a Southern conservative will become major campaign issues in November.

Carswell backers, angry over the defeat, hinted that the bipartisan opponents who engineered the defeat were in for tough re-election battles.

The vote rejecting Carswell touched off a two-minute outburst of cheers, wild clapping and a few scattered boos by spectators, tourists and government workers in the packed Senate galleries.

The vote reversed the initial victory of Carswell's supporters Monday when the Senate defeated, 52 to 44, a motion to return the nomination to its judiciary committee.

SEVEN SWITCHED

But the difference was that seven senators who voted against recommital cast their votes against Carswell—and there were no switches the other way.

Twenty - eight Republicans voted for the Tallahassee, Fla., federal judge and 13 Republicans against, while 17 Democrats favored the nomination and 38 opposed it.

Carswell said after the vote the president urged him to stay in his present post and "I intend to do so."

Carswell's statement called it "an agonizing experience for me, my family and my friends, but to have taken up the gauntlet and joined the debate would have been unbecoming of a nominee to the Supreme Court of the United States."

The opposition had hammered away at Carswell's racial views and said he lacked qualifications for the high court.

They cited a 1948 white supremacy speech by Carswell—although the nominee publicly renounced it—and testimony from lawyers that the judge had been unfair in handling civil rights cases.

Promises Rich On Quebec Campaign Trail

QUEBEC (CP)—Promises of 100,000 new jobs by 1971 and financial stability for Quebec drew sharp attacks Wednesday night in campaigning for the April 29 Quebec general election.

And while Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand ran into helicopter problems in western Quebec, Creditiste leader Camil Samson renewed his pledge that if elected his party will increase the basic personal income tax exemption for married persons to $5,000.

Rene Levesque, leader of the separatist Parti Quebecois, told a meeting of 300 people in his riding of Montreal Laurier that Liberal Leader Robert Bourassa is misleading Quebecers by promising 100,000 new jobs.

"A hundred thousand jobs is beautiful in one year. But where and how will he create them?"

The last time Quebec produced 100,000 jobs in a single year was in 1966 during the "super-prosperity" period of construction for Expo 67, Mr. Levesque said.

But things are different in 1970, he added in his two-hour-and-10-minute speech during which about one third of his audience trickled out.

'Insolvent Santa Clauses'

Mr. Bourassa told a group of 300 Liberal supporters in Lorrainville, a small town in remote Temiscamingue riding, that Creditiste solutions to the province's economic problems are illogical and impractical.

He said Creditiste Leader Samson promises both tax reductions and increased spending which will amount to millions of dollars.

The Liberal leader called Union Nationale cabinet ministers "insolvent Santa Clauses" whose many promises are "ill-considered, repetitious and irresponsible."

Mr. Samson told a Thetford Mines audience of what his Creditistes have in store for Quebecers if the party forms the next government.

A sample:

—Besides the $5,000 exemption for married persons, single men and women will have a basic income tax exemption of $2,500;

—Old-age pensions of $150 a month will be provided for both husband and wife if the breadwinner is 60 or over;

—Grants of $50 a month will go to all students 18 or over;

—The provincial sales tax will gradually be abolished.

Bertrand Lands in the Mud

Premier Bertrand's helicopter pilot decided to make an impromptu landing in a muddy field about six miles outside of Aylmer, just west of Ottawa, because the planned arrival spot on an Aylmer race track was packed with several hundred persons.

Mr. Bertrand and his entourage that included Marcel Masse, minister of intergovernmental affairs, went the rest of the way by car.

Earlier in Maniwaki, 90 miles north of Aylmer, the premier shook hands, kissed cheeks and signed autographs while youngsters swarmed around the 35-year-old Mr. Masse.

In Aylmer, Mr. Bertrand told reporters: "We're very fortunate to have arrived, and for this I thank God."

Today, the premier visits the Ottawa-area communities of Gatineau, Buckingham, Thurso and Hull before returning to Montreal in the evening.

Mr. Bourassa was scheduled to reveal the Liberals' full campaign platform in Montreal today before departing for Hull. Mr. Levesque will remain in his Laurier riding.

Standings in the national assembly at dissolution were Union Nationale 55, Liberal 44, independent six and vacant three.

Park Prompts Bartering

By ED WALTERS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The provincial government has offered to accept a national park in western Newfoundland if Ottawa agrees to provide up to $60,000,000 during the next decade to turn the northwest coast and part of southern Labrador into a giant playground and historic site.

The proposal was outlined in a white paper prepared by Resources Minister W. R. Callahan and tabled in the legislature Tuesday.

Critics said the white paper was an attempt by Premier Joseph Smallwood to blackmail the federal government.

Mr. Callahan said in an interview Wednesday initial reaction from federal ministers was "sympathetic."

He said enlargement of the department of regional economic expansion (Dree) program to pay for the development would be a "commensurate benefit" for surrendering forever provincial mineral and timber rights in the 600-square-mile park area 40 miles north of Corner Brook.

The white paper says a survey showed the area contained 1,000,000 tons of silica, around the east arm of Bonne Bay, near the entrance to the proposed park. Similar reserves were found nearby and in 23 other locations. The mineral is said to be worth $6 a ton.

A source close to Mr. Callahan estimated total value of all silica deposits in the area at more than $24,000,000. The source said this was close to the estimated cost of paving about 260 miles of road between Deer Lake, 30 miles east of Corner Brook and St. Anthony on the tip of the Great Northern Peninsula.

Mr. Callahan said the paving could cost around $30,000,000.

The white paper says the government's intention is to use known resources in the park area as a bargaining point with Ottawa.

Mr. Callahan said the commensurate benefit would be an agreement by Ottawa to pay all costs involved.

This would include paving the road. preservation of four historic sites, relocation of about 1,500 persons living in communities to be absorbed by the national park, and construction and management of tourist accommodation at many points along the coast.

Bonne Bay is one of Newfoundland's most scenic areas and a national park was first proposed by Dr. David Baird, a former provincial geologist, in 1959.

In 1966 the federal government formally proposed a national park be established at Bonne Bay to enclose between 480 and 600 square miles.

Dr. W. O. Pruitt, then associate professor of biology at Memorial University in St. John's, surveyed the area for the Canadian Wildlife Service in 1967 and recommended an area of 1,500 square miles.

Dr. Pruitt said the larger enclosure would ensure protection for all time of Arctic Hare and Pine Marten, believed by some conservationists to be in danger of extinction. It also included a caribou range.

Mr. Callahan's announcement in January, 1969, the area would be surveyed for silica created a public controversy that has continued.

The Northern Regional Development Association, a self-help organization of northwest coast communities, conservationists and opposition legislature members. said they were opposed to any mining development.

The premier and Mr. Callahan argue that it would be indefensible to turn the land over to the federal government without knowing if it contained valuable minerals.

EDMONTON (CP) — Western taxes should not be used to fight pollution in eastern Canada, Health Minister James Henderson of Alberta said Wednesday at a meeting of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

MVA Amendments Proclaimed

The accident reporting level in British Columbia will be raised to $200 from the present $100 July 1 this year.

The change is among a number of amendments to the Motor Vehicle Act proclaimed this week.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said the move brings B.C. into line with many other provinces.

Coinciding with this change is an alteration in the minimum property damage level which requires that a vehicle have affixed to it a damaged sticker before it can be repaired in a garage.

On July 1, a sticker will be required on all vehicles where damage is over $200 rather than the present $100.

Another amendment, effective immediately, is a requirment which places the onus on a dealer, manufacturer or owner of a company for any employee who tampers with odometers to mislead buyers.

Also effective immediately is placing the onus on the accused to prove he has a motor vehicle liability insurance card, or a financial responsibilty card, under the compulsory insurance program.

Another change makes it an offence to sell or offer for sale a motor vehicle which is not properly equipped in accordance with motor vehicle regulations. Equipment for motor vehicles that is sold must also meet standards set out in the regulations.

The present definition of a bicycle, which includes a minimum wheel dimension of 20 inches, is dropped because many bicycles today have smaller wheels.

Uvic Student Chosen by NRC

A University of Victoria physics student has been selected as one of 49 winners of the National Research Council's prestigious 1967 Science Scholarships.

Edward R. Lord, 21, of 3361 Kingsley, said he plans to start graduate studies in physics at the University of Toronto next fall.

The 1967 Science Scholarships are worth $5,000 annually for three years, and are renewable for a fourth year if necessary.

The university at which recipients choose to work receives an annual grant of up to $1,500.

The scholarships were first awarded in 1967 to mark the 50th anniversary of the NRC scholarship program and the centennial of Canadian Confederation. They are to help outstanding young Canadians obtain doctorates in science and engineering.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

Louise, Ron, Leanne, Laurel and Scott Smith wish to thank our kind friends, neighbours and relatives. The memory will remain with us through the years. We want you all to know that we are truly grateful for the comfort and help you have given us in our sorrow. Special thanks to the "old gang," Mr. Charles Morriss family and staff, The Victoria Minor Hockey Association, especially everyone connected with the Pee Wee Pup Rep. Team, Rev. Bob Morriss, The Victoria Highland Games Association, the mothers of Miss Purdy's grade fives, Cloverdale School.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my many friends for their expressions of sympathy and understanding in my recent bereavement: To Rev. John Travis and McCall Bros. Funeral Home. —Catherine Dick.

9 IN MEMORIAM

COOPER—In loving memory of Gwen Cooper.

Your endearing love has brightened my way
Your smile many times I've seen.
Your sparkling eyes light my way through troubled times.
And knowing your guiding hand is always there makes life a little easier
You are always in my heart.
—Your loving husband, Gordon.

COOPER—In loving memory of our mother, Gwen Cooper.

May we grow up to carry on
The way you meant to be
To give love and kindness to all
To love each day for the sake of living.
And to cherish each memory we are given.
—From your loving son and daughters, Ray, Carol, Susan.

McCLURE—In loving memory of a dear mother, grandmother (Susan Agnes), who passed away April 9, 1962.
—Always remembered by her daughter, son-in-law, grandson and wife.

Tonight's Top Television Shows

MOD SQUAD. 7 p.m., Channel 6. The squad investigates circumstances surrounding a hit-and-run accident which has resulted in a teenager being wrongly accused of stealing a car. As they probe, new facts come to light . . . including the intelligence the car belongs to the secretary of a candidate for high judicial office.

* * *

THIS IS TOM JONES. 7:30 p.m., Channel 8; 9, Channel 4. (Repeat) Our Welsh host boasts a fine guest list here as Liza Minnelli, Frankie Vaughan and comedian Pat Cooper join him on the show. Highlights include Liza's solos to "God Bless This Child," among others; "Don't Ever Walk Alone" from Tom Jones; Frankie Vaughan's "Hide Away"; and a medley of Al Jolson's tunes from Liza, Frankie and Tom.

* * *

BILL COSBY. 8 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. This first rerun was the series starter. Coach Chet Kincaid (Cosby) answers a ringing telephone in a street booth and finds himself embroiled in a marital dispute, a fugitive from the law and very unpopular with a garage mechanic. It's one of the season's best Cosby efforts.

* * *

JIM NABORS HOUR. 8 p.m., Channel 7; 9:30, Channel 12. Last show before repeats relies on regulars and excludes guests. Frank Sutton lectures Jim on the fine points of dramatic acting, offering some of his better scenes on the series. Ronnie Schell talks about his reputation as a slow-rising comic, and Harry and Blanche fall into a battle in the "Brothers-In-Law." In addition, Sutton goes all out reciting "Young Fellow, My Lad," Jim sings the theme song, and the cast closes with "Ode to America."

THAT GIRL. 8 p.m., Channel 4. "Mission Improbable." Part I. (Repeat). Set in a pyjama factory, this two-parter is the type of wacky story this series can handle well. Perky Marlo Thomas is asked by her boss, pyjama manufacturer Lou Jacobi, to impersonate a seamstress in order to spy on his chief competitor's new line. Jacobi tosses off his lines with expert timing which adds to the fun of the show.

* * *

DEAN MARTIN. 8:30 p.m., Channel 8; 10 p.m., Channel 5. A strong bill tonight with Phil Harris, Arte Johnson, Nancy Kwan and Lou Rawls. Phil Harris latches on to a new hit, "A Boy Named Sue," clowns with Dean in a version of "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Sheen," besides hoofing a bit and keeping company with Martin and Johnson. Arte Johnson says he's Dean's counterpart on Russian TV, Nancy Kwan becomes a hillbilly intoning "The Simple Joys of Maidenhood," and Lou Rawls joins his host for another medley of Al Jolson songs.

* * *

MANNIX. 9:30 p.m., Channel 8. Mannix returns to his home town after a ten-year absence, summoned by his high school sweetheart (now wife of a murder suspect) to investigate the crime. He is enmeshed in personal problems, including a strained reunion with his disapproving father.

* * *

DIAMOND LIL'S. 10:30 p.m., Channel 8. Guests include singer Dave Higgins and honky-tonk pianist Ralph Richards. Vanda King, Tommy Common, the Diamond Cutters Dixieland Jazz Band and the Diamond Lillies also join in. Songs slated include Yes Sir, That's My Baby, Down Yonder, and Youre Nobody Until Somebody Loves You.

TONIGHT'S MOVIES

5:30 p.m.: Channel 12: Ghost in the Invisible Bikini (1966 Comedy), Nancy Sinatra, Francis X. Bushman. Teenage insanity in a haunted house.

7:30: Channel 12: Road to Utopia (1945 Comedy), Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour. Vaudeville team involved in search for Alaskan gold mine.

9 p.m.: Channel 7: Doctor, You've Got to be Kidding (1967 Comedy), Sandra Dee, George Hamilton. A breezy romantic comedy.

11 p.m.: Channel 11: The Secret of Convict Lake (1951 Drama), Glenn Ford, Gene Tierney. Convicts invade a village inhabited only by women.

11:30: Channel 7: Vicki (1953 Mystery), Jeanne Crain, Jean Peters, Richard Boone. Dogged detective tries to pin murder of a local glamour girl on her suitor.

11:40: Channel 2: Carry On Cabby (1963 English Comedy), Sidney James, Hattie Jacques. Slapstick story about two rival taxi companies.

12:01: Channels 6 and 8: The Easy Life (1964 Italian Drama), Vittorio Gassman, Jean Louis Trintignant. Offbeat, absorbing drama. Sharp observation of contrasting personalities.

"Complete Real Estate Service Across Canada"

THE SALESMAN

Anyone buying or selling a home will give some thought to the purpose served by the real estate salesman. The salesman — the good salesman, that is, and most are — is a hard-working person who puts in long hours to be of service to the buyer and the seller of property.

In the first place he is a knowledgeable adviser as to price, saleability, listing methods, etc., whose advice to the prospective vendor is worth while.

When a listing is given, he takes the responsibility for seeing that the property is advertised to best advantage; that, if desirable, other Realtors are alerted to the possibility of a sale, and works with potential buyers to ensure that each is dealt with in proper fashion. He can often prevent unnecessary concern by the vendor by judicious screening of these potential buyers. Advice on the handling of offers received can be perhaps his most valuable service and is freely between salesman and all the potential buyers gives him a "feel of the market" for this particular property which cannot be equalled.

He will know a great deal about the legal requirements of completing a sale, and can advise how to have these arranged.

Since a good deal is a deal which is advantageous to both buyer and seller, the good salesman works hard to ensure a deal fair to both. Perhaps we can give further consideration to the relation of the salesman to the buyer another time.

"Complete Real Estate Service Across Canada."

THE SALESMAN

Anyone buying or selling a home will give some thought to the purpose served by the real estate salesman. The salesman — the good salesman, that is, and most are — is a hard-working person who puts in long hours to be of service to the buyer and the seller of property.

In the first place he is a knowledgeable adviser as to price, saleability, listing methods, etc., whose advice to the prospective vendor is worth while.

When a listing is given, he takes the responsibility for seeing that the property is advertised to best advantage; that, if desirable, other Realtors are alerted to the possibility of a sale, and works with potential buyers to ensure that each is dealt with in proper fashion. He can often prevent unnecessary concern by the vendor by judicious screening of these potential buyers. Advice on the handling of offers received can be perhaps his most valuable service and is freely between salesman and all the potential buyers gives him a "feel of the market" for this particular property which cannot be equalled.

He will know a great deal about the legal requirements of completing a sale, and can advise how to have these arranged.

Since a good deal is a deal which is advantageous to both buyer and seller, the good salesman works hard to ensure a deal fair to both. Perhaps we can give further consideration to the relation of the salesman to the buyer another time.

Labor Problems In U.S. Swell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Congress acted Wednesday to avert a nationwide railway shutdown in the United States Saturday, serious labor disputes continued today in the country's air travel, trucking and newspaper industries.

Congress approved Wednesday a bill requested by President Nixon to impose a nationwide railway contract that was negotiated last December, but rejected by one small union.

The bill imposes the contract for the rest of 1970 to avoid a shutdown, which railways had threatened in the event of any strike action Saturday when a congressional strike ban ends.

Congress passed the bill quickly and overwhelmingly despite a warning by Congressman John D. Dingell (Dem. Mich.) that the legislation might be unconstitutional and might not prevent wildcat strikes.

RAISE PAY

The Senate also approved a bill boosting pay of postal workers and most other federal employees six per cent. The $2,500,000,000 measure survived an effort to limit the raises to postal workers and the military.

The Federal Aviation Administration said the air traffic controllers strike was easing somewhat and plans were being made for reducing emergency flight restrictions in New York and Chicago.

The agency said the 50-per-cent flight quotas in the two cities were expected to be raised to 75 per cent. The normal flight quotas were reduced March 29 as the 16-day protest began causing air traffic jams.

United Air Lines announced it will lay off a total of 400 workers in Chicago and New York due to the strike.

Layoffs already have developed as a result of wildcat trucker strikes, which have been starting and stopping in various cities. They include 15,000 workers idle in Detroit and another 6,000 in Chicago.

BALK AT OFFER

The striking truckers are balking at a tentative national contract calling for a $1.10 an hour raise over three years.

In New York, labor mediator Theodore W. Kheel said negotiations involving 10 unions which represent 13,000 workers at the city's four major daily newspapers looked "very black."

One Newspaper Guild of New York official said he plans to begin a strike at the New York Post this weekend if an agreement isn't reached. Other unions have announced strike threats against the New York Times, The Daily News, and the Long Island Press.

The 10 unions have been working without contracts since March 30.

Veterans Hit Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Veterans' Organizations of Canada Thursday criticized government recommendations for pension legislation as inflexible and capable of causing hardship.

In their final brief to the Commons veterans affairs committee, the veterans organizations attacked government recommendations, especially the right of appeal and the question of automatic age increase for disabled pensioners.

The brief again stressed the veterans organization's advocacy of an independent pension review board as opposed to the government recommendation that appeals be handled by a separate division of the Canadian pension commission.

It questioned government statements that automatic age increases for disabled pensioners have no medical or historical basis. The veterans' organizations said these do have a basis and should be extended to cover all disabled pensioners whether injured accidentally or in direct action with the enemy. At present, automatic age increases don't cover accidental injury.

The submission was the last for the committee as it prepares to report to the Commons. The committee has been discussing pension legislation since last fall.

It's Not Royal

SALISBURY (Reuters) — The Rhodesian Airforce, in line with the country's self-proclaimed republican status, has dropped the Royal prefix from its title, it was announced here Wednesday. A defence ministry spokesman said the former Royal Rhodesian Airforce now would be called the Rhodesian Airforce.

Officials Jittery Over Hearing

By JIM HUME

A $3 million apartment project in Victoria was scheduled to run the guntlet in a public hearing this afternoon.

Only six Victoria city aldermen were expected to be present when Danzo and Franco Holdings made a final bid for the re-zoning of property close to Spencer Castle to clear the way for construction of 122 luxury garden apartment suites.

And that simple fact was giving the developers and city officials pre-meeting jitters.

For the rezoning to be approved two thirds of council must cast favorable ballots.

Mayor Courtney Haddock was unable to attend this afternoon's meeting because of illness Ald. Peter Pollen is in Japan and Ald. Clyde Savage in California.

UNANIMOUS

The rezoning bid could still pass muster, but only with a unanimous vote of the six council members expected at the meeting.

Complicating the issue is the legal ruling which states that only aldermen present for a public hearing can vote on the final presentation of a zoning bylaw.

In other words if council permitted this afternoon's public hearing to go ahead, but held the council vote until a full council could be mustered, only the six aldermen present at the hearing would be entitled to vote.

A few minutes before the council meeting city officials were still undecided what to do.

STRONG PROTEST

They knew that residents of the Spencer Castle area were to be out in full force to protest the garden apartment development.

At 2 p.m. city officials were still trying to decide whether to gamble on a unanimous vote after hearing objections from residents, or whether to announce before the hearing began that the entire preeentation and hearing was postponed for two weeks.

Hughes Named Editor

BOSTON (Reuters) — The Christian Science Monitor announced the appointment Wednesday of John Hughes as its managing editor. The newspaper said Hughes, now its Southeast Asia correspondent, would succeed Courtney Sheldon, who has been appointed chief of the newspaper's Washington bureau. Hughes won a Pulitzer Prize in 1964 for his coverage of an attempted coup against President Sukarno of Indonesia.

VoW Protesting War Gas Move

A telegram has been sent to Prime Minister Trudeau by the Victoria Voice of Women requesting that emergency medical facilities be set up along the water route of a proposed shipment of nerve gas from Okinawa to Oregon.

The U.S. defence department is establishing emergency medical stations in Washington and Oregon in the event of a gas leak.

"We want Ottawa to do the same thing here since the nerve gas shipment will pass through the Juan de Fuca Strait with possible damage resulting to Canadian waters and population," Mrs. Mavis de Girolamo, VOW president, said today.

Copies of the telegram have been sent to T. C. Douglas, national NDP leader, and David Anderson, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

"We also sent a telegram to Health Minister Loffmark urging him to support the request," said Mrs. Girolamo.

The Voice of Women a month ago sent petitions signed by thousands to Ottawa and Washington protesting the shipment of gas, but got nowhere.

"Our group was shocked by the arrogance of the U.S. which consistently ignored protests against the shipment," said Mrs. Girolamo.

Other Greater Victoria groups are also opposed to the gas shipment.

Bob Munro, president of The Collective, a student action group at the Institute of Adult Studies and the University of Victoria, said a similar telegram will be sent by his organization.

The U.S. government has not yet announced a date for the shipment.

However, a number of Oregon and Washington residents have asked for a hearing before a U.S. district judge to deal with the possibility of issuing a temporary injunction against the shipment.

Residents claim the nerve gas transport would violate their constitutional right to safety.

The hearing is Monday.

'Live Better' Clinic Opens Here

A hospital administrator, four doctors and a social worker have opened shop in Victoria to help people "to live a little bit better."

The quote is the motto of the Health Education Centre, at 3019 Shakespeare St., opposite the Hillside Shopping Centre. Opened Wednesday by acting mayor Cecil Parrott, the centre is a non-profit organiaztion which will be supported by donations.

It will be a place where people can meet professionals, such as doctors, for advice on a variety of health issues, explained T. J. Bradley, administrator at Resthaven Hospital and one of the organizers.

Doctors will volunteer their time to advise, but the centre will not be for diagnosis or treatment. The advice will be free, with the exception of the first program which begins Sunday night.

That program will be for people who want to quit smoking. It carries an incentive fee of $10 and comprises five evening meetings, beginning Sunday and ending Thursday. Films for the program have cost the centre $500.

The course is practically guaranteed to bring results, said Bradley. Anyone interested should come to the centre at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Dr. Kenneth Thornton, director of laboratories at Royal Jubilee Hospital and speaker at Wednesday's opening, said preventative medicine has been an area too long neglected.

And it can pay off, he said. Catching typhoid can mean 10 days in hospital which costs about $500. Stopping typhoid from spreading by food handlers could be achieved by something as simple as a 25-cent cake of soap.

Quadruplets Born

SYDNEY (Reuters) — A 24-year-old Australian housewife has given birth to quadruplets, doctors announced Sunday. They said two boys and two girls were born eight weeks prematurely Friday to Mrs. Pauline Upton, who has two other children. Condition of the quads was "reasonably satisfactory."

Canada's Pollution 'Just as Bad'

OTTAWA (CP) — Prosecution of the United States or Canada by one another over pollution of the Great Lakes will "have to be considered" in the future, Canada's legal adviser to the International Joint Commission said Thursday.

J. L. MacCallum, who also acts as assistant to the chairman of the international advisory body, was asked at the Commons national resources committee why Canada has not laid charges against the U.S. under the Boundary Waters Treaty of 1909 for American pollution of the Great Lakes.

Mr. MacCallum said Canada had probably hesitated for the same reasons that the U.S. has hesitated to charge Canada for affecting its section of the Great Lakes adversely by failing to prevent pollution in areas such as Sarnia, Ont., and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

"When your own hands are not entirely clean you are reluctant to tell somebody else to wash his."

Mr. MacCallum said the United States is taking strong action to attempt to clean up its pollution problems and "when it is obvious that some action is being taken, there is a tendency to be patient."

"But I realize there is a time limit to this.

"I agree that there should be some sort of international pressure, not to be relied upon, but to be considered."

Earth Day Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a sense of urgency, thousands of people will gather on college and high school campuses across the United States April 22 for environmental teach-ins which they hope will lead to action against life threatening pollution.

Organized by students with, in most cases, the approval and co-operation of school authorities and political leaders, Earth Day, as April 22 has been designated, seeks to mobilize support for anti-pollution measures.

Six-Story Dredge Donated for Park

OTTAWA (CP)—Yukon Consolidated Gold Corp. Ltd. has donated a six-storey-high gold dredge to the northern affairs department for display at a historic park at Bonanza Creek in the Yukon Territory.

The mammoth dredge, built in 1911, operated until 1958 on a basin of Bonanza Creek, one of the prime strike areas of the Yukon gold rush that followed the first find in 1896.

The department announced today that a "gold room," where ore picked up by the dredges was washed, the gold weighed and melted into bars for shipment, has been bought from Yukon Consolidated and will also be set up as an exhibit in the park. So will a miner's cabin typical of the 1898 era when the bulk of the gold taken from the Klondike was harvested by individual prospectors panning in creek and river beds.

Simple panning and placer methods accounted for about $23,000,000 worth of gold in the heyday of the Klondike rush, the department said. But by about 1905 the easy pickings had been exhausted along most of the waterways and improved mechanical methods of sifting the earth for gold were needed.

Large-scale mining interests started operations with huge dredges, a move that kept the area producing gold for another 50 years.

The historic park will set up exhibits depicting some 75 years of gold mining history in the Yukon.

Prisoners Entertained

The Village Squires and Totem Tones — an organization of 56 male singers — entertained prisoners at William Head minimum security Penitentiary Tuesday night.

Among the singers were two Victoria policemen and a city detective.

"We had a really captive audience," said George Holden, a hospital employee, who sings with the Village Squires.

Both the Village Squires and the Totem Tones are members of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing of America.

They are celebrating this week as Harmony Week in common with fellow societies all over Canada and the United States.

Drama Festival Criticizes the Critics

OTTAWA (CP) — The Dominion Drama Festival says it shares a growing concern about Canada's news media and "we regard with particular dismay the coverage or the lack thereof of responsibly prepared materials dealing with the performing arts, especially drama and more particularly amateur drama."

The problem appears mainly to be a lack of people qualified "in any sense of the word" to write about theatre. And with a few exceptions, that applies to larger urban areas too, says a submission to the Senate special committee inquiry into the mass media.

There has been heartening growth in the numbers of professional and amateur theatrical companies across the country, the brief says.

But the tone of general theatrical criticism can hardly inspire enthusiasm among young and non-professional actors for an "art which is the brunt of so much misconceived and ill-advised reporting and criticism."

CITES EXAMPLE

It cites as all too typical a series of critical appraisals it says were made at the 1969 Kelowna, B.C. Dominion Drama Festival final.

It says the critic of the Vancouver Province greeted the event with a plea for a more modern repertoire. Then, after "an unconventional opener by an adult group and an avant-garde second night, the same critic was crying for conventional theatre entertainment and light pleasurable works."

A critic from another newspaper "was a source of fascination and amusement because he rarely attended the plays and for all his harshness he frequently confused plays, described non-existent scenes and generally indulged himself and an unsuspecting public in gross fabrications.

A third critic, although present, "withdrew into a realm of his own that only happened to be located in the same theatre and described non-existent events."

The brief praises State Secretary Gerard Pelletier's views on creating a mass culture as worth study by the news media.

Some Tips on Growing Magnolias

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

To see a magnolia tree in bloom for the first time is a happening worth recording. I imagine most of us can with an effort in the memory department, recall this event in our own lives. Bare branches from October through the winter months are suddenly noticed to have a green bud swelling on every twig tip.

While the day and night temperatures are still only drifting between 45 and 30 deg. F. these green buds burst their protective coverings, elongate into creamy goblets four of five inches tall and finally flash open into broad platters. This year it was early March when this happened.

A small tree six feet hight will bear dozens of blooms; a mature tree of 20 feet will have thousands.

This is only one of the magnolias which may be grown easily here by beginning gardeners. It's name is Magnolia soulangeana.

Of hybrid origin, it has several varieties and forms, since magnolias hybridize readily and have been worked on a great deal in the last century.

The deep purple-stained form "nigra" is even more lovely than soulangeana itself, although a little later flowering. The outside of the petals are rosy purple, while inside when the flowers open is to be seen the creamy texture flushed with pale purple.

This magnolia seldom suffers frost damage in spring. In the early stages of its development the buds are protected by a tough hairy calyx and not until milder temperatures prevail is this discarded.

Also as insurance of bloom, a sequence of buds follows in the early spring weeks before leaves appear, lengthening the period into that of expanding foliage.

Since the leaves of this tree are moderately large, it is as well that we can enjoy the flowers first on naked branches.

A sunny open spot in the garden suits this magnolia, but keep in mind the ultimate size. It grows fairly quickly to its 20 feet, and has a comparable spread, so don't crowd it.

Pruning of Magnolia soulangeana and its varieties can be done as needed, just as soon as flowers are finished.

Plants three feet high or so can be safely moved out of containers while in bud and bloom.

Prepare an area of about four feet each way, adding plenty of mixed humus material—leafmould, rotten compost, very old cow manure, well dampened coarse peatmoss.

These materials serve two purposes—one, as a source of food (except the peatmoss), the other to hold moisture around the roots during summer. Needless the say, the planting area should be well drained for winter safety.

You will see other magnolias blooming in and around Victoria; this one is chosen for its ease of culture as well as its beauty.

POLICE and firemen turned up with net outside 24-storey building in Chicago Wednesday as mountaineer expert Terry Snyder, 24, started down face hand over hand on line. Somebody forgot to tell the authorities it was a publicity stunt for an outdoor show. (AP Wirephoto.)

FLASHBACK ON CANADA

Britain Considered Deal for Guadeloupe

By BOB BOWMAN

It was on April 9, 1682, that the great explorer, LaSalle, claimed Louisiana for France. It really meant that Louisiana, which then extended from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Coast, became part of Canada. There was a chain of forts from the St. Lawrence River to the Gulf of Mexico.

LaSalle's journey down the Mississippi had begun from Green Bay the previous autumn. There were 12 canoes carrying Frenchmen, Indians, their squaws and children. They crossed the Chicago River, the Illinois, Lake Peoria, and entered the Mississippi early in February. On the way down they encountered many new forms of Indian civilization.

LaSalle was not able to found a colony in Louisiana. He brought settlers from France in 1684 and sailed directly to the Gulf of Mexico, but could not find the entrance to the Mississippi. He landed in what is now Texas and was murdered by his own men. The work had to be completed later by Pierre Lemoyne d'Iberville and his brother Bienville.

The strange thing was that Britain did not try to get the entire area when France handed over her North American possessions in 1673. Instead France was allowed to give Louisiana to Spain as compensation for not having captured Gibralter. But perhaps it was not so strange when it is remembered that during the peace negotiations Britain considered giving Canada back to France in exchange for Guadeloupe in the Leeward Islands! It was considered to be a more important colony than Canada.

Benjamin Franklin, who was then a British civil servant and had organized the postal service in Canada and Nova Scotia, rushed to London and helped to persuade the British government not to consider the deal.

Other events on April 9:

1914—First train arrived at Prince Rupert, B.C, from Winnipeg on new Grand Truck Pacific Railway.

1917—Canadian Corps captured Vimy Ridge, a major battle of World War I.

1919—Royal Commission appointed to investigate high cost of living.

1961—Prime Minister MacMillan of Britain arrived in Ottawa for discussions with government of Canada.

1962—Royal York Hotel strike ended after 11 months.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED L. KARPIN

When the highly competitive deal diagrammed today came up in an all-expert rubber-bridge game some 20 years ago, the defenders played perfectly to defeat South's contract. During the years since then, I have tested quite a few non-expert players by giving them the East-West hands as defenders. Very few of them have made the winning play.

I am presenting this deal as a "bridge mystery." First, I will state the way in which a non-expert would tend to defend. You, as a bridge detective, are invited to figure out what he did that was wrong. Then the way in which the hand was actually played will be given.

On Wests king of diamonds, East plays the diamond nine. West then continues with another diamond, South ruffing. The ace, king, and queen of trumps now gather in the outstanding pieces. South next cashes five clubs, discarding a heart from dummy. Eventually, he loses two heart tricks, and chalks up the score for winning the game and rubber. What was the defensive misplay that allowed South to fulfil his contract?

East should have overtaken his partner's opening lead of the diamond king. The reason? Well, West had bid diamonds three times, all the way up to the four-level. Surely West rated to have a six-card diamond suit—and, hence, South had started with just one diamond originally.

In addition, West surely had some outside strength, based on his vigorous bidding. If that strength were in hearts, then the defenders had a real good chance of defeating South's game contract—provided the heart suit was attacked at once.

At trick two, East should shift to the king of hearts. With the king winning, the queen would be led next (if a low heart were led instead, West, upon winning the trick, might try to cash the diamond queen). With the heart queen winning, a third heart would be led, East's ace taking the trick.

And that's exactly the way the defence went some 20 years ago, when the deal was actually played.

Contractors' Lockout Plan 'Irresponsible'

By AB KENT

B.C. contractors' planned lockout of 30,000 building and construction tradesmen was branded irresponsible by B.C. Federation of Labor president E. T. Staley today.

Notice to lock members of seven building trade unions out of $200 million worth of construction projects after 3:30 p.m. Monday has been given by the Construction Labor Relations Association, representing about 600 contractors across the province.

CLRA said its unprecedent move is spurred by exhorbitant union wage demands and charged that the construction unions are "not prepared to bargain seriously."

A spokesman for CLRA said contractors are "fed up to the teeth" with wildcat strikes, work interruptions and the "whipsawing of one segment of the industry against another" and are "determined to bring order to chaos."

Staley said he is upset at the move, and other labor leaders said they are surprised, although the B.C. and Yukon Building Trades Council had been briefed Monday on what contractors planned to do.

"In my opinion this is a bit irresponsible," Staley said. "I don't think they can settle a dispute by spreading it to the entire industry."

He said only the Teamsters Union, out of the seven named, have a legitimate dispute with employers. These are the drivers of cement trucks involved with Ocean Cement and Lafarge on the lower mainland.

'Not in Legal Position'

"They may be able to lock these people out legally. Are they going to lock out the carpenters, the plumbers, the electricians? They are not in a legal position to do this," Staley said.

He said there are contracts in effect with the unions, although negotiations for new agreements are in progress, with at least two near settlement.

An Amalgamated Construction Association spokesman said the machinists, iron workers and boilermakers also are nearing settlement.

A lockout could seriously disrupt these negotiations, Staley said, perhaps placing agreements in jeopardy.

"Last year everyone thought this was going to be the year of the big explosion in the construction trades, in the pulp mills, in the IWA," Staley said.

He said unionists had gone into negotiations this year with a great sense of responsibility to their unions and to the people of B.C. to try to forestall a massive confrontation.

"For the contractors to take this move now at this stage is completely irresponsible. It is amazing to me that the contractors could take this step and throw it all out the window."

Employers 'Regret Need'

The seven unions named by CLRA are the teamsters, laborers, tunnel and rock workers, bricklayers and helpers, heat and frost insulators, operating engineers and cement masons.

Charles J. Connaghan, president of CLRA said Wednesday the organization "deeply regrets having to take lockout action, but it has been clear that some unions are not prepared to bargain seriously." He said contract demands are unrealistic and that ultimately, it is the public which must pay.

Another CLRA source said the lockout notice is serious. "They intend to do it. It is no frivolous action and it sure as hell isn't a bluff."

Staley said if the notice is just a threat to the construction trades, and if the industry does not carry out its intention, "this is irresponsible too."

CLRA said the situation had been "building up for some time."

If 60 per cent of the construction industry was going to shut down within a few days in any event, by the teamsters-concrete industry standoff, and a strike of laborers also seemed inevitable and would effectively put an end to other construction, contractors felt the time to serve lockout notice was ripe.

But the move had not been made "without a great deal of

'NO JURISDICTION OVER OUR SHIPS . . .'

Washington Rejects Canada's Arctic Claims

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. state department rejected today the idea expressed in proposed new Canadian Arctic legislation saying: "The U.S. does not recognize any exercise of a coastal state's jurisdiction over our vessels on the high seas."

State department spokesman Robert McCloskey added that the United States "does not recognize the right of any state unilaterally to establish a territorial sea of more than three miles or exercise more limited jurisdiction in any area beyond 12 miles.

"Therefore," he added, "we regret the introduction of this legislation by the Canadian government which . . . constitutes a unilateral approach to a problem we believe should be resolved by co-operative international action."

REFERS TO BILLS

The spokesman was commenting on two bills that received first reading in the House of Commons Wednesday.

One would push the Canadian territorial sea to 12 miles from the present three. The other was aimed at preventing an oil spill in the delicate Arctic environment.

At the same time the Canadian government announced that it had served notice at the United Nations that it would not recognize jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice in any claims that might arise from the pollution bill.

McCloskey said it is "a most complex issue" and that his statement today allows for further contacts with the Canadian government.

He said the U.S. and the Canadian governments "have discussed these issues over a long period of time" and that the "Canadian government is fully aware of our views."

He declined to be drawn into specifics on the degree of consultations on the two bills.

IS QUESTION MARK

Some observers in Ottawa were keeping a long-range eye focused on the U.S. supertanker Manhattan, now on its second voyage into the Canadian Arctic to test ice conditions there. It's being suggested that the Manhattan could conceivably turn around and head back to a U.S. port in view of the Canadian initiative.

If this happened—it presumably would be at the instigation of the U.S. government. If the vessel proceeds into the Arctic, it may be a tipoff that Washington will continue trying to avoid a direct clash with Canada on the sovereignty issue.

Officials here insist that only one of the two bills given first reading Wednesday involves directly an assertion of Canadian sovereignty, though Canada continues to maintain its claim to sovereignty over the entire Arctic region.

The bill in question is an amendment to the Territorial Sea and Fishing Zones Act of 1964, and extends Canadian territorial waters to 12 miles from the nearest coast. Until now, Canada has claimed a three-mile territorial sea, with an additional nine miles reserved for fishing purposes to Canadians.

NOT PRECEDENT

The U.S. follows the same three-plus-nine principle. Fifty-seven other countries, however, claim a territorial sea of 12 miles or more.

One important effect of the change introduced Wednesday would be formally to proclaim Canadian control over Barrow Strait, a key channel on the eastern side of the Northwest Passage.

Canada would grant foreign vessels innocent passage through the strait — as through all its territorial seas — but would reserve the right of inspection to see that any given voyage is, in fact, innocent.

This means, in the context of the government's current main preoccupation, the right to see that the vessel concerned is adequately equipped with pollution-safety devices.

Bail for Crux Almost Complete

VANCOUVER (CP)—A. G. Duncan Crux, former president of Commonwealth Trust Co. who faces fraud and theft charges, was expected to be freed on $100,000 bail today, his defence counsel said Wednesday night.

Lawyer Jack McGivern said $75,000 property bail was posted Wednesday and the remaining $25,000, from an unidentified bondsman, was to be processed today.

Wave of Anger Sweeps Egypt

By REUTERS

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser faced strong pressure today for reprisal air strikes against Israel as a wave of anger swept Egypt after a bombing raid on a primary school in which at least 30 children died.

Egypt accused Israel of barbarism after bombs and rockets ripped into a little Nile Delta primary school just after classes began Wednesday. The single-storey stone building was reduced to rubble, causing the highest casualty toll involving children since the 1967 six-day war.

One teacher also died and another 40 children and 30 adults were injured in the Israeli strike at Bahr el Bakr, 20 miles west of El Kantara on the Suez canal.

Observers here believe the raid is sure to increase demands — which Nasser said after the bombing of a metal factory in February he found hard to resist — for retaliation against similar targets in Israel.

Reporters who went to Huseiniya, near Bahr el Bakr, saw the badly mutilated bodies of the dead children, apparently aged from eight to 14, as weaping parents collected them from the mortuary.

NO TARGETS

Egyptian officials said there were no military targets near the school and denounced the raid as "another act of barbarism." In Tel Aviv, Israeli Defence Minister Moshe Dayan said that if the children were hurt during the raid they must have been inside the military installations that served as a target.

Earlier, an official Israeli announcement said photographs of the target before and after the attack "showed that clear hits were sustained only on military objectives."

STORE OWNER CHARGED IN COWICHAN DEATH

LAKE COWICHAN — RCMP officers here have charged a store operator with criminal negligence following a fatal shooting, early today.

Dead is Stanley William Bigcharles, 21, of Haney, employed as a tree planter.

Charged with criminal negligence causing death is Helmut Berthold George Merkel, 42, whose furniture store is on the main street here.

Initial reports on the incident were sketchy but informants said five people were involved in an alleged break-in at the rear of the store, prior to the shooting.

Police, who are continuing the investigation, have seized a rifle.

Negro MP Favors 'Hate' Bill

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The Commons continued its debate on the government's anti-hate bill today but a dramatic speech by Parliament's lone Negro member earlier will likely remain the highlight.

Conservative Lincoln Alexander, formidable debater from Hamilton West, is among other things, an extremely popular member of his party.

In clearly the most moving speech so far in the debate, he told his colleagues he wants to see the bill become law.

"I know a little about the black man's position because I am black and proud of it."

And in supporting the bill, Alexander, a lawyer, said he was not speaking as a Conservative or as a member of any political group.

"I am thinking about this problem as a man whose conscience is being affected, as a man who has some awareness of what it means to be a member of a minority group."

GETS TOTAL ATTENTION

For the first time in the debate, there was absolute silence in the chamber, as Alexander, a tall, powerful figure replied to complaints that the bill would affect freedom of speech.

"Mr. Speaker, what does a mother say to her child who comes running home crying

Cambodians Say 300 Cong Killed

Times News Services

Cambodian troops killed 300 Viet Cong guerrillas in strategic Svey Rieng province today after being battered and driven back Wednesday during heavy fighting, official sources said here.

Only light casualties were reported among Cambodian local militia and regular army troops took part in the battle in the important province bordering South Vietnam, the sources said.

The reports came as the Cambodians stepped up military activities in the province, launching a big push against the Viet Cong around the provincial capital of Svey Rieng. The Cambodians are trying to edge the Viet Cong from the province and recapture the border post of Bavet and the village outpost of Chi Phu.

Cars attempting to leave Svey Rieng town in the direction of the fighting were turned back Wednesday as refugees streamed along the road from Chi Phu. Journalists returning to Phnom Penh Wednesday night said all people of Vietnamese origin were being searched in Prasaut, midway between Svey Rieng and Chi Phu.

The sources said the Viet Cong were resisting the Cambodian campaign to oust them despite the use of MiG-17 aircraft to strafe them.

An estimated 20,000 Cambodian troops are sweeping the area, where the Viet Cong have long been entrenched and supplied through the port of Sihanoukville.

Greene Says U.S. Lags

TORONTO (CP — Federal Energy Minister J. J. Greene charged Wednesday night that the United States is lagging behind Canada in efforts to stop pollution of the Great Lakes.

Greene said in an interview that lack of action by the U.S. is "frustrating for Canada which does only 10 per cent of the polluting in the lakes."

He said he will ask U.S. officials to hold an immediate top level conference to discuss the pollution.

Greene charged that some U.S. cities on the lakes still are dumping raw sewage into the lakes.

He said Ottawa's gradual ban on detergent phosphates is a "futile gesture if Americans continue to put no limitations on them."

A treaty between Ottawa and Washington may be necessary to overcome pollution, said Mr. Greene, who was here for a federal-provincial conference on mercury pollution of the lakes.

CONTROL COUNCIL

In Washington today President Nixon established a national industrial pollution control council made up of 53 United States industrialists.

He said in a statement the group will "provide a means by which the business community can help chart the route" for co-operative industry-government efforts to cope with environmental problems.

Chairman of the group is Bert S. Cross, 64, of St. Paul, Minn., chief executive officer of Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans will keep an eye on the work of the council. He will name additional members later.

Nixon said the council "will allow businessmen to communicate regularly with the president, the council on environmental quality and other government officials and private organizations which are working to improve the quality of the environment."

FREE-SWINGING CONSUMERS' SESSION

By JACK SCOTT

New legislation covering food packaging and labelling is in the works at Ottawa, but no amount of law-making can equal the shopper's Golden Rule: "Don't hand over your dollar until you get what you want."

That was the message that strengthened the morale of some 250 women and a scattering of men—three times the number that had been expected—when the Greater Victoria School Board's adult education division joined with the Victoria branch of the Consumers' Association of Canada last night in a free-swinging attack on the high cost of groceries.

The reassurance came from Lois Smith, British Columbia Consultant of the Department of Corporate and Consumer Affairs, whose life, she confessed, is tuned to a continuous bleat of protest from consumers demanding fair play in the market place.

Packed House

The slight, stylish troubleshooter for Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Ron Basford told a packed audience at the Institute of Adult Studies: "You needn't feel defeated. There is a way of getting satisfaction by individual action. But there's no law that will protect us from our own gullibility.

Her words were echoed by E. L. Devlin, British Columbia Regional Director of the Food and Drug Directorate.

Said he: "There's a great deal of protection on the books—standards must be met on everything from rye whisky to mayonnaise—but the consumer must learn to search it out and use it. Besides that, there's no greater weapon than the customer's displeasure."

Some of that displeasure was eivdent by a wide-ranging barrage of questions to a panel of experts and an ominous murmur of approval when Mrs. Norma Morriss, former provincial government nutritionist, gave examples of what she called "The Great Supermarket Hoax."

"Involved and meaningless information on packages," said Mrs. Morriss was the main reason why housewives are unable to fulfill their responsibility as selective, informed, value-conscious shoppers.

Mrs. Morriss brought her own illustrated groceries to the meeting to help demonstrate commonplace problems in the marketplace.

One can presented a full-color rotagravure of spaghetti and succulent meat balls—but there were no meat balls inside. Another illustrated mouth-watering slices of chicken that turned out to be chopped-up bits and pieces inside.

'You Don't Know'

A box of corn flakes, labelled "the all-time favorite, fortified with three essential vitamins" was offered as an example of irrational information. Said Mrs. Morriss: "There are 88 different kinds of cereal in my market. No women has the time, the patience or the guidance in the face of this tremendous proliferation to know which is the best value. You just don't know what you're reading."

A behind-the-scenes expert

GETTING THE MESSAGE on the art of consumerism, an unexpectedly large turnout of women shoppers Wednesday night heard a panel of experts offer guidance on how to stretch a dollar. The Focus on Food Forum, jointly sponsored by the Greater Victoria School Board's adult education division and the Greater Victoria branch of the Consumers Association of Canada, aired the complaints of harassed housewives and offered a variety of solutions for The Supermarket Blues.

Burrard Earnings Lower

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Burrard Dry Dock Co. Ltd. had net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1969 of $882,809 or 88 cents a share, compared with $1,192,776 or $1.19 a share in 1968.

The company's annual report, released today, showed sales of $43,406,231 for 1969, nearly doubled from the $21,905,821 in the preceding year. Operating costs and expenses of $41,512,601 were also double the $20,051,971 for 1968.

The report said that the volume of shipbuilding orders completed during 1969 showed an increase over the previous year but those currently in hand are less than those of a year ago.

The company recently announced extensive layoffs at its North Vancouver operation.

Eighteen new vessels were delivered during 1969 from yards here and in Esquimalt. They included river barges for use on the Mackenzie River, the oceanographic research vessel CNAV Quest, delivered to the naval research establishment at Halifax, and a variety of barges for coastal logging operations.

Canadian Firms Will Purchase Cable TV Co.

TORONTO (CP) —National Cablevision Ltd., a Vancouver company owned largely by the Columbia Broadcasting System Inc. of New York City, is being purchased by three Canadian companies.

An agreement in priciple has been reached for the purchase of cable television systems owned by National in Toronto, Montreal and Quebec City by the Toronto Star, Bushnell Communications Ltd., and Civitas Corp.

The transaction is subject to approval by the Canadian Radio-Television Commission and is a result of the commission's limiting foreign ownership to 20 per cent or less of Canadian cable TV systems.

Under the agreement The Star will acquire National's York Cablevision Ltd. of Toronto, Bushnell will take over the Montreal system and Civitas Corp. will own Tele-Cable de Quebec.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG

Rapeseed maintained an aggressive exporter buying trade with prices higher at the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Commission houses were fairly active with early buying and some short-coverings.

Trading was light in flax with hedges and commission house offerings meeting moderate exporter demands. Prices were fractionally easier.

Oats, barley and rye prices remained steady throughout the day with light trading.

Volume of trade Wednesday included 1,236,000 bushels of rapeseed, 507,000 of flax and 36,000 of rye.

CHICAGO

A strong demand for soybean meal and oil at the cash level influenced buying of these futures on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was around ½ lower, May 1.46½; corn mixed, May 1.24⅞; oats down 1¼, May 63⅞; rye a fraction higher, May 1.13¼; soybeans irregular, May 2.62⅝.

Wheat Exports Register Gain

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian wheat exports for the week ending April 1 totalled 5,100,000 bushels, more than both last week's 3,800,000 and the 900,000 bushels of the same week one year ago, the board of grain commissioners says.

The board said in its weekly report that the visible stocks of wheat decreased 1,100,000 bushels to a total of 417,500,000.

Farmers marketings of 5,600,000 bushels of wheat was less than the previous week's 9,100,000 bushels and the 6,600,000 total of the same week one year ago.

Lake head stocks of all grains totalled 84,200,000 bushels, greater than both the previous week's 81,400,000 and the 69,800,000 bushels of the same week one year ago.

Brampton Plant To Build Gremlin

DETROIT (CP) — Building of a new subcompact, the Gremlin, will begin later this spring at the American Motors plant at Brampton, Ont., President William V. Luneburg has announced.

He said Gremlin production will begin as soon as assembly facilities are rearranged. All Gremlins now are built at the main American Motors plant in Kenosha, Wis.

Dealer orders have been exceptionally high, said Mr. Luneburg, prompting the increase in production by approximately 30 per cent.

Crown Zellerbach Chief Dies at 63

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Peter T. Sinclair, chairman of the board of Crown Zellerbach Co., died Tuesday at 63.

Sinclair who joined the forest company in 1928 as an electrical engineer served for six, years as its president.

A native of Portland he was, a director of Wells Fargo Bank, Pacific Indemnity Co., and Clorox Co., St. Francisville Paper Co., Zellerback Paper Co. and Crown Simpson Pulp Co., as well as numerous civic and industrial organizations.

Aluminum Ingots, Products Higher

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Aluminium Co. of America said today it will increase the price of primary aluminum ingot by 1 cent a poind to 29 cents a pound, effective with orders received next Tuesday.

A similar hike will be imposed by Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp.

The prices of alloy ingot and a selected group of fabricated products will be increased proportionately, Alcoa said.

A spokesman said the price increases on ingot and mill products are necessary to improve the company's return on capital investments.

Kaiser said the move is to offset inflation and rising cost of doing business.

Interest Rate Boost by Japan

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan has raised moderately the specially low rates of interest at which its central bank supplies money to promote exports.

The Bank of Japan announced the rates of interest it charges for its discounts and loans for export financing would be increased by one per cent to a range of five to 5.5 per cent, effective May 15.

This was the first change in these rates since 1965, when they were lowered to promote exports.

The man we want must be between the ages of 25 and 65. He must be married with family responsibilities. He must be a good citizen, active in community affairs. He must have an impeccable reputation. And a sincere desire to provide his family with a better than average living.

To such a man we can offer:

* The opportunity and challenge found only in the operation of his own business, and without having to make a substantial investment.
* A product training that is second to none, and could lead to a professional status, with sincere and diligent effort on his part.
* A substantial guaranteed income, plus exceptionally attractive incentives, that could provide a much better than average income. Last year this average was better than $12,500.
* The security and peace-of-mind found only in comprehensive employment benefits such as pension — disability income, group life insurance and medical coverages for himself and family.

Plus the advancement opportunity found in a large International Company having representation from Coast to Coast and is well and favorably known by a substantial clientele in this area.

If you are such a man, and have the sincere ability to work hard

Baseball anyone? And in the middle of the hockey playoffs, too. Sport seasons mean nothing now. What's a fellow to do? But then, it is that time of the year, isn't it?

Yes, the small-ball season is underway and into its second century. But many misgivings are still dangling over the scene.

Denny McLain has confessed and been given his pennance. It may have surprised the Detroit star to find he wasn't as guilty as he thought he was, or said he was. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn told him that he wasn't really a member of the bookmaking trust. He only thought he was. He was being duped.

So, it actually wasn't all his fault, and the fact that he hadn't bet on baseball, only basketball, convinced Kuhn that he wasn't all bad. He had made unfortunate friendships. That's all. He could be excused for that. And now he could play baseball again. In July. That's when his pennance would expire.

But be good in the meantime, and be careful, and don't talk to strangers, or his Tiger teammates. Those were the guidelines.

Seattle got its verdict, too, after a long cold winter, an equally frigid spring.

The Pilots were told to pack up and move on to Milwaukee. The Pacific Northwest didn't deserve to have baseball. Seattle couldn't support it. Milwaukee would do much better. Because, after all, Milwaukee had been a major league town once before. And hadn't the National League been guilty of playing hob with the franchise? They had given it away to Atlanta in a snit. And now the benevolent American League would make it all right again.

●

Eight thousand people showed up at the airport to greet the new Brewers on their first visit to town. That was more than attended most Pilot home games last year. This was Milwaukee's first display of affection. There was more tangible appreciation Tuesday night. The Brewers' home opener attracted 37,000. The Brewers (nee Pilots) were so shook up, they got bombed, 12-0.

There will be more, about Seattle, in the courts. But for now the Pilots have gone, forever.

The sport itself is in a bind. Curt Flood, an outfielder by trade, has challenged the reserve clause. Flood doesn't want to be told with which team he must play. He is giving up a $90,000 salary to settle his peace of mind. And he has hired former U.S. Supreme Court justice Arthur Goldberg to assist him in his crusade. This includes a $1 million suit against organized baseball.

It all started when Flood was traded from the St. Louis Cardinals to Philadelphia Phillies for Richie Allen. He didn't want to leave St. Louis. Baseball, too, has not yet signed an agreement with the players association. This will probably come about, because nobody really wants a strike; and the fact that talks are still going on is a hopeful sign.

And as this is the era of tarnished images, baseball is taking a long look at itself.

Is the game that dull, too tedious, too long? Does the sport fan want more for his dollar? What can be done to improve the image? All these questions are a part of the sport, just as they were last year.

●

That's when the league split up into four divisions. And what happened? Interest grew, attendances were generally up, and the revival was noted and appreciated. There were few complaints. But still there is the theme heard most often: The game must be speeded up.

But then, baseball, is not a speed-up game. It's a relaxing sport, to watch. And really, once into summer, and the hot weather of the east and midwest, who wants to hurry? There probably will be an innovation, or two. But what? Maybe another bazooka ball! Kuhn hasn't given up on that. He is committed to change.

On the playing field, the New York Mets will have all eyes upon them. Will they endure, and live on to win another pennant?

The oracles of Las Vegas say no. St, Louis will be stronger because of Allen, and will be 4-1 to win as they should have done last year.

The Mets, meanwhile, will attempt to relive their impossible seance of last season with virtually the same club. Only at third base is there a change. Ed Charles is gone. Joe Foy, he of many teams, is the new man. There is not much to recommend him as a super-Met. But then the Mets were never recommended last year, not until mid August.

That's when they were buried nine games behind Chicago. They won 26 out of their next 32 games.

That's part of the legend. That and the Mets' fine young pitching staff. During one 10-game winning streak last year, Met pitchers gave up only 11 runs. They should be even stingier this year. And everyone knows what happened in the world series. Ask the Orioles.

●

But will it happen again?

Yes, it will. The Mets will prevail. True, the Cardinals are strong, but they are rebuilding, and may not have plugged all the holes in the process. Chicago was right there until the final weeks last year, and with basically the same club, will be pressing. Leo Durocher was charged with mis-management in the moment of stress in Chicago. He has outlived that and the Cubs are good enough to win it all, with due deference to the Mets. So put the Cubs second.

But watch for a tight race. The Cardinals and Pittsburgh certainly will offer many arguments. The Pirates have the hitting, the Cards the pitching. Take your pick for third. St. Louis is the choice here. Which leaves Philadelphia and Montreal to gather up the crumbs.

Tomorrow, the National West and the American League.

Hurler's Horseplay Could Cost Finger

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Pitcher Cecil Upshaw of Atlanta Braves severely cut the ring finger of his right hand during horseplay with a group of other players Wednesday night and was taken to Stanford Medical Centre at Palo Alto, Calif., for surgery.

A spokesman for the Braves said doctors had not determined whether it would be necessary to remove the finger.

The spokesman said Upshaw, a right-hander, and several other players were walking along a street "discussing the National Basketball Association playoffs."

"Upshaw suddenly leaped up to demonstrate how he used to sink baskets when he played basketball. He caught his finger on an overhanging awning or some similar object, and severely cut his finger."

Dr. Richard Braun of San Diego determined that there was artery and nerve damage, and advised immediate surgery.

Upshaw had a 6-4 record last season.

Blues Topple North Stars; Seals Edged by Penguins

By The Canadian Press

As if the National Hockey League still wasn't convinced that Bobby Orr and Phil Esposito are its top scorers, the two Boston Bruins marksmen Wednesday night combined for a total of seven points to set the pace in their drive for the Stanley Cup.

Esposito, last season's scoring champion and second only to Orr this year, scored three goals to lead the Bruins in an 8-2 romp over New York Rangers in the opening game of their quarter-final playoff series.

Orr, who won the scoring leadership this spring with 120 points, added two goals and both he and Esposito combined to set up Wayne Cashman for another of the Boston markers.

In the other Eastern Division series, the champion Chicago Black Hawks downed Detroit Red Wings 4-2. St. Louis Blues, the Western Division titlists, opened their series with a 6-2 win over Minnesota North Stars while Pittsburgh Penguins took their starter from Oakland Seals 2-1.

All four of the best-of-seven quarter-final series continue tonight at Chicago, Boston, St. Louis and Pittsburgh with the teams switching home arenas for the third and fourth games Saturday and Sunday.

The bruising battle at Boston started with Esposito getting his first two goals in the first 10 minutes. Rookie Jack Egers kept the Rangers in the game with a goal one minute before the period ended.

Orr started the second-period explosion with his two goals and Derek Sanderson, Esposito and Cashman followed up with one each. Fred Stanfield wrapped up the Boston scoring with his goal early in the final period before Bob Nevin collected the Rangers' other score.

Orr's second goal and the one by Sanderson came with the Bruins' Don Marcotte sitting out a tripping penalty.

Francis Gives Bobby Full Marks

Bruins coach Harry Sinden said after the game that Sanderson's goal on a pass from Eddie Westfall was the key score in the match.

"The play Westfall made to get the puck up to Sanderson was tremendous," Sinden said. "If there was a turning point, that was it."

But Emile Francis, Rangers manager-coach, went back to Orr's first goal which came when the Boston defenceman grabbed his own rebound off the goalpost and slipped the puck behind goalie Ed Giacomin.

"That was the backbreaker," Francis said. "Everybody seemed to stand around figuring the first shot had gone in, but the referee knew it hadn't. But give Orr credit—he had his wits about him, and he made sure the second one went in. Then, as if that isn't enough to seal the coffin, we get a man up and they score two goals."

The game got rough in the late stages with several fights breaking out. New York's Walt Tkaczuk, Bill Fairbairn, Brad Park and Orland Kurtenbach had scraps with Boston's Johnny McKenzie, Ken Hodge, Esposito and Sanderson.

CHANGE GOALIES

Giacomin lasted the first two periods with Terry Sawchuk taking over the New York goalie duties in the final session.

A crowd of 14,835 turned out to watch the start of the Bruins' run for the Stanley Cup which they last won in 1941, the year after the Rangers last held it.

The Black Hawks, whose last cup victory came in 1961, had a tougher time than the Bruins getting their first win.

The Red Wings took an early lead on a goal by Wayne Connelly but Pit Martin scored to tie the game late in the opening period before a Chicago crowd of 16,666.

Stan Mikita put the Hawks in front and Chico Maki's goal late in the middle period proved the clincher.

Gordie Howe's third-period goal cut the Hawks lead to 3-2 but they failed to get the equalizer even after pulling goalie Roy Edwards for an extra attacker in the final minute of play. Eric Nesterenko scored the Hawks' final goal into the empty Detroit nets.

Maki's goal also came when the Hawks were a man short while Martin and Mikita scored with Detroit players in the penalty box.

Gump Worsley, the losing goalie at St. Louis, was also over-worked as he faced 46 Blues shots on the Minnesota nets, allowing two goals each by Terry Crisp and Ab McDonald and one each from Red Berenson and Gary Sabourin.

10TH STRAIGHT

The North Stars' Bill Goldsworthy and Jean-Paul Parise put the puck behind veteran netminder Jacques Plante who stopped 19 other shots.

The crowd of 16,304 fans saw the Blues claim their 10th straight victory in Western Division Stanley Cup action. The Blues were eliminated in the cup final by the Eastern Division's Montreal Canadiens in the last two playoff encounters.

The Blues, who were second only to Boston in power-play goals scored during the regular season, collected three of their scores while playing with a man advantage.

At Pittsburgh, the Penguins edged by the Seals on a disputed goal by Nick Harbaruk late in the third period.

Oakland goalie Gary Smith allowed a goal by Jean Pronovost and Pittsburgh's Les Binkley let in one by Gerry Ehman in the first period. The two netminders held the game scoreless the rest of the way until Harbaruk put the puck in the Oakland nets on a goal-mouth scramble.

Smith came charging out of the nets claiming the goal should be disallowed because he had been interfered with in his nets by Pittsburgh's Glen Sather, but referee Bruce Hood let the score stand at 2-1.

Sniffling Arnie Sounds Warning

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer sniffled and snorted with a bad cold and announced that his golf game "is sounder than it has been in five years opening the Masters." Coming from a four-time champion, it sounded like a warning to all the rest.

Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and 80 other golfers, including Toronto's George Knudson, started today in the 34th fight to win the Masters tournament at Augusta National Club.

"I feel physically up to it," said the 40-year-old Palmer.

"Although I'm not hitting the ball better than past years, my over-all game has as much muscle as, well . . . as it did in the early 1960s."

Palmer won the Masters in 1958-60-62-64.

EAGER FOR ACTION

"I can't think of many things I want more than a fifth Masters," he said. "Sure, I'd like to have a PGA championship, too, since I've never won that one. But I'm eager to see what happens at Augusta National this week."

The rolling Augusta National course is a subject of controversy. Some, like Bruce Devlin and Dan Sikes, say it appears in poorer shape than any of their past years here. Nicklaus, on the other hand, says it's not as pretty but is super for pure golf.

"The greens are fast and I'll be the happiest cat around if they're like greased lightning and experience comes into play. When experience comes into play, I think I'll be among those with an advantage."

GREENS SLICKER

Jack and his close pal from amateur golf days, Deane Beman, agreed that the greens are slicker for this Masters than any since 1965. "Recalling my trips here, I would say that 1959, '60 and $65 gave us the fastest greens, but they are rolling well now," said the tiny Beman.

Augusta's normally money-green fairways showed a tinge of brown in spots from an extended Georgia winter, but handy workers with cans of green spray paint were making certain late Wednesday that the green is there for the weekend ahead.

Champ Leading Snooker Series

TORONTO (CP) — George Chenier, 63, defending champion, used a 52-break in the fifth game against challenger Eddy Agha of Montreal Wednesday to win the five-game set 3-2.

Chenier, North American title holder for 22 consecutive years, leads the series 20-10.

Ted Green Isn't Planning To Return During Playoffs

OTTAWA (CP) — Ted Green of Boston Bruins Wednesday discounted the possibility that he would get into the current National Hockey League playoffs.

Green, who suffered a fractured skull in a stick fight with Wayne Maki in an exhibition game here Sept. 21 and who has missed the entire regular schedule, was declared physically fit late Tuesday by his Ottawa physician, Dr. Jean Richard.

★ ★ ★

This opened the way to Green serving the 13-game suspension set by NHL president Clarence Campbell following the stick fight. Campbell said earlier he would await the doctor's verdict before allowing the suspension to begin.

Although Campbell has not announced his decision, if the suspension was ruled to start from last night's Boston-New York game, it is possible that it could be completed while Bruins are still engaged in the playoffs.

Green, however, said that he does not expect to see action until the start of next season.

★ ★ ★

Green's trial on a charge of common assault was adjourned here Wednesday until May 27 after testimony of game officials, photographers and spectators. His lawyer, Edward Houston, told Judge M. J. Fitzpatrick that he might want to call Bruins executive and a Boston reporter as witnesses and that it would not be convenient for them to appear until after the playoffs.

Maki was acquitted last month on a similar charge, laid following the incident.

GORGE EDGES OAK BAY IN JACKSON CUP SEMI

Gorge Molsons advanced to the April 22 Jackson Cup soccer final Wednesday night by ousting Oak Bay 2-1 in a semi-final tussle at Royal Athletic Park.

Dan Henry scored both Gorge goals, one in each half, while Palle Polson averted a shutout for Bays with a successful penalty shot in the final half.

Molsons, champions in the Victoria and District Soccer League's first division this season, plays the winner of next Wednesday's match between Victoria West and Hourigans in the final round.

McLeod Shuts Out Totems in Opener

PORTLAND (AP) — Jim McLeod got the shutout that eluded him in the regular season as Portland Buckaroos stopped Seattle Totems 6-0 Wednesday night in their first Western Hockey League semi-final meeting.

Second game in the best-of-seven series will be in Seattle Friday night. Portland was No. 2 in the regular season. Seattle tied for fourth with Phoenix Road-runners and won a playoff game to face Portland.

Vancouver Canucks, No. 1 and bound for the NHL next year, lead No. 3 San Diego Gulls 1-0 in the other semi-final series and play next in Vancouver Friday night.

Portland scored four times in the second period to break open a tight game that was scoreless until the final 49 seconds of the opening period.

Cliff Schmautz got the opening goal and added the final talley in the third period.

Rich Van Impe picked up a pair of goals for Portland in the second, when Dennis Kearns and Bill Saunders also scored. Mcleod slapped away 27 Seattle attempts before a crowd of 5,114.

Phils Receive One Player In Flood Deal

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals have sent first baseman Guillermo Montanez to Philadelphia to compensate the Phillies for Curt Flood, who was traded but will not play this year.

The Phillies also have the right to choose another player Aug. 31.

Flood was involved in a multiplayer trade with Philadelphia at the end of last season. But he filed a suit challenging the reserve clause in baseball player contracts and as a result is sitting out the 1970 season.

McGrandle Knocked Out

EDMONTON (CP) — Jose Luis Pimentel of Los Angeles stopped Billy McGrandle of Edmonton at 2:55 of the fifth round in a professional boxing card Wednesday night.

Pimentel, 28, former No. 1 contender for the world featherweight title, downed McGrandle with a left hook.

It was Pimentel's 28th victory in 31 bouts. He has won 23 by knockouts. McGrandle, 21, has four losses and a draw in 31 bouts.

Pickup of Pesticides By Student Teams Called Frightening

An official of the B.C. agriculture department said today the prospect of teenagers picking up a variety of pesticides in Victoria Saturday is "frightening."

John Proctor, pesticide officer at the entomology and pest control division, said there "could be trouble" with youths not knowing how to handle pesticides.

"Where you get mixtures on the skin of three, four or five pesticides and exposure there is potential danger," he said.

"This could affect nervous systems — you just can't tell."

Mixing one normally safe pesticide with another normally safe pesticide could together produce "a toxicity which is very much greater."

★ ★ ★

Proctor said the youths are "really well motivated" and this was good to see, but they had made no approach to pesticide officials.

"I believe they should collect nothing but chlorinated hydrocarbons," he said, but the youths plan on collecting about 35 insecticides.

"It also worries me that they are going to go around with plastic bags and carry them. The bags won't support much weight so bang, bang, break and break."

Asked what the public should do to get rid of pesticides, Proctor said, anyone should bring them to the agriculture department in the Douglas building, Government Street.

Earlier this week, Kim Smith, a Grade 12 Mount View high school student, appealed to local garden enthusiasts to let him know if they have one of about 35 insecticides, including Aldrin, DDT and mercury compounds.

'MY LIFE NOT WORTH A NICKEL'

A Victoria man sentenced today to one year in provincial jail for possession of stolen B.C. Hydro bonds told County Court that if he was sent to the federal penitentiary "my life won't be worth a plugged nickel."

"They will take care of me inside for being a stool pigeon," said Rene Talon, 36, of 110 Government St.

Talon was convicted Tuesday of being in possession of seven $1,000 B.C. Hydro bonds stolen from the Vancouver firm of King and Scarfe Ltd. Jan. 13.

He cashed the bonds at four Victoria banks.

THREATENED

Before sentence was passed this morning, Talon was called to the witness stand by defence counsel Dermod Owen-Flood.

A dark-haired man in a brown suit Talon said he would not have cashed the bonds if his life had not been threatened by men from Vancouver.

Talon said he was in debt for between $1,600 and $2,000 because of a business he operated in Victoria.

"Why were you afraid for hour life?" asked Owen-Flood.

"They told me they would shoot my head off," Talon replied.

He said the three men gave him the seven bonds in Victoria and one said: "if I didn't cash them he would make sure nobody could find me, that is, he would get rid of me."

Talon said the three men came to his house and produced a shotgun.

"Did you believe this threat would be carried out?" asked Owen Flood.

'DONE TIME'

"Yes, various people told me such threats have been carried out and I knew these men had done time."

Talon said he was followed in a car by the men while he was cashing the bonds in Victoria banks. He was cross-examined extensively by Crown Counsel Cecil Branson.

Talon stated that if he came out of jail alive, he would go back into business. He spoke of a woman with two children and said "I will marry her if she will have me."

Earlier Talon admitted to a criminal record including sentences for theft and possession of house-breaking tools.

Budget Talks Next Week

Saanich council will sit down next week to produce the 1970 municipal budget and strike the mill, or tax, rate for the year.

Three evenings have been set aside for budget consideration. The meetings, at the municipal hall, start at 7:30 p.m. and are open to the public.

The provincial budget in January indicated expenditures of $8.9 million this year compared with $7.6 million last year, excluding education which is the responsibility of two school boards.

This forecast expenditure would require an additional tax levy of 8.6 mills, but three mills of this would be for garbage collection which in the past was paid separately.

However, the provisional figures will be subject to cutting at next week's meeting. Last year, the provisional budget would have required an increase of seven mills but the final budget showed an increase of 3.65 mills.

DRY SPOTS were hard to come by this morning, but little Leslie Chan seems happy with whatever protection she can get under Scott Reid's umbrella on the trip to Willows Elementary. En route with Scott and Leslie are Diane Reid, left, and Barbara Down. Between three-quarters and 1½ inches of rain fell on the Southern Island overnight and this morning. (Bill Halkett Photo.)

'Million-Dollar' Rain Cheered by Foresters

While some Greater Victoria residents with flooded basements may be thinking otherwise, the steady downpour early today was a million-dollar rain for the Island and other parts of the province.

Lakes and creeks in the Greater Victoria watershed which have been below peak levels since last summer, rose sharply as more than 1½ inches of rain fell over a period of 12 hours.

Floyd Nelson, B.C. Forest service protection officer, said the rain benefited the whole province — especially the interior where the land was parched.

Some grass fires had occurred last week but with the return of moist weather over the weekend, the danger was over, he said.

In the Capital Region, the rainfall varied from district to district. The wettest spot was Sidney where 1¾ inches of rain fell over a period of eight hours.

Gonzales was the driest district with only three-quarters of an inch.

Victoria reported a few flooded basements while Saanich had about 70.

Faulty drainage systems around homes caused most of the flooding.

Municipalities said they had little trouble with storm drains.

The weatherman said more wet weather can be expected for south Vancouver Island.

"We will get showers tomorrow," he said. "But more rain is moving in from the north."

OIL RIGHT SALES NET B.C. $1.6M

A total of $1,611,203 was added to provincial revenue today following sale of oil and gas rights.

Bids on 36 parcels were accepted, said Mines and Petroleum Resources minister Frank Richter.

Areas involved include, Mile 150 on the Alaskan highway, northeast of Fort Nelson and north of Fort St. John.

Next sale of rights will be Aug. 9.

YOUNG CYCLIST INJURED

A 13-year-old Victoria boy is in satisfactory condition in hospital recovering from injuries in a traffic accident this morning on the Patricia Bay Highway.

Roger Crombie, of 6315 Robin Way, was riding his bicycle north of Elk Lake about 7 this morning when he was struck by a car driven by Philip D. Williams, 1106 Monterey.

He was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with a broken arm, multiple scrapes and possible head injuries.

Roger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Crombie and is a student at Mt. Newton Junior Secondary.

Poison Drop Protested By Conservationists

The Victoria Fish and Game Proctective Association today protesed the use of a deadly poison in a forest management program.

Robert Kennedy, president, said B.C. Forest Service proposes to coat spruce seeds with Edrin to kill forest mice.

Seeds form part of the diet of mice.

Edrin, a chlorinated hydrocarbon, is one of the deadliest of poisons.

Plans call for an air-drop of the poison-coated seeds in the Kassick River area, near the mouth of the Skeena River, Kennedy said.

"Such a program is bound to effect one of the best steelhead rivers left in British Columbia," he said. "The poison through the mice will also kill other forms of wildlife."

Mice form an important diet of owls, eagles, hawks and the peregrin falcon, all protected by law.

Wolves, cougars and other animals also feed on them.

"I've been told that the use of Edrin-coated seeds is only being tried as an experiment," he said. "Does this mean if it is successful it will be applied to all other forest areas in B.C.?"

Kennedy described the government's anti-pollution program as contradictory.

"This is Wildlife Week," he said. "One government department tells you to protect wildlife. Another department plans to use a poison which will kill it."

He recalled the government had announced that it planned to abolish the use of DDT and other deadly poisons by the end of the year.

Day-Long Talks Planned For Loffmark, Hospitals

Day-long talks will be held in Victoria between hospital and medical officials and Health Minister Ralph Loffmark Friday.

A prime topic will be the minister's announcement last week that hospitals must cut spending, or find extra money on their own, for operating funds.

The policy, under which the provincial government will pay only 70 per cent of the wage and salary increases awarded hospital workers this year, means hospitals like St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee must reduce 1970 budgets by about $200,000.

The meeting in Loffmark's office will be attended by six representatives of the B.C. Hospital Association and delegates from the B.C. Medical Association, B.C. Society of Architects, Registered Nurses Association of B.C., B.C. Research Council and the Vancouver regional hospital district.

"We have been arranging this type of meeting for some time," said Duncan Bradford, executive secretary of the B.C. Hospital Association.

The session is to thrash out problems of hospital financing including those of day-to-day expenses and costs of new buildings and equipment. This is why architects, nurses, doctors and the research council are involved.

Bradford said his group has been planning for the meeting since before Christmas and it is a "little unfortunate" that Loffmark's cost reducing announcement was not made earlier.

Arthur Mayse . . .

VICTORIA, I'M ASSURED by several long-term residents, has never held much attraction for that pioneer of do-it-yourself tourism, the Gypsy rover. His colorful bands drifted with the roads as far as the mainland rim. But the Gulf crossing was awkward and expensive, and the wandering folk rarely undertook it.

What set me asking questions was a newspaper account from Britain, where for centuries the Gypsy has been regarded with a dubious eye.

Now, under the new Caravan Sites Act, and over the anticipated objections of various ruffled town and city councils, British Gypsies who wish to put down roots will be given a chance to do so.

Local governments, unless they can come up with satisfactory grounds for exemption, will be required to set up adequately equipped trailer parks for the Romany tribes.

According to the report, about half Britain's Gypsies hope to settle on the eviction-proof sites contemplated.

A blow to romance, and I find it strange to think of those big, mustached men and kerchiefed, full-skirted women as anchored citizens.

Yet something of the same is happening in North America, and particularly in the United States. In the postwar era, very many Gypsies turned from the encampment to steady work and permanent homes.

Canada once numbered her Gypsies in the thousands. But their welcome by the Gadsha — their term for all outside the brotherhood of the wandering clans — was never of the warmest. By degrees, the descendants of the wanderers who migrated from Europe in the nineteenth century turned south.

An estimate I came on a while ago set Canada's present Gypsy population at only about 400, with concentration heaviest in the West.

That seems a small figure for a race that once travelled all provinces.

The prairies, with their wide sky-sweep and long horizons, knew them. They would come with the late spring or the summer to the outskirts of our little Manitoba town.

Children were warned by their relatives to stay away from the strange, dark people. I first heard the scurrilous rhyme about the dangers of playing with Gypsies in yon wood from an aunt who freighted each word with omen.

It never occurred to us that people so well-supplied with children of their own would hardly be interested in adding us to their plenty. So we stayed away, and would discover one morning that the Gypsy families had loaded their wagons, hitched their horses, and vanished overnight.

I don't know where they spent the bitter winters, but expect that they headed for the cities.

Years later, when the depression was knocking out little stores and businesses in Vancouver, it was easy to tell when the Gypsies had come to town.

The horses and wagons were long gone by then. We would see instead battered trucks or cars parked in line outside one store or two which had been empty for months.

Faded curtains masked the street-facing windows. This was the Gypsy camp, transported under shingles.

The police kept a casual eye on the occupants, but I don't recall that these were much interfered with. Some of the women told fortunes without benefit of seer's licence. The men might trade in cars as they had once dealt in horses, or do such pot-and-pan tinkering as they could drum up in those close-hauled times. I suppose in total, they were at least as poor as most of us.

Once as a junior reporter I was sent to interview a clutch of Gypsies who had moved into a vacated store in the East End. It was a triumph of non-communication.

From the sidewalk, I could hear men's deep voices, children's light patter, and a woman laughing. I opened the door on a sudden silence.

The silence continued while I explained my errand. One of the women, matriarchal in years and build, then asked me if I would like my palm read.

I produced 50 cents, hoping those two quarters would be recoverable on an expense account. My memory has slipped her reading; but if she possessed the gift, she might have predicted a short journey.

Once more, I tried to explain my purpose. Then two men, six-footers with splendid mustaches, seized me from either side. With no evidence of ill-will, they set me carefully in the street.

I have never held this gentle throwing-out against the Gypsies. After all, a people hustled and persecuted from one end of the earth to the other can be excused its suspicion of strangers.

What hurt was the waste of half a buck, which I never did recover.

"SWING LOW sweet nuclear device" could me hummed by youngsters using this modern plaything in Beacon Hill Park. Mrs. Freda Knott brought the toy to the attention of city hall today in a letter to Mayor Courtney Haddock protesting the installation of "bomb-swings" in city parks. "Are bombs such wonderful objects that we must make playthings in their image?" This morning city officials weren't sure who had selected the lethal looking swing with its USAF marking as a toy. But one suggested that it is "supposed to be a rocket-ship, not a bomb."

Wheat Exports Register Gain

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian wheat exports for the week ending April 1 totalled 5,100,000 bushels, more than both last week's 3,800,000 and the 900,000 bushels of the same week one year ago, the board of grain commissioners says.

The board said in its weekly report that the visible stocks of wheat decreased 1,100,000 bushels to a total of 417,500,000.

Farmers marketings of 5,600,000 bushels of wheat was less than the previous week's 9,100,000 bushels and the 6,600,000 total of the same week one year ago.

Lake head stocks of all grains totalled 84,200,000 bushels, greater than both the previous week's 81,400,000 and the 69,800,000 bushels of the same week one year ago.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG

Rapeseed maintained an aggressive exporter buying trade with prices higher at the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Commission houses were fairly active with early buying and some short-coverings.

Trading was light in flax with hedges and commission house offerings meeting moderate exporter demands. Prices were fractionally easier.

Oats, barley and rye prices remained steady throughout the day with light trading.

Volume of trade Wednesday included 1,236,000 bushels of rapeseed, 507,000 of flax and 36,000 of rye.

The man we want must be between the ages of 25 and 65. He must be married with family responsibilities. He must be a good citizen, active in community affairs. He must have an impeccable reputation. And a sincere desire to provide his family with a better than average living.

To such a man we can offer:

- The opportunity and challenge found only in the operation of his own business, and without having to make a substantial investment.
- A product training that is second to none, and could lead to a professional status, with sincere and diligent effort on his part.
- A substantial guaranteed income, plus exceptionally attractive incentives, that could provide a much better than average income. Last year this average was better than $12,500.
- The security and peace-of-mind found only in comprehensive employment benefits such as pension — disability income, group life insurance and medical coverages for himself and family.

Plus the advancement opportunity found in a large International Company having representation from Coast to Coast and is well and favorably known by a substantial clientele in this area.

If you are such a man, and have the sincere ability to work hard

Worried MLA to Visit Saturna Free School

Agnes Kripps, Social Credit MLA for Vancouver South, upset over alleged goings-on at the Saturna Island Free School, is flying to the island Friday to investigate.

Mrs. Kripps said this morning she has received complaints about the living conditions and education standards at the school, from parents of students, neighbors on the island and "other concerned people."

"I'd sure like to know what standards, if any, they have, and if we can even call it a school."

She said one man went to visit his son, an asthmatic, at the school and found he had been sleeping in a hayloft. "If these are the conditions these kids are living under, then we've got to do something about it."

"It's all very well for kids to play in the fields, running around chasing butterflies, but they also have to get a decent education. Having a good time is fine, but you must get an education that meets the standards of this province. Many of the kids there are under 15, the compulsory age for education in B.C."

Mrs. Kripps said she has been trying to reach the school and its founder, Tom Durrie, for the past three days, but has had no luck.

"There's never anybody there," she said, "I phoned some of the neighbors and they said I'd better bring enough pills, because I may be sick."

The school was established by Durrie, a former California teacher, in the fall of 1968, on a 27-acre farm on the island. The staff of six teachers and about 20 students live together on the farm and no formal classes are held. Students eat, sleep and learn when they feel like it, according to Mrs. Kripps.

This morning the staff at the school expressed surprise when informed of Mrs. Kripps planned trip.

Rini House, a teacher, said, "We haven't heard anything about this. Nothing about Mrs. Kripps, and no complaints as far as I know."

She added, "I can see where people would get a little uptight about kids sleeping in a haylofs, but we've had no complaints about the living conditions. As for the 'educational standards,' well, that's what this place is all about."

Officials Jittery Over Hearing

By JIM HUME

A $3 million apartment project in Victoria was scheduled to run the gauntlet in a public hearing this afternoon.

Only six Victoria city aldermen were expected to be present when Danzo and Franco Holdings made a final bid for the re-zoning of property close to Spencer Castle to clear the way for construction of 122 luxury garden apartment suites.

And that simple fact was giving the developers and city officials pre-meeting jitters.

For the rezoning to be approved two thirds of council must cast favorable ballots.

Mayor Courtney Haddock was unable to attend this afternoon's meeting because of illness, Ald. Peter Pollen is in Japan and Ald. Clyde Savage in California.

UNANIMOUS

The rezoning bid could still pass muster, but only with a unanimous vote of the six council members expected at the meeting.

Complicating the issue is the legal ruling which states that only aldermen present for a public hearing can vote on the final presentation of a zoning bylaw.

In other words if council permitted this afternoon's public hearing to go ahead, but held the council vote until a full council could be mustered, only the six aldermen present at the hearing would be entitled to vote.

A few minutes before the council meeting city officials were still undecided what to do.

They knew that residents of the Spencer Castle area were to be out in full force to protest the garden apartment development.

At 2 p.m. city officials were still trying to decide whether to gamble on a unanimous vote after hearing objections from residents, or whether to announce before the hearing began that the entire presentation and hearing was postponed for two weeks.

VoW Protesting War Gas Move

A telegram has been sent to Prime Minister Trudeau by the Victoria Voice of Women requesting that emergency medical facilities be set up along the water route of a proposed shipment of nerve gas from Okinawa to Oregon.

The U.S. defence department is establishing emergency medical stations in Washington and Oregon in the event of a gas leak.

"We want Ottawa to do the same thing here since the nerve gas shipment will pass through the Juan de Fuca Strait with possible damage resulting to Canadian waters and population," Mrs. Mavis de Girolamo, VOW president, said today.

Copies of the telegram have been sent to T. C. Douglas, national NDP leader, and David Anderson, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

"We also sent a telegram to Health Minister Loffmark urging him to support the request," said Mrs. Girolamo.

The Voice of Women a month ago sent petitions signed by thousands to Ottawa and Washington protesting the shipment of gas, but got nowhere.

"Our group was shocked by the arrogance of the U.S. which consistently ignored protests against the shipment," said Mrs. Girolamo.

Other Greater Victoria groups are also opposed to the gas shipment.

Bob Munro, president of The Collective, a student action group at the Institute of Adult Studies and the University of Victoria, said a similar telegram will be sent by his organization.

The U.S. government has not yet announced a date for the shipment.

However, a number of Oregon and Washington residents have asked for a hearing before a U.S. district judge to deal with the possibility of issuing a temporary injunction against the shipment.

Residents claim the nerve gas transport would violate their constitutional right to safety.

The hearing is Monday.

Quadruplets Born

SYDNEY (Reuters) — A 24-year-old Australian housewife has given birth to quadruplets, doctors announced Sunday. They said two boys and two girls were born eight weeks prematurely Friday to Mrs. Pauline Upton, who has two other children. Condition of the quads was "reasonably satisfactory."

'Live Better' Clinic Opens Here

A hospital administrator, four doctors and a social worker have opened shop in Victoria to help people "to live a little bit better."

The quote is the motto of the Health Education Centre, at 3019 Shakespeare St., opposite the Hillside Shopping Centre. Opened Wednesday by acting mayor Cecil Parrott, the centre is a non-profit organiaztion which will be supported by donations.

It will be a place where people can meet professionals, such as doctors, for advice on a variety of health issues, explained T. J. Bradley, administrator at Resthaven Hospital and one of the organizers.

Doctors will volunteer their time to advise, but the centre will not be for diagnosis or treatment. The advice will be free, with the exception of the first program which begins Sunday night.

That program will be for people who want to quit smoking. It carries an incentive fee of $10 and comprises five evening meetings, beginning Sunday and ending Thursday. Films for the program have cost the centre $500.

The course is practically guaranteed to bring results, said Bradley. Anyone interested should come to the centre at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Dr. Kenneth Thornton, director of laboratories at Royal Jubilee Hospital and speaker at Wednesday's opening, said preventative medicine has been an area too long neglected.

And it can pay off, he said.

Catching typhoid can mean 10 days in hospital which costs about $500. Stopping typhoid from spreading, by food handlers could be achieved by something as simple as a 25-cent cake of soap.

Drugs Threaten All, Brothers Warns

Education Minister Donald Brothers said today that if the Parent-Teacher Associations want to undertake a worthy project "they could begin to inform themselves as quickly as possible about the dangers of drugs."

Speaking to the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation convention in New Westminister he said PTAs could view films available from local health offices, and listen to competent speakers in their area.

"While many students are ill-informed about drugs, many parents are uninformed," he said.

"Parents should not delude themselves into thinking that the drug problem strikes out only at those children who are neglected or depressed or lower strata of society."

"The drug trafficker strikes out at everyone and anyone. He claims his victims from all levels of society and even reaches into the best homes in the nation."

"It is ironic that the people who should know the most about it and be on guard against it and be able to advise those who will be afflicted, know the least about it,, if they know anything about it at all — I am speaking, of course, about parents."

Brothers said the education department has held a special seminar and films were purchased for school use and a wide range of educational programs undertaken by schools and school boards.

"If I can leave the Parent-Teacher Federation with any message today, it is to inform themselves and to inform others about the terrible problem of drugs."

He said parents should set an example for their children to follow, should be leaders, and should advise their children who are students about the "disastrous effects," of drug use.

Brothers also said one of the major problems in the school system today is a "chronic" shortage of classrooms caused by rapid population growth. He said some people claim the government seriously curtailed school construction in 1969, but in fact the government authorized expenditure of $66 million on the largest construction program in the province's history.

Drug Warning Given

MADRID, Spain (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Robert C. Hill warned young Americans Wednesday to "cool it" with narcotics in Spain. Hill said 12 Americans are in jail for narcotics violations and another 40 are in jail awaiting trial. The ambassador's comments came in a statement which he said would be put in poster form and put up across Spain wherever Americans gather.

Committee Approves Name Change

OTTAWA (CP) — To the apparent surprise of many of its members the Commons justice committee Thursday approved a bill changing the name of Dominion day to Confederation Day.

The committee met to vote on a private bill proposed by James Brown (L—Brant) which would have substituted Canada Day for Dominion Day.

But amidst a burst of astonished laughter, the committee voted 7 to 6 in favor of an amendment which replaced the words Canada Day by Confederation Day. The amendment was proposed by Douglas Hogarth (L—New Westminster).

Prisoners Entertained

The Village Squires and Totem Tones — an organization of 56 male singers — entertained prisoners at William Head minimum security Penitentiary Tuesday night.

Among the singers were two Victoria policemen and a city detective.

"We had a really captive audience," said George Holden, a hospital employee, who sings with the Village Squires.

Both the Village Squires and the Totem Tones are members of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing of America.

They are celebrating this week as Harmony Week in common with fellow societies all over Canada and the United States.

U.S. Rejects Arctic Claims

Contractors' Lockout Plan 'Irresponsible'

By AB KENT

B.C. contractors' planned lockout of 30,000 building and construction tradesmen was branded irresponsible by B.C. Federation of Labor president E. T. Staley today.

Notice to lock members of seven building trade unions out of $200 million worth of construction projects after 3:30 p.m. Monday has been given by the Construction Labor Relations Association, representing about 600 contractors across the province.

CLRA said its unprecedent move is spurred by exhorbitant union wage demands and charged that the construction unions are "not prepared to bargain seriously."

A spokesman for CLRA said contractors are "fed up to the teeth" with wildcat strikes, work interruptions and the "whipsawing of one segment of the industry against another" and are "determined to bring order to chaos."

Staley said he is upset at the move, and other labor leaders said they are surprised, although the B.C. and Yukon Building Trades Council had been briefed Monday on what contractors planned to do.

"In my opinion this is a bit irresponsible," Staley said. "I don't think they can settle a dispute by spreading it to the entire industry."

He said only the Teamsters Union, out of the seven named, have a legitimate dispute with employers. These are the drivers of cement trucks involved with Ocean Cement and Lafarge on the lower mainland.

'Not in Legal Position'

"They may be able to lock these people out legally. Are they going to lock out the carpenters, the plumbers, the electricians? They are not in a legal position to do this," Staley said.

He said there are contracts in effect with the unions, although negotiations for new agreements are in progress, with at least two near settlement.

An Amalgamated Construction Association spokesman said the machinists, iron workers and boilermakers also are nearing settlement.

A lockout could seriously disrupt these negotiations, Staley said, perhaps placing agreements in jeopardy.

"Last year everyone thought this was going to be the year of the big explosion in the construction trades, in the pulp mills, in the IWA," Staley said.

He said unionists had gone into negotiations this year with a great sense of responsibility to their unions and to the people of B.C. to try to forestall a massive confrontation.

"For the contractors to take this move now at this stage is completely irresponsible. It is amazing to me that the contractors could take this step and throw it all out the window."

Employers 'Regret Need'

The seven unions named by CLRA are the teamsters, laborers, tunnel and rock workers, bricklayers and helpers, heat and frost insulators, operating engineers and cement masons.

Charles J. Connaghan, president of CLRA said Wednesday the organization "deeply regrets having to take lockout action, but it has been clear that some unions are not prepared to bargain seriously." He said contract demands are unrealistic and that ultimately, it is the public which must pay.

Another CLRA source said the lockout notice is serious. "They intend to do it. It is no frivolous action and it sure as hell isn't a bluff."

Staley said if the notice is just a threat to the construction trades, and if the industry does not carry out its intention, "this is irresponsible too."

CLRA said the situation had been "building up for some time."

If 60 per cent of the construction industry was going to shut down within a few days in any event, by the teamsters-concrete industry standoff, and a strike of laborers also seemed inevitable and would effectively put an end to other construction, contractors felt the time to serve lockout notice was ripe.

But the move had not been made "without a great deal of

Bail for Crux Almost Complete

VANCOUVER (CP)—A. G. Duncan Crux, former president of Commonwealth Trust Co. who faces fraud and theft charges, was expected to be freed on $100,000 bail today, his defence counsel said Wednesday night.

Lawyer Jack McGivern said $75,000 property bail was posted Wednesday and the remaining $25,000, from an unidentified bondsman, was to be processed today.

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. state department rejected today the idea expressed in proposed new Canadian Arctic legislation saying: "The U.S. does not recognize any exercise of a coastal state's jurisdiction over our vessels on the high seas."

State department spokesman Robert McCloskey added that the United States "does not recognize the right of any state unilaterally to establish a territorial sea of more than three miles or exercise more limited jurisdiction in any area beyond 12 miles.

"Therefore," he added, "we regret the introduction of this legislation by the Canadian government which . . . constitutes a unilateral approach to a problem we believe should be resolved by co-operative international action."

REFERS TO BILLS

The spokesman was commenting on two bills that received first reading in the House of Commons Wednesday.

One would push the Canadian territorial sea to 12 miles from the present three. The other was aimed at preventing an oil spill in the delicate Arctic environment.

At the same time the Canadian government announced that it had served notice at the United Nations that it would not recognize jurisdiction of the International Court of Justic in any claims that might arise from the pollution bill.

McCloskey said it is "a most complex issue" and that his statement today allows for further contacts with the Canadian government.

He said the U.S. and the Canadian governments "have discussed these issues over a long period of time" and that the "Canadian government is fully aware of our views."

He declined to be drawn into specifics on the degree of consultations on the two bills.

IS QUESTION MARK

Some observers in Ottawa were keeping a long-range eye focused on the U.S. supertanker Manhattan, now on its second voyage into the Canadian Arctic to test ice conditions there. It's being suggested that the Manhattan could conceivably turn around and head back to a U.S. port in view of the Canadian initiative.

If this happened—it presumably would be at the instigation of the U.S. government. If the vessel proceeds into the Arctic, it may be a tipoff that Washington will continue trying to avoid a direct clash with Canada on the sovereignty issue.

Officials here insist that only one of the two bills given first reading Wednesday involves directly an assertion of Canadian sovereignty, though Canada continues to maintain its claim to sovereignty over the entire Arctic region.

The bill in question is an amendment to the Territorial Sea and Fishing Zones Act of 1964, and extends Canadian territorial waters to 12 miles from the nearest coast. Until now, Canada has claimed a three-mile territorial sea, with an additional nine miles reserved for fishing purposes to Canadians.

NOT PRECEDENT

The U.S. follows the same three-plus-nine principle. Fifty-seven other countries, however, claim a territorial sea of 12 miles or more.

One important effect of the change introduced Wednesday would be formally to proclaim Canadian control over Barrow Strait, a key channel on the eastern side of the Northwest Passage.

Canada would grant foreign vessels innocent passage through the strait — as through all its territorial seas — but would reserve the right of inspection to see that any given voyage is, in fact, innocent.

This means, in the context of the government's current main preoccupation, the right to see that the vessel concerned is adequately equipped with pollution-safety devices.

Israeli Raids Go On Despite School Tragedy

Times News Services

Israeli jets returned to Egypt today and bombed targets along the Suez Canal despite an international furore over Cairo reports that Israeli jets killed 30 school children Wednesday and Arab threats to avenge their deaths.

A spokesman in Tel Aviv said the planes today hit military targets in the central and southern sectors of the canal in a half hour raid.

Although Cairo accused the Israelis of bombing a school, Israeli defence minister Mosher Dayan of Israel said the Egptians have only themselves to blame.

STORE OWNER CHARGED IN COWICHAN DEATH

LAKE COWICHAN — RCMP officers here have charged a store operator with criminal negligence following a fatal shooting early today.

Dead is Stanley William Bigcharles, 21, of Haney, employed as a tree planter.

Charged with criminal negligence causing death is Helmut Berthold George Merkel, 42, whose furniture store is on the main street here.

Initial reports on the incident were sketchy but informants said five people were involved in an alleged break-in at the rear of the store, prior to the shooting.

Police, who are continuing the investigation, have seized a rifle.

Negro MP Favors Anti-Hate Bill

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The Commons continued its debate on the government's anti-hate bill today but a dramatic speech by Parliament's lone Negro member earlier will likely remain the highlight.

Conservative Lincoln Alexander, formidable debater from Hamilton West, is among other things, an extremely popular member of his party.

In clearly the most moving speech so far in the debate, he told his colleagues he wants to see the bill become law.

"I know a little about the black man's position because I am black and proud of it."

And in supporting the bill, Alexander, a lawyer, said he was not speaking as a Conservative or as a member of any political group.

"I am thinking about this problem as a man whose conscience is being affected, as a man who has some awareness of what it means to be a member of a minority group."

GETS TOTAL ATTENTION

For the first time in the debate, there was absolute silence in the chamber, as Alexander, a tall, powerful figure replied to complaints that the bill would affect freedom of speech.

"Mr. Speaker, what does a mother say to her child who comes running home crying

Cambodians Say 300 Cong Killed

Times News Services

Cambodian troops killed 300 Viet Cong guerrillas in strategic Svey Rieng province today after being battered and driven back Wednesday during heavy fighting, official sources said here.

Only light casualties were reported among Cambodian local militia and regular army troops took part in the battle in the important province bordering South Vietnam, the sources said.

The reports came as the Cambodians stepped up military activities in the province, launching a big push against the Viet Cong around the provincial capital of Svey Rieng. The Cambodians are trying to edge the Viet Cong from the province and recapture the border post of Bavet and the village outpost of Chi Phu.

Cars attempting to leave Svey Rieng town in the direction of the fighting were turned back Wednesday as refugees streamed along the road from Chi Phu. Journalists returning to Phnom Penh Wednesday night said all people of Vietnamese origin were being searched in Prasaut, midway between Svey Rieng and Chi Phu.

The sources said the Viet Cong were resisting the Cambodian campaign to oust them despite the use of MiG-17 aircraft to strafe them.

An estimated 20,000 Cambodian troops are sweeping the area, where the Viet Cong have long been entrenched and supplied through the port of Sihanoukville.

Greene Says U.S. Lags

TORONTO (CP — Federal Energy Minister J. J. Greene charged Wednesday night that the United States is lagging behind Canada in efforts to stop pollution of the Great Lakes.

Greene said in an interview that lack of action by the U.S. is "frustrating for Canada which does only 10 per cent of the polluting in the lakes."

He said he will ask U.S. officials to hold an immediate top level conference to discuss the pollution.

Greene charged that some U.S. cities on the lakes still are dumping raw sewage into the lakes.

He said Ottawa's gradual ban on detergent phosphates is a "futile gesture if Americans continue to put no limitations on them."

A treaty between Ottawa and Washington may be necessary to overcome pollution, said Mr. Greene, who was here for a federal-provincial conference on mercury pollution of the lakes.

CONTROL COUNCIL

In Washington today President Nixon established a national industrial pollution control council made up of 53 United States industrialists.

He said in a statement the group will "provide a means by which the business community can help chart the route" for co-operative industry-government efforts to cope with environmental problems.

Chairman of the group is Bert S. Cross, 64, of St. Paul, Minn., chief executive officer of Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans will keep an eye on the work of the council. He will name additional members later.

Nixon said the council "will allow businessmen to communicate regularly with the president, the council on environmental quality and other government officials and private organizations which are working to improve the quality of the environment."

FREE-SWINGING CONSUMERS' SESSION

By JACK SCOTT

New legislation covering food packaging and labelling is in the works at Ottawa, but no amount of law-making can equal the shopper's Golden Rule: "Don't hand over your dollar until you get what you want."

That was the message that strengthened the morale of some 250 women and a scattering of men—three times the number that had been expected—when the Greater Victoria School Board's adult education division joined with the Victoria branch of the Consumers' Association of Canada last night in a free-swinging attack on the high cost of groceries.

The reassurance came from Lois Smith, British Columbia consultant for the Department of Corporate and Consumer Affairs, whose life, she confessed, is tuned to a continuous bleat of protest from consumers demanding fair play in the market place.

Packed House

The slight, stylish troubleshooter for Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Ron Basford told a packed audience at the Institute of Adult Studies: "You needn't feel defeated. There is a way of getting satisfaction by individual action. But there's no law that will protect us from our own gullibility.

Her words were echoed by E. L. Devlin, British Columbia regional director of the Food and Drug Directorate.

Said he: "There's a great deal of protection on the books—standards must be met on everything from rye whisky to mayonnaise—but the consumer must learn to search it out and use it. Besides that, there's no greater weapon than the customer's displeasure."

Some of that displeasure was evident by a wide-ranging barrage of questions to a panel of experts and an ominous murmur of approval when Mrs. Norma Morriss, former provincial government nutritionist, gave examples of what she called "The Great Supermarket Hoax."

"Involved and meaningless information on packages," said Mrs. Morriss was the main reason why housewives are unable to fulfill their responsibility as selective, informed, value-conscious shoppers.

Mrs. Morriss brought her own illustrated groceries to the meeting to help demonstrate commonplace problems in the marketplace.

One can presented a full-color rotagravure of spaghetti and succulent meat balls—but there were no meat balls inside. Another illustrated mouth-watering slices of chicken that turned out to be chopped-up bits and pieces inside.

'You Don't Know'

A box of corn flakes, labelled "the all-time favorite, fortified with three essential vitamins" was offered as an example of irrational information. Said Mrs. Morriss: "There are 88 different kinds of cereal in my market. No women has the time, the patience or the guidance in the face of this tremendous proliferation to know which is the best value. You just don't know what you're reading."

A behind-the-scenes expert

GETTING THE MESSAGE on the art of consumerism, an unexpectedly large turnout of shoppers Wednesday night heard a panel of experts offer guidance on how to stretch a dollar. The Focus on Food Forum, jointly sponsored by the Greater Victoria School Board's adult education division and the Greater Victoria branch of the Consumers Association of Canada, aired the complaints of harassed housewives and offered a variety of solutions for The Supermarket Blues.
